A WORD FROM DCC PRESIDENT
DR. BRIAN SMITH

We believe that the mission of Dallas Christian College is vital for Christians in the 21st century. Preparing students to become people of influence as followers of Christ in their homes, professions, and communities has never been more important than now. At DCC, you will find this extraordinary opportunity to be both educated and mentored so that you may discover and follow your calling as you engage in the work of Christ both in the Church and in the world. It is our deepest desire that our students will become the kind of people who will live out their personal missions as they seek to accomplish Christ's mission of reconciling all of humanity to Himself in whatever context they live and serve.

Brian D. Smith, Ph.D.
President of the College

GENERAL INFORMATION

DALLAS CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

PRESIDENT: BRIAN D. SMITH, PH.D.

History

Near the midpoint of the twentieth century, many Texas Christians recognized the need for leadership in their churches and for starting new churches. On May 10, 1949, former missionary Vernon Newland met with forty concerned Texas church leaders. They discussed establishing a Bible college in Texas to train leaders for Christian ministry in the tradition of the Restoration Movement (Stone-Campbell Movement). Dallas Christian College (DCC) thus opened for classes on September 12, 1950, to educate the evangelistic leadership of Texas and the Southwest.

DCC has flourished over the years. It has grown from two downtown Dallas locations to its third location on twenty-two acres in the historic northwest Dallas County community of Farmers Branch. With over five thousand students in DCC's history, graduates serve in various ministries throughout the nation and the world.

Many outstanding Christian men and women have served DCC as trustees, faculty, staff, and administrators. The College has been blessed by the following men who have served as President: Vernon M. Newland (1950-1952, 1964-1968), J. Thomas Segroves (1952-1960), Harold D. Platt (1963-1964), E. Dean Barr (1968-1973), Melvin M. Newland (1973-1981), Charles A. McNeely (1982-1984), Gene R. Shepherd (1985-1994), Keith H. Ray (1995-1998), John L. Derry (1998-2003), Dustin D. Rubeck (2004-2014), and Brian D. Smith (2014-present).

In 1978, DCC secured institutional accreditation by the American Association of Bible Colleges (AABC), which is now known as the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE). The ABHE Commission on Accreditation is a national faith-related accrediting organization recognized by the United States Department of Education (USDE) and the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA).

At the undergraduate level, DCC currently offers associate and bachelor's degrees featuring a variety of majors and minors. DCC's curriculum combines biblical studies with professional studies and general education courses—all taught from a Christian worldview. The College provides instruction in varying formats, including (1) traditional on-campus courses; (2) DCC Online, which offers students the opportunity to earn a degree via the Internet in an asynchronous format that does not require everyone to log in at the same time; and (3) FLEXCampus®, the summer online program that enables both traditional and non-traditional students to progress more quickly toward graduation. FLEXCampus® makes possible DCC's "Degree in 3" program through which students may earn a four-year baccalaureate degree in only three years.

In 2003, the State of Texas authorized DCC to offer alternative teacher certification. DCC's Alternative Certification Curriculum to Ensure Student Success (ACCESS) allowed persons with a bachelor's degree the opportunity to earn public school teacher certification by attending an eight-week block of instructional courses followed by supervised teaching in the public school system for one year. ACCESS evolved into the current Alternative Certification Program (ACP). In 2015, the Texas Education Agency (TEA) approved DCC's on-campus Bachelor of Science in Education and Bible through which students who pass state requirements may earn Texas State Teaching Certification. DCC's degree is uniquely designed to meet the requirements for both Texas state certification and certification by the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI).

In June 2023, DCC gained ABHE level change approval and THECB Texas state approval to award degrees at the master level. In January 2024, the College launched its first graduate degree program, the Master of Transformative Ministry. Other graduate degrees soon followed, including the College's first programs offered using Competency-Based Education (CBE) and Competency-Based Theological Education (CBTE) teaching models.

DCC students participate in an active plan of Christian service and chapel attendance. They serve in volunteer, internship, and full-time capacities in area congregations and on ministry teams of praise and proclamation to churches, youth groups, and the inner city. DCC faculty and staff lead in their home congregations, provide counsel to Metroplex churches, and speak throughout Texas and the Southwest.

Each year since 2008, DCC has held Kingdom Week, a mission emphasis week in March (and sometimes an extended week in May) in which the College hosts trips to other cities and countries. Through Kingdom Week, students learn about other peoples and cultures while discovering more about God and themselves. Faculty, staff, students, and alumni may also participate in Kingdom Week serving locally, nationally, or internationally.

Dallas Christian College strives to meet the educational needs of an increasingly diverse student body and to encourage leadership of churches and Christian organizations in Texas, the Southwest, and around the globe. With the Holy Spirit's guidance, DCC serves Christ with the aim of extending God's Kingship over all.

Mission Statement to be people of influence, engaging in their calling to the work of Christ in the Church and in the world.*

Dallas Christian College—Since its founding in 1950, training for Christian ministry and service to the church have been at the core of the College's mission. This commitment continues through educational and mentoring programs for a diverse group of students preparing for a variety of careers.

Educates—The College offers a course of post-secondary instruction leading to associate, baccalaureate, and master's degrees. The undergraduate curriculum rests upon a broad foundation of liberal arts and biblical studies, culminating in a major field of study. These academic programs, combined with strategic co-curricular opportunities, provide an education from a biblical worldview that prepares students to enter professional fields or graduate studies.

Mentors—The College fosters a culture of mentoring that begins in the classroom and permeates most student activities. Students progress through a mentoring program designed to help them be successful citizens of God's Kingdom. The mentoring experience covers a broad spectrum, from academic tutoring and life coaching to spiritual formation and service.

Students—The College provides access to educational opportunities and resources that meet the needs of a diverse student population. Programs are offered through multiple delivery platforms to degree-seeking and non-degree students.

People of influence—People of influence are those who engage in their calling to the work of Christ to make a positive impact on the world.

Engaging in their calling—This combination of Christian education and mentoring develops students who are learning from and within a biblical worldview, growing as disciples of Jesus and disciple-makers for Jesus, developing their gifts and talents, identifying the mission and purpose to which Jesus has called them, and living as Christ’s ambassadors. Graduates engage the Kingdom of God in whatever context they are called.

To the work of Christ—Jesus accomplished the work of redemption through his death and resurrection, but the completion of that work is ongoing until His return. Jesus calls his people to glorify Him by joining in the completion of that work by serving in many different ways. This service to Christ can take many forms after graduation—e.g., a businessperson using her company as a redemptive force by training and employing abused women from shelters, an educator bringing the light of Jesus into the public classroom, one bringing hope and the love of God to the brokenhearted within the field of psychology, or a minister faithfully proclaiming the gospel and biblical truth to the Church.

In the Church—Whether a student is called into vocational church ministry or chooses to earn a living another way, DCC graduates will use their biblically-grounded influence to strengthen those churches to which they belong and to expand Christ’s Church throughout the world.

And in the world—The current global connectedness means that DCC graduates can have a positive impact on a global scale. They will act as salt and light in the world, bearing Christ’s love and transformative power into fallen sectors of human culture and enterprise.

Institutional Goals

The following institutional goals of Dallas Christian College flow out of its Mission Statement and its expansion:

1. Nurture spiritual, intellectual, and professional growth to equip students to engage in their calling to the work of Christ in the church and in the world.
2. Instruct students in biblical studies, liberal arts, and major fields of study by integrating significant texts, scholarship, and praxis.
3. Enable students through educational and mentoring experiences to understand themselves, to integrate a biblical worldview, to identify their gifts, and to develop spiritual disciplines in order for them to discover their calling to the work of Christ as it relates to the career they choose.

4. Direct students on a path to becoming people of influence by providing service experiences in varied cultural contexts.
5. Engage in the work of Christ as an institution by partnering with individuals, the Church, and other organizations with complementary missions.
6. Develop adequate human, financial, physical plant, information technology, processes, and support service to achieve DCC's mission.

Statements of Faith

Dallas Christian College's biblically-oriented and Christ-centered instruction emphasizes spiritual concerns. All trustees, faculty members, and other persons acting as recognized representatives of Dallas Christian College must be willing to affirm and support the following statements:

Statement of Faith. The Bible, or Holy Scriptures, alone is the divinely inspired Word of God, and therein is contained the revelation of the deity of Jesus Christ, the plan of salvation for mankind, and the faith and work of the Church; furthermore, that the testimony of such Scriptures testifies to prophecy concerning His advent, virgin birth, miraculous life, blood atonement, bodily resurrection, ascension into heaven, and final return, and is expressly and historically true in the commonly accepted meaning of the terms; in addition, that the Church of the New Testament ought everywhere to be restored with its divine plan of admission: faith, repentance, and baptism, with consequent godly life; and finally, that the Scriptures are wholly sufficient to build the kingdom of God.

Statement on Sexuality. We believe that God wonderfully and immutably creates each person as male or female. These two distinct, complementary sexes together reflect the image and nature of God (Gen. 1:26-27). Rejection of one's biological sex is a rejection of the image of God within that person.

Statement on Marriage. We believe the term "marriage" has only one meaning: the uniting of one man and one woman in a single, exclusive union, as delineated in Scripture (Gen. 2:18-25). We believe that marriage between one man and one woman, for life, uniquely reflects Christ's relationship with His rescue mission (Eph. 5:21-33). We believe that God intends sexual intimacy to occur only between a man and a woman who are married to each other (1 Cor. 6:18; 7:2-5; Heb. 13:4). We believe that God has commanded that no intimate sexual activity be engaged in outside of a marriage between a man and a woman.

We believe that any form of sexual immorality (including adultery, cohabitation, fornication, homosexual behavior, bisexual conduct, bestiality, incest, or use of pornography) is sinful and offensive to God (Matt. 15:18-20; 1 Cor. 6:9-10).

Statement on the Sanctity of Human Life. We believe that all human life is sacred and created by God in His image. Human life is of inestimable worth in all its dimensions, including pre-born babies, the aged, the physically or mentally challenged, and every other stage or condition from conception through natural death. We are therefore called to defend, protect, and value all human life. (Ps. 139)

Non-Discrimination Policy. Dallas Christian College offers a distinctly Christian curriculum and environment. In its educational policies, admission policies, scholarship and loan programs, and other school-administered programs, DCC does not discriminate on the basis of age, sex, race, color, national origin, ethnic group identification, socio-economic background, physical or mental disability, or veteran status. However, as a private religious institution, the College reserves the right to exercise preference on the basis of religion in all of its employment practices. All employees must demonstrate spiritual behavior in harmony with the methods and goals of the College and its Statement of Faith. It is DCC's policy to recruit, hire and promote within all job classifications on the basis of merit, qualification, competence, behavior, and spiritual commitment.

Dallas Christian College is supported by independent Christian Churches and Churches of Christ, a non-denominational fellowship known as the “Restoration Movement” with a heritage that began in the early 19th century. The plea of this movement is the restoration of New Testament Christianity through a commitment to the lordship of Christ, the authority of the Bible as God’s word, and the unity of God’s people toward the goal of world evangelism.

Principle of Equal Opportunity. Dallas Christian College offers a distinctly Christian curriculum and environment. DCC does not discriminate based on age, sex, race, color, or national and ethnic origin in educational policies, admission policies, scholarship and loan programs, or in other school-administered programs.

Principle of Equal Education Policy. In compliance with Title VI and Title IX of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, complete equality exists in the offering of all benefits to students without regard to sex, race, color, or national origin. INTRODUCTION TO ACADEMICS

Academic Organization

Senior Academic Administrator. The Vice President of Academics (VPA), Dr. Chris Davis, leads the academic division of Dallas Christian College. He reports to the President, who reports to the Board of Trustees. The VPA serves on the President's cabinet. His primary responsibility is to ensure alignment of every aspect of academic operations with the college mission and values, including programs, personnel, policies, facilities, and finances.

Nine Academic Departments. Dallas Christian College has organized its faculty into nine departments, with each focused on a particular academic field or discipline—namely, the (1) Arts and Sciences Department, (2) Bible and Theology Department, (3) Business and Leadership Department, (4) Dallas Graduate Institute for Global Studies, (5) Fidelis International Seminary, (6) Practical Ministries Department, (7) Social and Behavioral Sciences Department, (8) Sports Science Department, and (9) Teacher Education Department. Each department is led by a full-time faculty chair or director who reports to the Vice President of Academics. Each oversees all courses, programs, and other faculty assigned to that department. Faculty subject matter experts within each department oversee all academic programs related to their field, regardless of level (undergraduate or graduate), modality (on-campus or online), or location (main campus or other education sites).

DCC Academic Council. Academic decisions that affect only students within a given department or program are generally made at the departmental level (e.g., course curricula, practicum requirements). Decisions that require a broader perspective are made by the Academic Council, which includes the Vice President of Academics (chair), the Associate Academic Dean/Director of Institutional Effectiveness, faculty department chairs or program directors, the Registrar, the Director of the Crawford Library, the Vice President of Student Development and Enrollment Management, and the President (ex officio). Others may participate on a non-voting basis as requested by the Vice President of Academics. The Academic Council is responsible for the quality, content, design, and assessment of the College's curriculum. It approves new full-time and part-time faculty hires (granting faculty status); faculty promotions; sabbatical proposals; academic programs and courses, including General Education Core requirements; and academic policies, such as admission standards, attendance requirements, and the academic calendar.

Academic Support Services. A professional staff works alongside the faculty to provide academic support services for faculty and students. Examples include textbook, advising, registrar, library, tutoring, and technical services (see the section of this catalog detailing “Student Support Services”).

*Degree Completion Programs: Students who transfer 45+ credits to DCC with a 2.25+ cumulative grade point average (GPA) may elect to enter an online baccalaureate “degree completion program” (DCP). These programs speed students toward graduation by (1) requiring a Bible Minor rather than a full Bible Major, and (2) applying more transfer courses to the degree as Open Electives. In accordance with ABHE accreditation standards, students who enter DCC with fewer than 45 credits may not shift to a DCP after completing more credits.

Types of Degree Programs

The American education system consists of “preschool” and “kindergarten” (typically ages 2-5), “elementary education” (grades 1-6, ages 6-12), “secondary education” (grades 7-12, ages 13-18), and “higher education” (college and university programs, ages 18+).

The higher education system awards “degrees”—that is, diplomas signifying that a student has successfully demonstrated the competencies associated with a prescribed course of study. There are four basic types of degrees—namely, associate’s, bachelor’s, master’s, and doctor’s degrees. Each degree lays a foundation for the next degree level above it (see diagram below). Dallas Christian College defines these degree levels as follows:

Associate’s Degrees. The first degree beyond secondary education is the associate’s degree, which includes a minimum of 60 credit hours. Some associate’s degrees provide a broad foundation without specialization, while other “professional” associate’s degrees include specific competencies for particular vocations. DCC associate’s degrees typically include five major components: (1) a 25-27 credit General Education Core that lays a broad, coherent foundation for students’ college studies and for lifelong learning as servants of Christ; (2) a 12-credit Bible Core that lays foundations for biblical literacy and spiritual formation; (3) a 12-15 credit Professional Component that develops foundational competencies related to the student’s chosen vocation or discipline; (4) Open Electives, which enable students to explore additional areas of interest; and (5) Christian Service experiences in various cultural contexts. All associate degree programs are aligned with the mission and goals of Dallas Christian College, which facilitate students’ spiritual, intellectual, and professional growth.

At the associate’s level, DCC seeks to equip students with:

- Essential habits and skills for lifelong learning, such as the ability to read, write, and speak clearly; think critically and develop reasoned arguments; locate and use information resources; utilize computer technology; and work well with others
- Basic content and methodologies of the principal areas of knowledge, including the Humanities, Social and Behavioral Sciences, Natural Sciences, and Mathematics.

- Foundations for biblical literacy and spiritual formation.
- The ability to form, maintain, and enjoy healthy relationships with others, including persons from different backgrounds and cultures.
- Where applicable, foundational professional knowledge and skills (professional associate degree programs).
- Knowledge, skills, and competencies needed to pursue a bachelor's degree in a related field.

Bachelor's Degrees. The bachelor's or "baccalaureate" degree includes a minimum of 120 credit hours (60 hours beyond the associate's degree). DCC baccalaureate degrees typically include five major components: (1) a 31+ credit General Education Core that lays a broad, coherent foundation for students' college studies and for lifelong learning as servants of Christ; (2) a 30+ credit Bible Major for traditional students or 18-credit Bible Minor for degree completion students, which promotes biblical literacy, biblical interpretation, and spiritual formation; (3) a 30+ credit Professional Major that develops competencies related to the student's chosen vocation or discipline; (4) Open Electives, which enable students to explore additional areas of interest; and (5) an internship or student teaching, which enables students to gain professional practice in context. All baccalaureate degree programs are aligned with the mission and goals of Dallas Christian College, which facilitate students' spiritual, intellectual, and professional growth.

At the bachelor's level, DCC seeks to develop in students:

- Highly developed habits and skills for lifelong learning, such as the ability to read, write, and speak clearly; think critically and develop reasoned arguments; locate and use information resources; utilize computer technology; and work well with others.
- Basic content and methodologies of principal areas of knowledge, including Humanities, Social and Behavioral Sciences, Natural Sciences, and Math.
- Biblical literacy and spiritual formation.
- The ability to form, maintain, and enjoy healthy relationships with others, including persons from different backgrounds and cultures.
- A theological foundation, theoretical framework, and practical skills for Christian leadership.

- A philosophical and theoretical framework for practicing one's chosen discipline or profession.
- An ethical and theological framework for exercising one's discipline or profession as a servant of Christ (integration of faith and vocation).
- General acquaintance with professional tools and literature, along with basic research skills.
- Entry- and intermediate-level knowledge, skills, and competencies for one's chosen discipline or profession.
- Practical experience in one's chosen discipline or profession.
- Knowledge, skills, and competencies needed to pursue a master's degree in a related field.

Baccalaureate Degree Completion Programs (DCP). Students who transfer 45+ credits to DCC with a 2.25+ cumulative grade point average (GPA) may elect to enter an online baccalaureate "degree completion program" (DCP). These programs speed students toward graduation by (1) requiring a Bible Minor rather than a full Bible Major, and (2) applying more transfer courses to the degree as Open Electives. In accordance with ABHE accreditation standards, students who enter DCC with fewer than 45 credits may not shift to a DCP after completing more credits.

Of the 120 credits needed to complete the baccalaureate degree, 39+ must be completed in the Upper Division (3000- or 4000-level courses).

Students in Degree Completion Programs (DCP) must fulfil the Bible and Theology requirements for their chosen degree. They must complete a minimum 12 credits of Bible or Theology while enrolled in the DCP program. These are in addition to any Bible credits students may have earned at DCC or any other institution prior to entering the program.

Master's Degrees. A master's degree includes no fewer than 30 credit hours beyond the bachelor's degree. Graduates demonstrate further mastery of a specialized discipline resulting in high-level professional practice. All master's degree programs are aligned with the mission and goals of Dallas Christian College, which facilitate students' spiritual, intellectual, and professional growth.

At the master's level, DCC seeks to develop in students:

- Advanced experiential knowledge, skills, and competencies for one's chosen profession, which enable graduates to mentor others in that profession.

- A highly developed philosophical and theoretical framework that enables students to exercise their professions in contextually appropriate ways.
- A highly developed ethical and theological framework for exercising one's profession as a servant of Christ (integration of faith and vocation).
- Active involvement with professional tools and literature, along with advanced research skills.
- Advanced practical experiences in one's chosen discipline or profession.
- Advanced expertise in a specialized discipline, which enables them to conduct research in the field.
- Christian commitment displayed in active discipleship and participation in Christ's redemptive mission to the nations.
- Knowledge, skills, and competencies needed to pursue a doctoral degree, a professional credential, and/or licensure in a related field.

Doctoral Degrees. DCC currently offers no doctoral degrees. However, a doctor's degree or "doctoral degree" or "doctorate" typically includes no fewer than 60 credit hours beyond the bachelor's degree (including the prerequisite master's degree). Doctoral programs develop advanced expertise in a specialized discipline, which enables students to conduct research and make original contributions to the theory and/or practice of that field.

Undergraduate versus Graduate Degrees. Traditionally, the first degree earned at a college or university was the bachelor's degree. Accordingly, students who have not yet graduated with a bachelor's degree are referred to as "undergraduate students," and associate's and bachelor's degrees are called "undergraduate degrees." Students who graduate with a bachelor's degree and then continue with more advanced studies are "graduate students," and master's and doctoral degrees are called "graduate degrees."

First-, second-, third-, and fourth-year undergraduate students are traditionally called "freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors."

Lower versus Upper Division Courses. In many cases, an associate's degree represents essentially the first half of a bachelor's degree. Thus, DCC sometimes uses the term "Lower Division" to refer to undergraduate courses taken at the associate's level (i.e., freshman or sophomore courses numbered 1000-2999). More advanced undergraduate studies (i.e., junior or senior courses numbered 3000-4999) are called "Upper Division" courses. All DCC courses at the level of 1000 or above meet transfer-level accreditation standards. Courses below the level of 1000 are considered preparatory and will not transfer.

As they progress through the Lower Division into the Upper Division, DCC intentionally moves students toward higher levels of intellectual activity and professional skill. Accordingly, Lower Division courses generally exhibit the following characteristics:

- Breadth—understanding the extent of a discipline and how it relates to other fields of study.
- Foundations—principles, terms, methods, literature, and perspectives of a discipline as a basis for more specialized study; basic analytical thinking and theoretical application
- General Competencies—essential skills, attitudes, and practices (such as reading, writing, speaking, critical thinking, and problem solving) as preparation for more advanced studies and lifelong learning.
- Knowledge, Comprehension, Interpretation, and Application—a focus on acquiring and remembering basic facts and concepts related to a discipline, understanding those facts in context and relating them to other fields and processes, and applying this knowledge to new situations.
- Academic Rigor and Dependence—rigor appropriate for foundational courses with students dependent on instructors as subject matter experts
- Preparation—courses typically require few college-level prerequisites.

Upper Division courses generally display the following characteristics:

- Depth—in-depth study of a discipline’s theories and methods, including understanding of the applications and limitations of those theories and methods; awareness and use of scholarly literature in the field.
- Specialization—intellectual and professional abilities necessary for success and progress in a given field; intellectual and professional skills necessary for graduate studies.
- Refinement of Competencies—applying general competencies and skills more discerningly and in more challenging contexts

- Analysis, Evaluation, Synthesis, and Creation—a focus on advanced analytical and evaluative skills, integrating and synthesizing knowledge and insights from a variety of sources, and solving problems creatively.
- Increased Rigor and Independence—greater responsibility and independent learning on the part of the student
- Preparation—courses often require Lower Division prerequisites.

Arts versus Sciences. The most common types of undergraduate degrees are the Associate of Arts or Associate of Science, and the Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science.

The term “science” refers to any branch of knowledge concerned with establishing and systematizing facts, principles, and methods. Examples include biology and geology (examples of “natural sciences” aimed at understanding the physical world), psychology and economics (examples of “social sciences” or “behavioral sciences” aimed at understanding people in groups), and mathematics.

The term “art” refers to any branch of creative work and its principles, especially making or doing things that display special form, beauty, or insight. Examples include painting, sculpture, and architecture (sometimes called “visual arts” or “fine arts”); music, drama, and dance (sometimes called “performing arts”); and poetry and prose (sometimes called “literary arts”).

Undergraduate programs are called “arts” degrees or “science” degrees depending on their major focus. At DCC, Bachelor of Arts degrees usually include 12+ credits of foreign language study, whereas Bachelor of Science degrees typically include more Open Electives. DCC strongly encourages the B.A. degree for students pursuing a ministry major—especially those who intend to preach, teach, or pursue graduate studies in seminary. The B.A. includes 12 credits of Greek Language and Greek Exegesis, which are so valuable for studying the New Testament.

Apart from the A.A., A.S., B.A. and B.S., DCC also offers more specialized types of undergraduate degrees, such as the Associate of Applied Science in Business and the Bachelor of Sports Science in Athletic Coaching.

Majors and Minors. A bachelor’s degree must, by definition, include a “major”—that is, an integrated series of courses focusing on a particular field or discipline. At DCC, a “major” must include a minimum of 30 credits, typically with the majority of those credits in the Upper Division. Traditional baccalaureate students at DCC complete a “double major”—that is, a Bible Major plus a professional major in their field or discipline of choice.

Students pursuing a DCC baccalaureate degree have the option of adding a minor(s) to that degree beyond the normal program requirements. A “minor” is a shorter series of courses focusing on a particular field or discipline. At DCC, a minor includes a minimum of 18 credits, at least half of which must be in the Upper Division (3000- and 4000-level courses). The sections of this catalog devoted to each academic department include descriptions of any minors offered by that department.

The following policies govern the offering of minors:

- Students may add a minor to any bachelor’s degree program that does not include that specific area of study as its major and/or as noted otherwise. Students may not add minors to associate’s degrees.
- A maximum of six credits may be counted toward both a minor and any core area of the student’s baccalaureate degree plan. A minimum of nine hours of the minor must be taken in the Upper Division (3000- and 4000-level courses).
- At least 9 credits within the minor must be completed at Dallas Christian College.
- The proper sequencing of courses to include a minor in a degree program is the student’s responsibility.
- DCC awards minors and places them on transcripts only when the baccalaureate degree is awarded.

Concentrations. Some undergraduate majors include a “concentration,” which consists of advanced, specialized courses focusing on a particular aspect of the student's chosen field or discipline. One example is the B.S. in Business and Bible, for which students may choose a concentration in Business Administration and Ethics, Leadership, or Sports Management.

Certificates. DCC occasionally forms groups of courses into certificate programs. A "certificate" consists of 12-30 credit hours in a focused area of study.

Academic versus Professional Degrees. "Academic" degrees (e.g., M.Phil. and Ph.D., Th.M. and Th.D.) advance the theory of a given field typically through original research, while "professional" degrees (e.g., M.Min. and D.Min., M.Ed. and Ed.D.) advance the practice of a given profession through applied research and field investigations.

Terminal Degrees. Doctorates are also called "terminal degrees" because, as the highest-level degree, they typically represent the end point or "termination" of one's formal education. In some fields, such as Fine Arts, the highest degree typically offered is the master's degree. Thus, for example, the Master of Fine Arts (M.F.A.) degree is sometimes called a "terminal master's degree."

Credits. Studies required for a degree program are measured in "credit hours." In accordance with traditional U.S. higher education standards (the "Carnegie Unit") and regulations issued by the U.S. Department of Education, DCC defines an undergraduate "credit hour" as representing about 37.5 clock hours of active engagement in learning activities inside and/or outside the classroom for an average student.

Distinctive Characteristics of DCC Professional Majors and Graduate Programs

In accordance with Dallas Christian College's mission and educational goals (described above), every professional major and graduate program gives attention to:

- Specialized knowledge, skills, and attitudes pertinent to a given field or discipline.
- Philosophical approaches and theoretical models for engaging in that field or discipline.
- Significant practical experiences in that field or discipline.
- Legal and ethical issues related to that professional field or discipline.
- Worldview issues raised by that professional field or discipline.

- Integration of faith and learning—that is, the ongoing quest to understand the discipline in all its complexity from within the framework of a Christian worldview, and then to live out its moral and spiritual implications at the levels of intellectual assumptions, motivations, and applications.
- Biblical principles, theoretical bases, and practical skills for Christ-like servant leadership in that field or discipline.
- Contemporary models and case studies of how Christians have used that discipline or profession to promote the Kingship of God and carry out His redemptive work in the world.
- Development of the student’s personal philosophy for practicing that discipline or profession as a Christian ambassador for the Lord.

In short, DCC professional majors and graduate programs equip students to think and act theoretically, practically, theologically, and redemptively in their chosen disciplines and professions.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS AND PROGRAMS

Introduction

Academic programs offered by Dallas Christian College include essentially three types of courses:

General Studies. General Education courses expose students to various aspects of God’s Creation and the human community. Students gain foundational knowledge of a wide range of subjects, including history; world civilizations and cultures; religion; philosophy; languages; literature; fine arts; mathematics; natural sciences, such as biology; and social and behavioral sciences, such as psychology and sociology. Students gain important life skills and tools for lifelong learning, such as reading and listening with understanding; critical analysis and interpretation; written and oral communication; information literacy; computer technology and tools; cultural competency; and principles for developing and maintaining healthy minds, bodies, and relationships.

Since all Creation comes from the Creator, all true knowledge and understanding—all true education—has its source in Him. Dallas Christian College therefore does not accept a sharp division between the sacred and the secular, as if God were not Lord of all Creation, all branches of knowledge, and all disciplines. Instead, as Justin Martyr said, “Whatever truth has been uttered by any man in any place belongs to us Christians” (Second Apology 13:4). As the Apostle Paul wrote, “We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ” (2 Corinthians 10:5). As Solomon declares, “Reverence for the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and knowledge of the Holy One is understanding” (Proverb 9:10).

Biblical Studies. At DCC, thoughtful interaction with God’s authoritative word serves as the integrative instrument for all educational programs. Such study helps students develop a Christian worldview—that is, an understanding of God and His Creation grounded in God’s Self-revelation as recorded in the Scriptures. A Christian worldview enables students to view life holistically; it gives meaning and purpose to all the knowledge and skills they gain at the College. A Christian worldview is the added dimension of a DCC education that sets it apart from education gained at a secular college or university. Other schools may address the whats and the hows, but Dallas Christian College also addresses the whys. Other students may learn where the human race has been, but DCC students also learn where it is headed. Others may explore how life could be lived, but DCC students explore how it should be lived. Faculty members integrate a biblical worldview into every discipline they teach.

Professional Studies. In accordance with its stated mission, Dallas Christian College seeks to “educate and mentor students to be people of influence, engaging in their calling to the work of Christ in the Church and in the world.” Therefore, in developing its professional majors and programs, DCC has targeted fields that offer numerous opportunities for graduates to build mentoring relationships through which they can influence others for Christ. These fields include Christian ministry, education, business, psychology, coaching, criminal justice, and others.

Educating the Whole Person. By requiring learners to complete studies in all three areas—General, Biblical, and Professional—Dallas Christian College develops the whole person. Graduates emerge as well-rounded individuals able to think critically, practically, and theologically as they face the challenges of life as servants and ambassadors of Christ.

Program Approval. For over 70 years, the Dallas Christian College “family” has remained committed to carrying out its mission and its educational ministry. All degree programs offered by DCC have been approved by departmental faculty, the Academic Council, administrators, and the Board of Trustees. The Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) has certified that DCC’s academic programs and support services meet its accreditation standards.

Academic Programs

The Arts and Sciences Department oversees the following academic programs and program components. All faculty departments contribute to development of the General Education Core Curriculum through their chairs, who sit on the Academic Council. However, most Core courses are implemented through the Arts and Sciences Department. General Education Core courses appear as requirements in all undergraduate programs.

Degree Completion Programs: Students who transfer 45+ credits to DCC with a 2.25+ cumulative grade point average (GPA) may elect to enter an online baccalaureate “degree completion program” (DCP). These programs speed students toward graduation by (1) requiring a Bible Minor rather than a full Bible Major, and (2) applying more transfer courses to the degree as Open Electives. In accordance with ABHE accreditation standards, students who enter DCC with fewer than 45 credits may not shift to a DCP after completing more credits.

General Education Core Curriculum

Purpose. In accordance with its mission, Dallas Christian College “educates and mentors students to be people of influence, engaging in their calling to the work of Christ in the Church and in the world.” The General Education Core Curriculum emerges from the College’s conviction that all students need an understanding of themselves, their world, and their community, combined with the ability to think and communicate effectively.

The General Education Curriculum was informed by the Texas Core Curriculum and is required in all DCC undergraduate degree programs. This foundation prepares students to apply this knowledge in their major and to become people of godly influence who appreciate the Creator’s entire domain.

Student Learning Objectives. The General Education Core is designed to accomplish the following student learning objectives:

1. Employ critical thinking across educational disciplines. (Critical Thinking & Information Literacy)
2. Construct and deliver effective written and oral communication. (Communication)
3. Articulate a biblical worldview and engage with those with a different worldview. (Worldview)
4. Connect past cultural context to the current cultural context. (Cultural Intelligence)

Course Requirements. General Education requirements vary a bit depending on the focus of a given program. However, DCC’s associate degrees typically include the following required courses:

Academic Policies Related to General Education and DCC Foundations

Developmental Studies. Dallas Christian College uses high school and college transcripts, standardized test scores (e.g., ACT or SAT), and proficiency tests to assess students' readiness for key General Education Core courses. Those who need a stronger foundation in these areas are placed in Developmental Studies (DVLS) courses. Students may appeal this placement with a challenge exam.

Developmental Studies courses may meet for up to three hours per week. Students may not withdraw from these courses and must earn a minimum grade of B- before advancing to 1000-level General Education Core courses in the same subject area. If students fail to pass the Developmental course with at least a B-, they must repeat that course at the next available opportunity.

Credit hours earned through Developmental Studies courses do not apply toward degree requirements and are not transferable to other colleges. However, they are included in student's cumulative grade point average (GPA).

Undergraduate English Policy. Students in all DCC undergraduate degree programs are required to complete ENGL 1310 Composition I. To qualify to enroll in this course, students must meet one of the following benchmarks:

- TSIA Writing – 5 or higher on the essay section or 4 or higher on the essay section combined with a 340 or higher on the multiple-choice section
- ACT – 19 or higher
- SAT – 450 or higher
- GED – 165 or higher

- TAAS – 1770 or higher (writing) and 89 or higher (reading)
- TAKS – 2200 or higher
- STAAR (English III EOC) – 4000 or higher
- Transfer course credit grade of “C” or higher

Students who do not meet one of these benchmarks must complete DVLS 0310 Developmental Reading and Writing with a minimum grade of B- in order to advance.

Students who achieve a score of 29+ on the ACT English exam or 650+ on the SAT Verbal exam are exempt from ENGL 1310 Composition I. Based on the exam, they receive 3 credits by demonstrated competency for that course.

Since later courses build on writing skills, DCC students must complete ENGL 1310 Composition I and ENGL 1320 Composition II as early as possible in their college career. Students who have not yet passed these courses are required to enroll in them every semester they are available until this requirement is met.

Undergraduate Mathematics Policy. Students in all DCC undergraduate degree programs are required to complete one of the following three Mathematics courses: MATH 1310 College Algebra, MATH 1332 College Mathematics, or MATH 2342 Introduction to Statistics. To qualify to enroll in these courses, students must meet one of the following benchmarks:

- TSIA 350 or higher
- ACT – 19 or higher
- SAT – 450 or higher
- GED – 165 or higher
- TAAS – 86 or higher
- TAKS – 2200 or higher
- STAAR (Algebra II EOC) – 4000 or higher
- Transfer course credit grade of “C” or higher

Students who do not meet one of these benchmarks must complete DVLS 0105 Developmental Math with a minimum grade of B- in order to advance.

Students who achieve a score of 29+ on the ACT Math exam or 650+ on the SAT Math exam are exempt from the General Education Math requirement. Based on the exam, they receive 3 credits by demonstrated competency for MATH 1332 College Mathematics.

Since later courses build on writing skills, DCC students must complete ENGL 1310 Composition I and ENGL 1320 Composition II as early as possible in their college career. Students who have not yet passed these courses are required to enroll in them every semester they are available until this requirement is met.

Undergraduate Bible Policies. All DCC undergraduate programs require students to complete either Bible Core courses, a Bible Minor, or a Bible Major. All full-time, degree-seeking students are required to enroll in a minimum of one Bible or Theology course each Fall or Spring Term until all degree requirements in this area have been fulfilled.

Students in DCC Degree Completion Programs (DCP) must likewise fulfill Bible and Theology requirements for their chosen degree. They must complete a minimum 12 credits of Bible or Theology while enrolled in the DCP program. These are in addition to any Bible credits students may have earned at DCC or any other institution prior to entering the program.

Developing Christian Influence (DCI). All undergraduate students enrolled for 6+ credits during the Fall or Spring Semester are required to enroll in CHRS 1000 Developing Christian Influence, regardless of the number of semesters they have already participated. This program is designed to contribute to students' spiritual formation through involvement in a community of faith, mentoring, Christian service, and special projects. Students do not receive academic credits for CHRS 1000, but participation is tracked and is required for graduation.

Associate Degree Program

Associate of Arts in Humanities

(on-campus, online, or hybrid)

Program Coordinator: Mark Fish, Ph.D.

Overview. DCC's Associate of Arts in Humanities program broadens and deepens students' understanding of God's word and human cultures, better equipping them to engage the world professionally, intellectually, and socially as ambassadors of Christ. Students investigate the development of world civilizations, worldviews, and cultures through interdisciplinary studies as wide-ranging as history, literature, religion, philosophy, ethics, psychology, sociology, economics, government, music, and fine arts. The associate degree prepares students for further studies at the baccalaureate level.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the A.A. program in Humanities in three modalities: (1) on-ground at its campus in Farmers Branch, Texas; (2) fully-online; and (3) a hybrid format that combines on-campus and online studies. DCC Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates. For on-campus students, an online “course companion” includes a gradebook and supplementary materials.

Baccalaureate Degree Programs

Bachelor of Science Interdisciplinary Studies Major & Bible Minor

DEGREE COMPLETION PROGRAM**

(on-campus, online, or hybrid)

Program Coordinator: Mark Fish, Ph.D.

Overview. DCC's Bachelor of Science program in Interdisciplinary Studies allows students to pursue an individualized program of study to accomplish personal and vocational goals, including the ability to combine differing fields of interest to achieve the desired learning outcomes.

Students develop a specific program of study and rationale in consultation with the program coordinator and one or more academic advisors qualified to oversee their progress. Alongside the General Education Core and Bible Minor, the Interdisciplinary Studies Major must include two concentrations drawn from any academic field offered at Dallas Christian College. Within those concentrations, they may choose appropriate courses from the categories of Business, History, Literature, Ministry, Psychology, Criminal Justice, Sports Science, or Social Science.

The program includes an Interdisciplinary Studies Internship. Graduates leave prepared to pursue personal and/or professional goals, which could include further master-level study.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the B.S. in Interdisciplinary Studies in three modalities: (1) on-ground at its campus in Farmers Branch, Texas; (2) fully-online; and (3) a hybrid format that combines on-campus and online studies. DCC Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates. For on-campus students, an online "course companion" includes a gradebook and supplementary materials.

Degree Completion Program (DCP). This Degree Completion Program (DCP) is designed for students who transfer 45+ credits to DCC. For a full description of the requirements to qualify for DCP, see “Baccalaureate Degree Completion Programs” in the section of this catalog providing an “Introduction to Academics.”

Bachelor of Science
Interdisciplinary Studies Major & Bible Major

(on-campus, online, or hybrid)

Program Coordinator: Mark Fish, Ph.D.

Overview. The Bachelor of Science program with a double major in Interdisciplinary Studies and Bible allows students to pursue an individualized program of study to accomplish personal and vocational goals, including the ability to combine differing fields of interest to achieve the desired learning outcomes.

Students develop a specific program of study and rationale in consultation with the program coordinator and one or more academic advisors qualified to oversee their progress. Alongside the General Education Core and Bible Major, the Interdisciplinary Studies Major must include two concentrations drawn from any academic field offered at Dallas Christian College. Within those concentrations, they may choose appropriate courses from the categories of Business, History, Literature, Ministry, Psychology, Criminal Justice, Sports Science, or Social Science.

The program includes an Interdisciplinary Studies Internship. Graduates leave prepared to pursue personal and/or professional goals, which could include further master-level study.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the B.S. in Interdisciplinary Studies and Bible in three modalities: (1) on-ground at its campus in Farmers Branch, Texas; (2) fully-online; and (3) a hybrid format that combines on-campus and online studies. DCC Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates. For on-campus students, an online “course companion” includes a gradebook and supplementary materials.

Purpose. The B.S. program in Interdisciplinary Studies and Bible allows students to pursue an individualized program of study to accomplish personal and vocational goals.

Consistent with DCC’s mission and institutional goals, the General Education Core, Bible Major, and Interdisciplinary Studies Major together accomplish the following student learning objectives:

General Education Core

1. Employ critical thinking across educational disciplines. (Critical Thinking & Information Literacy)
2. Construct and deliver effective written and oral communication. (Communication)
3. Articulate a biblical worldview and engage with those with a different worldview. (Worldview)

A maximum of six credits may be counted toward both a minor and any core area of the student’s baccalaureate degree plan. *Degree Completion Programs: Students who transfer 45+ credits to DCC with a 2.25+ cumulative grade point average (GPA) may elect to enter an online baccalaureate “degree completion program” (DCP). These programs speed students toward graduation by (1) requiring a Bible Minor rather than a full Bible Major, and (2) applying more transfer courses to the degree as Open Electives. In accordance with ABHE accreditation standards, students who enter DCC with fewer than 45 credits may not shift to a DCP after completing more credits.

Biblical Education

Purpose. In accordance with its mission, Dallas Christian College “educates and mentors students to be people of influence, engaging in their calling to the work of Christ in the Church and in the world.” Toward that end, DCC actively seeks to help every student gain a solid grounding in the Christian Scriptures and the Christian faith.

Under the oversight of the Bible and Theology Department,

- Every DCC associate degree includes a 12+ credit Bible Core.
- Every baccalaureate-level degree completion program (DCP) includes an 18+ credit Bible Minor or equivalent.
- Every other baccalaureate degree includes a 30+ credit Bible Major.

These vital degree components promote biblical literacy, biblical interpretation, and spiritual formation.

Student Learning Objectives. DCC’s Bible Major and Bible Minor are designed to accomplish the following student learning objectives:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of the general content of the Bible.
2. Demonstrate understanding of core theological concepts.
3. Competently exegete selected biblical passages.
4. Articulate a coherent biblical view of call and work.

Together with the professional degree components, they develop in students:

- A theological foundation, theoretical framework, and practical skills for Christian leadership.
- An ethical and theological framework for exercising one’s discipline or profession as a servant of Christ (integration of faith and vocation).
- The ability to think and act theoretically, practically, theologically, and redemptively in their chosen disciplines and professions.

Course Requirements. Bible and Theology requirements vary a bit depending on the focus of a given program. However, DCC’s Bible Minor and Bible Major typically include the following required courses:

Bible Minor (18 credits)

- BIBL 1331 New Testament Survey (3)
- BIBL 1332 Old Testament Survey (3)
- *BIBL 3301 Introduction to Biblical Research (3)

*Degree Completion Programs: Students who transfer 45+ credits to DCC with a 2.25+ cumulative grade point average (GPA) may elect to enter an online baccalaureate “degree completion program” (DCP). These programs speed students toward graduation by (1) requiring a Bible Minor rather than a full Bible Major, and (2) applying more transfer courses to the degree as Open Electives. In accordance with ABHE accreditation standards, students who enter DCC with fewer than 45 credits may not shift to a DCP after completing more credits.

Master's Degree Program

Master of Transformative Leadership

(online)

Program Co-Directors: Larry Thompson, Ph.D.; Lyndsey Neal, Ph.D.

Overview. The Master of Transformative Leadership (MTL) program equips students for dynamic leadership roles in which they join in Christ's transformative work in the world by bringing God-honoring holistic change that begins with themselves and extends to the individuals, communities, and organizations they serve. Course and project options allow students to explore personal interests, applying course insights to their own leadership contexts.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the Master of Transformative Leadership degree (MTL) in DCC Online format. Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates.

For the MTL program, the academic year consists of three 16-week “terms” (Spring, Fall, and Summer), each of which includes two 8-week “sessions.” Students complete the program in two years by taking one course per session year-round, with an extended break at Christmas and Spring Break. For graduate students, one course per 8-week session, or two courses per 16-week term, constitutes “full-time” status.

Each session-long MTL course lasts 8 weeks. Online course “weeks” always begin on Monday and end on Sunday. At the beginning of each session, online course sites open on the Friday prior to the course start on Monday. During that first week of each graduate session, formal learning activities do not begin until Thursday. Faculty use Monday through Wednesday to orient new students to the program. Returning students use the time to log onto the course website, introduce themselves to their instructor and fellow learners, review course syllabi, secure required textbooks, participate in course orientations, and get a head start on initial assignments.

The first MTL course, THEO 5310 The Emerging Kingship of God, is offered every session year-round. It provides a biblical and theological framework for the entire Master of Transformative Leadership program. All other MTL courses are offered in a rotating “carousel” system.

The MTL program operates on a “continuous enrollment” model in which new students may start the program at the beginning of any 8-week session. New students always complete THEO 5310 in their first session. They then join other students in the rotation and complete the full circuit leading to graduation.

MTL students are never required to come to campus or be online at the same time. This flexibility enables working adults to complete their graduate studies at the times of the week most convenient for them while also meeting their job and family responsibilities. It takes the average student about 14 hours per week to complete MTL course assignments. Students are strongly urged to build into their schedules regular study times throughout the week rather than trying to complete all their weekly assignments at the last minute. For example, devoting two hours per day to the MTL program enables students to log into the course site early in the week to review assignments and register their attendance, return mid-week to participate in discussion boards or other interactive learning experiences, and complete all their weekly assignments by the 11:59 deadline on Sunday evening.

Program Purpose, Goals, and Student Learning Objectives

Purpose. The Master of Transformative Leadership program equips students for effective, Christ-centered leadership within culturally diverse communities and organizations through development and transformation of both the leader and the follower.

Goal 1: Ground students in a theology of transformation that proclaims the emerging Kingship of God.

Objective 1.1: Students summarize the biblical metanarrative and Christians' role in it.

Objective 1.2: Students explain the concepts of the “emerging” Kingship of God (realized eschatology) and Missio Dei (mission of God) and their relevance for the Church and the world.

Objective 1.3: Students perceive the redemptive movement of God's Spirit in large and small manifestations of His Kingship in the past, present, and future.

Objective 1.4: Students describe biblical and historical examples of the missional Church engaged in holistic ministry and transformative social action that embody God's Kingship.

Objective 1.5: Students apply ethical principles in leadership contexts.

Objective 1.6: Based on critical evaluation of leadership models and theories, students articulate their personal philosophy of leadership.

Goal 2: Equip students for effective personal and relational leadership through psychological principles and spiritual formation.

Objective 2.1: Students develop and articulate a biblical concept of holistic spiritual formation.

Objective 2.2: Students engage classic literature and exercise spiritual disciplines that promote spiritual formation—that is, being with Christ, becoming like Christ, and participating in the work of Christ.

Objective 2.3: Students apply biblical principles, theory, practical skills, and strategies of self-leadership as balanced, healthy leaders of themselves and others.

Objective 2.4: Students integrate psychological principles, tools, and techniques into their leadership praxis to increase their effectiveness in shaping and guiding healthy, impactful communities and organizations.

Goal 3: Equip students for effective transformational leadership within the community that meets physical, emotional, relational, and spiritual needs.

Objective 3.1: Students practice and promote reciprocal and collaborative communication that enhances leadership effectiveness, team cohesion, collaboration, and group success.

Objective 3.2: Students demonstrate a sophisticated understanding of the knowledge, skills, and attitudes necessary to exercise cultural competence in professional and personal settings.

Objective 3.3: Students critically evaluate contemporary worldviews and cultures from a Christian perspective as they develop and implement redemptive ministry strategies.

Objective 3.4: Students analyze and evaluate contemporary models of holistic ministry employed by “missional” churches and parachurch organizations.

Goal 4: Equip students to effect organizational leadership through Kingdom-oriented planning, innovative leadership, and effective management.

Objective 4.1: Students analyze and assess organizational, local, regional, and global Market Viability Index (MVI) trends that shape the future of organizations, the Church, and the world.

Objective 4.2: Students critically assess organizational behaviors as well as an organization’s adaptability and willingness to change using industry-standard tools.

Objective 4.3: Students develop strategic plans that address organizational adaptability and success measurements through case studies.

Objective 4.4: Students practice essential leadership functions that prepare churches and organizations for transformation, including analyzing organizational culture, vision casting, renewing the organizational life cycle, strategic planning, and change management.

Goal 5: The Master of Transformative Leadership (MTL) program also develops habits of lifelong learning that fuel long and productive careers in leadership and service. Throughout the program, students critically engage thought leaders in key areas of leadership as they research issues and formulate practical, contextualized approaches to leadership challenges.

Master of Arts in Language Development and Translation

Program Director: Rebecca Pruett, M.A.

Overview. The Master of Arts program in Language Development and Translation (MA-LDT) equips students with the biblical foundations, theoretical frameworks, translation principles, technical skills, and professional values necessary for engaging with local populations in cross-cultural environments. It prepares them to facilitate the creation of appropriate tools for the introduction of transformational worldview change beneficial to their community. The program's competency-based educational model (described below) produces graduates ready to engage immediately in effective service helping communities produce translated materials of high moral character and fostering their widespread use towards human flourishing. The MA-LDT also prepares graduates for doctoral programs in related fields.

PBT Partnership. DCC developed the Language Development and Translation program in close collaboration with Pioneer Bible Translators (PBT) and other organizations active around the globe. These partners make invaluable contributions to the program in the form of student advising, expert instructors, graduate placement, and guidance from practitioners in the field on needs that influence program content.

Program Highlights include:

- Competency-Based Education emphasizing the acquisition and application of specific knowledge, skills, and dispositions relevant to multicultural engagement and cross-cultural mission work. This model ensures that graduates are not only well-versed in theoretical concepts but also capable of applying their knowledge, skills, and dispositions in real-world scenarios. The model also enables students to receive academic credit for MA-LDT competencies developed prior to entering the program, speeding their path to graduation.

- A Flexible Learning Environment designed to accommodate working professionals with diverse needs in various locations. Fully-online delivery and freedom to work at one's own pace enable students to balance academic pursuits with other commitments.
- Biblical Foundations ground students' understanding of the nature of the biblical text and develop their ability to interpret accurately the meaning of those texts in their original languages as a part of the process of transferring their meaning into new linguistic and cultural contexts.
- Cross-Cultural Capabilities. The program focuses on developing cultural intelligence, emphasizing the ability to navigate varied cultural contexts with appreciation and understanding. Competencies cover areas such as biblical theology, cultural anthropology, intercultural communication, spiritual formation, and strategies for building bridges across cultural divides with the goal of assisting local faith communities to acquire reliable and acceptable translated materials to guide their spiritual growth.
- Translation Principles and Practices Students develop practical capabilities in moving texts through the stages of translation while meticulously ensuring adherence to translation principles and communication theories. The program introduces students to the pragmatic and effective use of a wide variety of current linguistic and translation software.
- Global Perspectives. The curriculum incorporates global perspectives on multicultural ministry, preparing graduates to navigate the dynamic interactions of majority and minority language communities. Professional values nurtured in this program equip students to address the challenges and opportunities presented by an interconnected world while always keeping the gospel central.

Educational Model. Dallas Christian College offers the M.A. in Language Development and Translation (MA-LDT) in a fully-online, almost entirely asynchronous format through DCC Online program websites that facilitate interaction with faculty and fellow learners. Students are never required to come to campus and rarely required to be online at the same time. This flexibility enables working adults to complete their graduate studies at the times most convenient for them while also meeting job and family responsibilities.

DCC offers the program through an educational model known as Competency-Based Education (CBE). In this direct assessment approach, students develop the required competencies at their own pace and in the order they choose. To earn the MA-LDT degree, students must demonstrate (1) three corequisite competencies related to biblical languages and exegesis, which they develop before or during the M.A. program; (2) seventeen required competencies related to missiology, world-views and belief systems, language and culture acquisition, and translation; and (3) one to three elective competencies chosen according to their personal needs. Students do not graduate until the faculty declares them “competent” in every required program area.

For the sake of convenience, data management in DCC’s student information system (SIS), representation on transcripts, and transfer credit equivalence, the registrar and faculty have assigned each competency a prefix and number (similar to a course number), a name (similar to a course title), and a credit value based on the relative weight and complexity of a given competency. Thus, demonstrated competencies appear on student transcripts in the following format:

ANTH 5120 Participatory Research Methods (1 credit): COMPETENT
ANTH 5210 Applied Anthropology (2 credits): COMPETENT

However, these are not traditional “courses” or clock-based “semester credit hours” with a traditional A-F grading scale. Instead, they are weighted competencies. Students do not graduate based on time spent in the program or a cumulative grade point average (GPA) that may reveal strength in some areas while obscuring weaknesses in others. Again, the MA-LDT is a self-paced, direct assessment, competency-based program in which students do not graduate until the faculty declares them “competent” in every required program area. Transcripts represent the MA-LDT as equivalent to a 37-credit traditional master’s degree program.

The program operates as follows:

- Application and Admission. To enter the program, students complete the process outlined in the section of this catalog titled “Application & Admission.”
- Credit by Demonstrated Competency (CDC). The MA-LDT Program Director, in conversation with faculty, identifies any program competencies applicants may already possess. Students may demonstrate these competencies through, for example, transfer courses from other colleges and universities, work products, expert evaluations, and/or other direct assessments. DCC awards academic “credit by demonstrated competency” (CDC), acknowledging that students have already completed part of the degree requirements. Students pay an “M.A. Credit by Demonstrated Competency Fee” for every credit granted, which covers the cost of the evaluation. Students need not waste time repeating prior learning but can move directly toward developing the remaining program competencies. Alongside faculty, the MA-

LDT Program Director stands ready to assist students through academic advising and career guidance.

The College treats credits by demonstrated competency (CDC) as DCC credits since DCC did the evaluation and awarded the credits. Thus, CDC credits are taken into consideration when, for example, the registrar determines if students meet the College's residency requirements.

- Program Calendar. The program operates year-round over three 16-week terms—namely, Fall Term (typically late August through mid-December), Spring Term (early January through early May), and Summer Term (early May through late August).
- Program Websites. DCC has created one website for each competency within its DCC Online Moodle Learning Management System (LMS). The College has also created a central MA-LDT “hub” site with direct links to all the competency sites. The “hub” provides a program overview and access to the Graduate Orientation, DCC's extensive digital library resources, and other services. Each competency site includes (1) an orientation to that competency; (2) sub-competencies that delineate knowledge, skills, and dispositions essential to that competency; (3) learning activities designed to help students develop that competency, such as video presentations, books and journal articles, discussion forums, research papers, projects, and study strategies; and (4) assessment instruments and rubrics for demonstrating competence.
- Program Faculty. The program utilizes three types of faculty guides: (1) The “Program Director” assesses any credit by demonstrated competency (CDC), orients students to the program, and tracks their progress through it. (2) “Facilitators” are master- or doctoral-level instructors possessing a high level of expertise and experience in a given competency area(s). They help students navigate competency websites, clarify learning needs, recommend appropriate sequencing of learning activities, answer questions, and otherwise facilitate students' progress toward graduation. (3) “Mentors” are professor-practitioners holding doctoral-level academic credentials, broad-based expertise, and extensive field experience. The mentors alone oversee program requirements, curricula, and competency assessment.

Students notify the Program Director when they are ready to begin developing a new competency. The Director notifies the facilitator and mentor who oversee that competency. This triggers regular and substantive faculty interaction with the student as they guide him/her through the learning activities. Mentors and facilitators remain available to students year-round.

- Program Progress. At the beginning of each term (Fall, Spring, or Summer), students pay an “M.A. Subscription Fee” (tuition) that gives them access to the faculty and all materials and services within the program’s Moodle sites for the duration of that term. Learning resources and activities for almost all competencies are available all the time, so students must seldom wait for a desired offering. (Learning activities related to two competencies—MCEN 5210 Spiritual Formation and MCEN 5220 Cross-Cultural Team Dynamics—are offered in an interactive online format at designated times of the year.) When students feel prepared to demonstrate a given competency, the mentor meets with them via videoconference, assesses their readiness, grants permission to proceed, oversees the assessment process, and awards the grade of “Competent” to those who succeed. At that time, students pay an “M.A. Competency Assessment Fee,” and the registrar records the credits on their DCC transcript.

Students move through the program at their own pace, interacting with learning resources, fellow students, and faculty. By moving through the program as quickly as their circumstances allow, students save both time and money.

- Program Costs. As noted above, new students pay an “M.A. Credit by Demonstrated Competency Fee” for any credits granted based on competencies gained prior to entering the MA-LDT program. These fees cover the cost of the evaluation. Students pay an “M.A. Subscription Fee” at the beginning of each four-month term, which gives them access to online program resources and faculty for the duration of that term. DCC uses these funds to help cover the cost of Moodle and administrative services. Throughout the program, students pay an “M.A. Competency Assessment Fee” each time they demonstrate one of the required program competencies. DCC uses these funds to compensate faculty mentors and facilitators. For current fee rates, see the section of this catalog titled “Student Costs.”
- Program Tracking and Transcripts. Through the DCC Student Portal or the Moodle MA-LDT “hub” site, M.A. students may track their progress toward mastering each degree competency. Demonstrated competencies appear on a DCC transcript much like a “course.” Students do not graduate from the degree program until they demonstrate each and every required program competency.
- Transitioning to the Field. Since students leave the program “Competent” and fully capable of applying their knowledge, skills, and dispositions in the “real world,” they often move seamlessly into full-time work with DCC partners or other mission agencies seeking qualified team members. Some organizations require team members to demonstrate some MA-LDT competencies before going to the field and allow them to develop the remaining competencies online from the field. Such flexibility puts capable workers on the field more quickly.

Program Purpose. DCC’s Master of Arts program in Language Development and Translation (MA-LDT) prepares men and women to facilitate translation and engagement programs in cross-cultural settings while integrating Christian values and best practices in their approach, contributing to life transformation within communities, and promoting enduring access to the Bible for faith communities worldwide.

Program Competencies. The Master of Arts program in Language Development and Translation develops the following professional competencies. A brief description of each competency appears in the section of this catalog titled “Course Descriptions and Program Competencies.”

Master of Arts in Multicultural Engagement

Program Director: Linda Whitmer, Ph.D.

Overview. The Master of Arts program in Multicultural Engagement (MA-ME) equips students with the biblical foundations, theoretical frameworks, practical skills, and professional values necessary for navigating complex multicultural and cross-cultural environments with sensitivity and theological insight. The program’s competency-based educational model (described below) produces graduates ready to engage immediately in effective service as Christ-centered agents of change in a culturally diverse and interconnected world. The MA-ME also prepares graduates for doctoral programs in related fields.

PBT Partnership. Dallas Christian College developed the Multicultural Engagement program in close collaboration with Pioneer Bible Translators (PBT) and other organizations active around the globe. These partners make invaluable contributions to the MA program in the form of student advising, expert instructors, graduate placement, and guidance from practitioners in the field on needs that influence program content.

Program Highlights include:

- Competency-Based Education emphasizing the acquisition and application of specific knowledge, skills, and dispositions relevant to multicultural engagement and cross-cultural mission work. This model ensures that graduates are not only well-versed in theoretical concepts but also capable of applying their knowledge, skills, and dispositions in real-world scenarios. The model also enables students to receive academic credit for MA-ME competencies developed prior to entering the program, speeding their path to graduation.
- A Flexible Learning Environment designed to accommodate working professionals with diverse needs in various locations. Fully-online delivery and freedom to work at one's own pace enable students to balance academic pursuits with other commitments.
- Biblical Foundations ground students in God's redemptive vision for Creation and Christian principles for multicultural engagement. Students gain a deep understanding of how Christian faith informs and shapes perspectives on theological application and community engagement in diverse cultural contexts.
- Cross-Cultural Capabilities. The program focuses on developing cultural intelligence, emphasizing the ability to navigate varied cultural contexts with appreciation and understanding. Competencies cover areas such as mission theology, cultural anthropology, intercultural communication, advanced cross-cultural leadership, spiritual formation, and strategies for building bridges across cultural divides for the purpose of sharing the gospel and helping people find God.
- Community Engagement and Missional Service. A hallmark of this program is its emphasis on practical experience for missionaries and other cross-cultural workers. Students are encouraged to use both their past and present ministry contexts as educational environments.

- Ethical Leadership Across Cultures forms a central theme, preparing students to lead in multicultural settings with understanding, compassion, and integrity. Competencies address challenges and considerations for cross-cultural interactions as leaders motivate and guide multicultural teams toward a common goal.
- Global Perspectives. The curriculum incorporates global perspectives on multicultural engagement, preparing graduates to navigate both local and international contexts. This global outlook equips students to address the challenges and opportunities presented by an interconnected world while always keeping the gospel central.

Educational Model. Dallas Christian College offers the M.A. in Multicultural Engagement (MA-ME) in a fully-online, almost entirely asynchronous format through a DCC Online program website that facilitates interaction with faculty and fellow learners. Students are never required to come to campus or be online at the same time. This flexibility enables working adults to complete their graduate studies at the times most convenient for them while also meeting job and family responsibilities.

DCC offers the program through an educational model known as Competency-Based Education (CBE). In this direct assessment approach, students develop the required competencies at their own pace and in the order they choose. To earn the MA-ME degree, students must demonstrate (1) fourteen required competencies related to belief systems and multicultural engagement; and (2) three elective competencies chosen according to their personal needs. Students do not graduate until the faculty declares them “competent” in every required program area.

For the sake of convenience, data management in DCC’s student information system (SIS), representation on transcripts, and transfer credit equivalence, the registrar and faculty have assigned each competency a prefix and number (similar to a course number), a name (similar to a course title), and a credit value based on the relative weight and complexity of a given competency. Thus, demonstrated competencies appear on student transcripts in the following format:

ANTH 5120 Participatory Research Methods (1 credit): COMPETENT
ANTH 5210 Applied Anthropology (2 credits): COMPETENT

However, these are not traditional “courses” or clock-based “semester credit hours” with a traditional A-F grading scale. Instead, they are weighted competencies. Students do not graduate based on time spent in the program or a cumulative grade point average (GPA) that may reveal strength in some areas while obscuring weaknesses in others. Again, the MA-ME is a self-paced, direct assessment, competency-based program in which students do not graduate until the faculty declares them “competent” in every required program area. Transcripts represent the MA-ME as equivalent to a 37-credit traditional master’s degree program.

The program operates as follows:

- Application and Admission. To enter the program, students complete the process outlined in the section of this catalog titled “Application & Admission.”
- Credit by Demonstrated Competency (CDC). The MA-ME Program Director, in conversation with faculty, identifies any program competencies applicants may already possess. Students may demonstrate these competencies through, for example, transfer courses from other colleges and universities, work products, expert evaluations, and/or other direct assessments. DCC awards academic “credit by demonstrated competency” (CDC), acknowledging that students have already completed part of the degree requirements. Students pay an “M.A. Credit by Demonstrated Competency Fee” for every credit granted, which covers the cost of the evaluation. Students need not waste time repeating prior learning but can move directly toward developing the remaining program competencies. Alongside faculty, the MA-ME Program Director stands ready to assist students through academic advising and career guidance.

The College treats credits by demonstrated competency (CDC) as DCC credits since DCC did the evaluation and awarded the credits. Thus, CDC credits are taken into consideration when, for example, the registrar determines if students meet the College’s residency requirements.

- Program Calendar. The program operates year-round over three 16-week terms—namely, Fall Term (typically late August through mid-December), Spring Term (early January through early May), and Summer Term (early May through late August).
- Program Website. DCC has created one website for each competency within its DCC Online Moodle Learning Management System (LMS). The College has also created a central MA-ME “hub” site with direct links to all the competency sites. The “hub” provides a program overview and access to the Graduate Orientation, DCC’s extensive digital library resources, and other services. Each competency site includes (1) an orientation to that competency; (2) sub-competencies that delineate knowledge, skills, and dispositions essential to that competency; (3) learning activities designed to help students develop that competency, such as video presentations, books and journal articles, discussion forums, research papers, projects, and study strategies; and (4) assessment instruments and rubrics for demonstrating competence.

- Program Faculty. The program utilizes three types of faculty guides: (1) The “Program Director” assesses any credit by demonstrated competency (CDC), orients students to the program, and tracks their progress through it. (2) “Facilitators” are master- or doctoral-level instructors possessing a high level of expertise and experience in a given competency area(s). They help students navigate competency websites, clarify learning needs, recommend appropriate sequencing of learning activities, answer questions, and otherwise facilitate students’ progress toward graduation. (3) “Mentors” are professor-practitioners holding doctoral-level academic credentials, broad-based expertise, and extensive field experience. The mentors alone oversee program requirements, curricula, and competency assessment.

Students notify the Program Director when they are ready to begin developing a new competency. The Director notifies the facilitator and mentor who oversee that competency. This triggers regular and substantive faculty interaction with the student as they guide him/her through the learning activities. Mentors and facilitators remain available to students year-round.

- Program Progress. At the beginning of each term (Fall, Spring, or Summer), students pay an “M.A. Subscription Fee” (tuition) that gives them access to the faculty and all materials and services within the program’s Moodle sites for the duration of that term. Learning resources and activities for almost all competencies are available all the time, so students must seldom wait for a desired offering. (Learning activities related to two competencies—MCEN 5210 Spiritual Formation and MCEN 5220 Cross-Cultural Team Dynamics—are offered in an interactive online format at designated times of the year.) When students feel prepared to demonstrate a given competency, the mentor meets with them via videoconference, assesses their readiness, grants permission to proceed, oversees the assessment process, and awards the grade of “Competent” to those who succeed. At that time, students pay an “M.A. Competency Assessment Fee,” and the registrar records the credits on their DCC transcript.

Students move through the program at their own pace, interacting with learning resources, fellow students, and faculty. By moving through the program as quickly as their circumstances allow, students save both time and money.

- Program Costs. As noted above, new students pay an “M.A. Credit by Demonstrated Competency Fee” for any credits granted based on competencies gained prior to entering the MA-LDT program. These fees cover the cost of the evaluation. Students pay an “M.A. Subscription Fee” at the beginning of each four-month term, which gives them access to online program resources and faculty for the duration of that term. DCC uses these funds to help cover the cost of Moodle and administrative services. Throughout the program, students pay an “M.A. Competency Assessment Fee” each time they demonstrate one of the required program competencies. DCC uses these funds to compensate faculty mentors and facilitators. For current fee rates, see the section of this catalog titled “Student Costs.”

- Program Tracking and Transcripts. Through the DCC Student Portal or the online Gradebook, MA-ME students may track their progress toward mastering each degree competency. Demonstrated competencies appear on a DCC transcript much like a “course.” Students do not graduate from the degree program until they demonstrate each and every required program competency.
- Transitioning to the Field. Since students leave the program “Competent” and fully capable of applying their knowledge, skills, and dispositions in the “real world,” they often move seamlessly into full-time work with DCC partners or other mission agencies seeking qualified team members. Some organizations require team members to demonstrate some MA-ME competencies before going to the field and allow them to develop the remaining competencies online from the field. Such flexibility puts capable workers on the field more quickly.

Program Purpose. DCC’s Master of Arts program in Multicultural Engagement (MA-ME) prepares men and women to be transformative leaders in cross-cultural missional settings who integrate Christian values in their approach to multicultural engagement, contribute to uplift within communities, and promote global understanding and the advancement of God’s Kingship among all nations.

Graduate Certificate in Multicultural Engagement

Program Director: Linda Whitmer, Ph.D.

Overview. The Graduate Certificate in Multicultural Engagement equips students with foundational knowledge, skills, and attitudes necessary for navigating complex multicultural and cross-cultural environments with insight and sensitivity. The program's competency-based educational model (described below) produces graduates ready to support Christ-centered change initiatives in a culturally diverse and interconnected world.

Students are never required to come to campus or be online at the same time. This flexibility enables working adults to complete their graduate studies at the times most convenient for them while also meeting job and family responsibilities.

DCC offers the program through an educational model known as Competency-Based Education (CBE). In this direct assessment approach, students develop the required competencies at their own pace and in the order they choose. Fidelis International Seminary of Dallas Christian College

History. Founded in 1978, Team Expansion (<https://teamexpansion.org>) exists to multiply disciples and churches among the unreached peoples of the world. It partners with the global church to mobilize, train, and coach qualified workers in the implementation of fruitful practices of disciple-making movements.

In 2020, Team Expansion launched the Fidelis Project to address the need for emerging Christian leaders to have (1) a deeper grounding in the Bible and biblical theology, (2) a broader understanding of the Missionary God’s redemptive movements throughout history, (3) proven strategies and tools for effective disciple-multiplying ministries, and (4) greater physical and spiritual health to sustain long-term faithful service. (The Latin word “Fidelis” means “faithful, trustworthy, dependable.”) The Fidelis Project birthed an innovative approach to ministry education called Fidelis International Seminary (<https://www.fidelisproject.com>).

At the request of its leadership team, Fidelis International Seminary was placed under the umbrella of Dallas Christian College (DCC). Remaining true to Fidelis’ vision and purpose, DCC has accepted full responsibility for program design and curricula, qualified faculty, assessment of student learning, awarding academic credit and credentials, upholding ABHE accreditation standards, and overall quality control. Thus, emerging disciple makers who enroll in the “Fidelis International Seminary of Dallas Christian College” may earn a low-cost, accredited Master of Arts in Catalytic Leadership (described below).

Master’s Degree Program

Master of Arts in Catalytic Leadership

(launching March 2025 pending ABHE approval*)

(online or hybrid, cohort-based, direct assessment competency-based)

Program Director: Frank Schattner, D.Miss.

Overview. A “catalytic” Christian leader is a person who trains a new generation of faithful disciples and leaders in accordance with the principles of organic growth and multiplication described in texts such as Mark 1:17 (“I will send you out to fish for people”); John 15:8 (“bear much fruit, showing yourselves to be my disciples”); John 15:16 (“bear fruit—fruit that will last”); Matthew 13:8 (“seed fell on good soil, where it produced a crop—a hundred, sixty or thirty times what was sown”); 2

Timothy 2:2 (“entrust [discipleship training] to reliable people who will also be qualified to teach others”).

The Master of Arts program in Catalytic Leadership (MA-CL) equips students for leadership roles in disciple-making movements actively engaged in obeying King Jesus’ command to “go and make disciples of all nations” (Matthew 28:19).

The knowledge and skills students learn in this program are transformative and intended to become a permanent part of their Christian lives and ministries. During the program, students are expected to “multiply” their transformative impact by teaching others to do the same. Thus, MA-CL graduates are equipped—and experienced—in leading others to be faithful and reproducing disciples of Jesus.

The MA-CL is a direct assessment, competency-based program. Students do not graduate until the faculty declares them “Competent” in all program areas.

The 36-credit program consists of 12 courses, each of which includes 4-8 learning modules. This unique and innovative program is:

- Competency-Based: The MA-CL is not a traditional knowledge-based program in which students pass merely by reading about or writing about disciple-making movements. It is not a time-based program in which students pass by spending the required number of hours in class. It is not a credit-based or grade-based program in which students graduate by earning a minimum required cumulative grade point average (GPA) that demonstrates strength in some areas while possibly hiding weaknesses in others. Instead, the MA-CL utilizes a competency-based education (CBE) model in which students do not graduate until the faculty declares them “Competent” in all required program areas.
- Integrative: Every module promotes student growth in five competency areas: (1) Biblical Theology and Metanarrative; (2) Spiritual Formation through living in light of God’s written word and His presence; (3) training and participation in Disciple-Making Movements; (4) a Christian vision of Public Policy aimed at creating a civil society characterized by God-honoring virtue, freedom, and justice; and (5) Personal Wellness for long-term physical and mental vitality in ministry.
- Progressive: Each module builds on the prior modules for continuing growth in all required competencies throughout the program.
- Obedience-based: The MA-CL is also an obedience-based program from which students do not graduate until they actually obey Christ’s command to “make disciples” who, in turn, make other disciples. The program equips students with proven strategies and tools for discipling.

Accreditation. The new M.A. in Catalytic Leadership program has been approved by the Dallas Christian College academic council, administration, and board of trustees. The College has applied for approval from its ABHE accrediting body. DCC has institutional authorization to operate in the State of Texas and will file the required paperwork with the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB) to add the degree to its approved program inventory. The College anticipates it will have all these approvals by March or April 2025. For the status of these applications, contact DCC Accreditation Liaison Bruce Long at blong@dallas.edu.

Modality. DCC offers the M.A. in Catalytic Leadership in a cohort format in which small groups of students begin the program together, proceed through the learning activities, and graduate together. Cohorts complete their studies in one of two ways:

- Fully-online cohorts: All MA-CL learning modules appear on a Fidelis website (<https://path.fidelisproject.com/home/learn>). Cohorts meet exclusively online, interacting with one another through videoconferencing services such as Zoom. Thus, students are never required to travel to a campus or the same location. A Zoom link is included at the end of each module for a cohort meeting.
- Hybrid cohorts: Ideally, cohorts are formed by students living in the same geographical area. They access the learning modules online, but close proximity enables them to meet face-to-face and integrate the material together as a community. Thus, students participate in the M.A. program partly online and partly on-ground, a hybrid format.

Since the M.A. program is delivered largely or fully online, students need a good internet connection and a laptop or other device capable of using tools such as YouTube, Zoom, and Kindle or other digital reading options.

Program Distinctives. The Fidelis Master of Arts in Catalytic Leadership program is distinctly:

- Accessible and Affordable in that students at any location tied to the internet may access MA-CL learning materials and complete the entire program online at low cost.
- Relational in that students journey through the program as part of a cohort or community of like-minded students who are committed to the Lord, actively engaged in disciple-making, seeking to learn and grow, and ready to support one another in that endeavor. The program employs a “flipped classroom” model: Prior to cohort meetings, students work through learning modules on the program website that employ readings, videos, ministry practice, and other educational tools. In cohort meetings, leaders make frequent use of the Socratic method to help students integrate and internalize program materials while strengthening critical thinking skills.

- Timely and Flexible in that new cohorts may start the program at any time of year. Cohorts typically complete one module per week. At this rate of study (plus breaks for Christmas and other holidays), students complete the master's degree in about 18 months. However, the timeframe could be longer or shorter depending on the pace chosen by the cohort.
- Practical and Application-Oriented rather than merely "academic." Fidelis faculty love education and believe that the transformation of the mind is essential to whole-self conformity to the image of Christ by the power of His Spirit in the ongoing process of sanctification. The MA-CL program does require a high degree of intellectual rigor for students. For example, while studying God's creation narrative in Genesis, they are also exploring the latest advancements in modern science pointing to Intelligent Design. While considering Public Policy, they are studying the philosophical underpinnings of a God-centric society developed over past centuries. However, the key factors for success in the MA-CL program are not based on learners' ability to compose well-written thesis papers but on their personal discipleship and practical application of God's written word to the task of fulfilling Christ's Great Commission.
- Competency-Based Education (CBE) with Direct Assessment, which ensures that graduates are not only well-versed in theoretical concepts but also capable of applying their knowledge, skills, and dispositions in real-world scenarios.
- Reproducible in that students are expected to multiply the knowledge and skills they gain into the lives of others as they seek to make disciples within their spheres of influence (2 Timothy 2:2). MA-CL instructors are teacher-practitioners themselves. Fidelis encourages graduates to gather and lead a program cohort of their own toward the goal of developing many generations of cohort leaders around the world who can be a force for the advancement of the Kingdom of God in their home countries. Cohort leaders must be trained and approved by Dr. Schattner, the MA-CL program director.

Program Purpose, Goals, and Student Learning Objectives

Purpose. The Master of Arts in Catalytic Leadership program (MA-CL) produces graduates who are biblical grounded, physically and spiritually healthy, actively leading effective disciple-multiplying movements, and intentionally engaged in redemptive efforts to create a more virtuous, free, just, and God-honoring culture and civilization.

Competency 1: Graduates ground their lives and ministries in the Bible and Biblical Theology with emphasis on promoting the Missionary God's redemptive action in the world.

Worley School of Ministry of Dallas Christian College

Dallas Christian College (DCC) and Compass Christian Church of Colleyville, Texas, have partnered together to create the Worley School of Ministry. They named the School in honor of Mark Worley who for many years offered faithful, effective service to the Church, the College, and always to the Lord, leaving a legacy of thousands of lives drawn closer to Christ.

The Worley School of Ministry is designed for upper-level high school students, gap year students, college students, and young adults seeking a stronger foundation as they pass through a crucial phase of life. The School combines practical training with a hands-on ministry apprenticeship under mentors drawn from the DCC faculty and Compass pastoral staff.

Students earn college credits at low cost throughout their apprenticeship. Those who complete their ministry service plus a series of courses offered on the Compass Christian Church campus earn the 18-credit Worley Leadership Ministry Certificate (described below). Those who complete additional courses offered on-ground at Compass or through DCC Online earn a complete 60-credit Associate of Arts degree in Practical Ministries (described below). All credits, the certificate, and the degree are offered by Dallas Christian College, which is nationally accredited by the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) and approved by the U.S. Department of Education.

Students may fulfill all certificate and degree requirements through DCC, or they may meet some of A.A. requirements through transfer courses from other colleges, including dual credit enrollment (DCE) credits earned by high school students.

To enter the Worley School of Ministry, students must apply and be accepted by both DCC and the Compass Church, which hosts the apprenticeship.

Master of Transformative Ministry

Program Director: Edward Sanders, D.Min.

Overview. The interdisciplinary Master of Transformative Ministry program equips students for dynamic leadership roles in churches and parachurch organizations. Under the guidance of experienced ministry professionals, students learn to partner with the Holy Spirit to transform individuals, communities, and organizations as they embrace the emerging Kingship of God. Course and project options allow students to explore personal interests, applying course insights to their own ministry contexts. The program is designed for men and women entering Christian leadership as a second career, experienced pastors who desire to upgrade their knowledge, skills, and dispositions, and young ministers seeking a deeper foundation for effective Kingdom work.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the Master of Transformative Ministry degree (MTM) in DCC Online format. Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates.

For the MTM program, the academic year consists of three 16-week “terms” (Spring, Fall, and Summer), each of which includes two 8-week “sessions.” Students complete the program in two years by taking one course per session year-round, with an extended break at Christmas and Spring Break. For graduate students, one course per 8-week session, or two courses per 16-week term, constitutes “full-time” status.

Each session-long MTM course lasts 8 weeks. Online course “weeks” always begin on Monday and end on Sunday. At the beginning of each session, online course sites open on the Friday prior to the course start on Monday. During that first week of each graduate session, formal learning activities do not begin until Thursday. Faculty use Monday through Wednesday to orient new students to the program. Returning students use the time to log onto the course website, introduce themselves to their instructor and fellow learners, review course syllabi, secure required textbooks, participate in course orientations, and get a head start on initial assignments.

The first MTM course, THEO 5310 The Emerging Kingship of God, is offered every session year-round. It provides a biblical and theological framework for the entire Master of Transformative Ministry program. All other MTM courses are offered in a rotating “carousel” system.

The MTM program operates on a “continuous enrollment” model in which new students may start the program at the beginning of any 8-week session. New students always complete THEO 5310 in their first session. They then join other students in the rotation and complete the full circuit leading to graduation.

MTM students are never required to come to campus or be online at the same time. This flexibility enables working adults to complete their graduate studies at the times of the week most convenient for them while also meeting their job and family responsibilities. It takes the average student about 14 hours per week to complete MTM course assignments. Students are strongly urged to build into their schedules regular study times throughout the week rather than trying to complete all their weekly assignments at the last minute. For example, devoting two hours per day to the MTM program enables students to log into the course site early in the week to review assignments and register their attendance, return mid-week to participate in discussion boards or other interactive learning experiences, and complete all their weekly assignments by the 11:59 deadline on Sunday evening.

Program Purpose, Goals, and Student Learning Objectives

Purpose. The Master of Transformative Ministry program equips students for strategic leadership roles in churches and organizations that embrace the emerging Kingship of God within shifting cultures.

Goal 1: Ground students in a theology of transformation that proclaims the emerging Kingship of God.

Objective 1.1: Students summarize the biblical metanarrative and Christians’ role in it.

Objective 1.2: Students explain the concepts of the “emerging” Kingship of God (realized eschatology) and Missio Dei (mission of God) and their relevance for the Church and the world.

Objective 1.3: Students perceive the redemptive movement of God’s Spirit in large and small manifestations of His Kingship in the past, present, and future.

Objective 1.4: Students describe biblical and historical examples of the missional Church engaged in holistic ministry and transformative social action that embody God’s Kingship.

Objective 1.5: Students apply sound principles, methods, and strategies that facilitate transformative experiences with God’s written Word.

Objective 1.6: Students articulate a personal philosophy of ministry rooted in the Christian Scriptures and the Missio Dei.

Goal 2: Equip students to experience and promote personal and relational transformation through Christ-centered spiritual formation.

Objective 2.1: Students engage classic literature and exercise spiritual disciplines that promote spiritual formation—that is, being with Christ, becoming like Christ, and participating in the work of Christ.

Objective 2.2: Students develop and implement a “care for the caregiver” plan that promotes resilience and longevity of service for Christian leaders and their families.

Objective 2.3: Students integrate psychological principles, tools, and techniques in their ministries to help individuals, families, and communities overcome psychological and emotional challenges, leading to improved mental health, improved relationships, and overall well-being.

Objective 2.4: Students develop and articulate a biblical concept of holistic spiritual formation.

Goal 3: Equip students to promote community transformation by meeting physical, emotional, relational, and spiritual needs.

Objective 3.1: Students promote the Kingship of God through biblically-grounded, contextually appropriate communication.

Objective 3.2: Students critically evaluate contemporary worldviews and cultures from a Christian perspective as they develop and implement redemptive ministry strategies.

Objective 3.3: Students demonstrate “cultural agility” by articulating the key elements of a “culture,” analyzing the culture of a given community, and forming ministry strategies appropriate for the cultural context.

Objective 3.4: Students analyze and evaluate contemporary models of holistic ministry employed by “missional” churches and parachurch organizations.

Goal 4: Equip students to effect organizational transformation through Kingdom-oriented planning, innovative leadership, and effective management.

Objective 4.1: Students analyze and assess organizational, local, regional, and global Market Viability Index (MVI) trends that shape the future of organizations, the Church, and the world.

Objective 4.2: Students critically assess organizational behaviors as well as an organization’s adaptability and willingness to change using industry-standard tools.

Objective 4.3: Students develop strategic plans that address organizational adaptability and success measurements through case studies.

Objective 4.4: Students practice essential leadership functions that prepare churches and organizations for transformation, including analyzing organizational culture, vision casting, renewing the organizational life cycle, strategic planning, and change management.

Goal 5: The Master of Transformative Ministry (MTM) program also develops habits of lifelong learning that fuel long and productive careers in ministry and service. Throughout the program, students critically engage thought leaders in key areas of ministry leadership as they research issues and formulate practical, contextualized approaches to ministry challenges.

Associate Degree Program

Associate of Science in Criminal Justice

Program Director: Scott Burton, M.S.

Overview. DCC’s associate degree program in Criminal Justice introduces students to U.S. law enforcement and develops foundational competencies for service in that field. They gain theoretical and practical knowledge of key facets of the field, including criminal behavior and motivation, goals and processes of the criminal justice system, criminal law, policing, criminal procedures, the court system, and primary research methodology. The program encourages students to think holistically about the relationship between biblical Christianity and efforts to honor God through working toward a safer, more just world.

Graduates are prepared to assume entry-level positions in law enforcement organizations and to pursue further studies in the field at the baccalaureate level. Graduates from the associate program can move seamlessly into DCC’s baccalaureate programs in Criminal Justice and Pre-Law if they so desire. Students who aspire to become a police officer must meet entry requirements and graduate from the local police academy. In many jurisdictions, earning a college degree qualifies graduates for professional and career advancement in the criminal justice field or other related areas.

DEGREE COMPLETION PROGRAM**

Program Director: Scott Burton, M.S.

Overview. The Holy Scriptures remind readers that justice is central to God's intended social order and a moral duty for both individuals and governments:

He has showed you, O man, what is good. And what does the LORD require of you? To act justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with your God. (Micah 6:8)

Everyone must submit himself to the governing authorities, for there is no authority except that which God has established. The authorities that exist have been established by God. Consequently, he who rebels against the authority is rebelling against what God has instituted, and those who do so will bring judgment on themselves. For rulers hold no terror for those who do right, but for those who do wrong. Do you want to be free from fear of the one in authority? Then do what is right and he will commend you. For he is God's servant to do you good. But if you do wrong, be afraid, for he does not bear the sword for nothing. He is God's servant, an agent of wrath to bring punishment on the wrongdoer. (Romans 13:1-5) punishments” that dehumanize offenders; the growth of incarceration as an alternative to capital punishment; mediation, arbitration, and other forms of dispute resolution in place of violence and vendettas; the move toward community-oriented policing; and the idea that offenders can and should be reformed, rehabilitated, and restored to society. Jesus told his followers that he would consider any kindness they showed to others as a kindness shown to him (“I was sick, and you looked after me. I was in prison, and you came to visit me”—Matthew 25:36). Believers working in the criminal justice system must abide by professional standards, but they can also extend empathy and compassion to offenders, point them toward a relationship with Christ, and set an example of what it means to lead a life guided by him.

DCC’s baccalaureate program in Criminal Justice, which includes a Bible Minor, offers students a broad, foundational education in the field of law enforcement. They gain theoretical and practical knowledge of many facets of the field, including criminal behavior and motivation, goals and processes of the criminal justice system, criminal law, policing, criminal investigation, criminal procedures, the court system, sentencing, corrections, probation, juvenile justice, professional ethics, and primary research methodology in the field. Students gain hands-on experience and build their résumés through internship opportunities under seasoned field supervisors. The program equips students to think holistically about the relationship between biblical Christianity and efforts to honor God through working toward a safer, more just world.

Graduates are prepared to assume a variety of entry-level positions in law enforcement organizations and to pursue graduate studies in related disciplines. The program can launch students on a variety of career pathways, such as entry-level service in local, state, or federal law enforcement; public safety and security; the department of corrections; probation officer; crime scene technician; legal assistant; law enforcement management; and various government agencies. Students who aspire to become a police officer must meet entry requirements and graduate from the local police academy. In many jurisdictions, earning a college degree qualifies graduates for professional and career advancement in the criminal justice field or other related areas.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the B.S. in Criminal Justice in a fully-online or a hybrid format featuring a mixture of online and on-campus courses. DCC Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates.

Degree Completion Program (DCP). This Degree Completion Program (DCP) is designed for students who transfer 45+ credits to DCC. For a full description of the requirements to qualify for DCP, see “Baccalaureate Degree Completion Programs” in the section of this catalog providing an “Introduction to Academics.” The program includes a Bible Minor.

Believers working in the criminal justice system must abide by professional standards, but they can also extend empathy and compassion to offenders, point them toward a relationship with Christ, and set an example of what it means to lead a life guided by him.

DCC’s baccalaureate program in Criminal Justice/Pre-Law, which includes a Bible Minor, offers students a broad, foundational education in the field of law enforcement. They gain theoretical and practical knowledge of many facets of the field, including criminal behavior and motivation, goals and processes of the criminal justice system, criminal law, policing, criminal investigation, criminal procedures, the court system, sentencing, corrections, probation, juvenile justice, professional ethics, and primary research methodology in the field. In many jurisdictions, earning a college degree qualifies graduates for professional and career advancement in the criminal justice field or other related areas.

The Pre-Law Emphasis offers further preparation for students pursuing careers in the legal professions. Coursework on government, legal and constitutional issues, and judicial processes are designed to help students meet course prerequisites and admission requirements for graduate schools of law. Students should be aware that admission to law school after completion of a bachelor's degree is usually a highly competitive process. The successful applicant would need to be competitive, according to the standards of the graduate school, in overall undergraduate grade point average (GPA); grades for pertinent professional courses; admission test scores, such as the Law School Admission Test (LSAT); types of experiences and number of hours worked in legal settings; strength of recommendation letters; and writing and/or interview quality. If interested in that process, see the DCC Criminal Justice program coordinator for assistance.

Modality. For he is God's servant to do you good. But if you do wrong, be afraid, for he does not bear the sword for nothing. He is God's servant, an agent of wrath to bring punishment on the wrongdoer. (Romans 13:1-5)

Over the centuries, Christian views and attitudes have profoundly reshaped approaches to criminal justice as seen, for example, in the ban on “cruel and unusual punishments” that dehumanize offenders; the growth of incarceration as an alternative to capital punishment; mediation, arbitration, and other forms of dispute resolution in place of violence and vendettas; the move toward community-oriented policing; and the idea that offenders can and should be reformed, rehabilitated, and restored to society. Jesus told his followers that he would consider any kindness they showed to others as a kindness shown to him (“I was sick, and you looked after me. I was in prison, and you came to visit me”—Matthew 25:36). Believers working in the criminal justice system must abide by professional standards, but they can also extend empathy and compassion to offenders, point them toward a relationship with Christ, and set an example of what it means to lead a life guided by him.

DCC’s baccalaureate program in Criminal Justice and Bible offers students a broad, foundational education in the field of law enforcement. They gain theoretical and practical knowledge of many facets of the field, including criminal behavior and motivation, goals and processes of the criminal justice system, criminal law, policing, criminal investigation, criminal procedures, the court system, sentencing, corrections, probation, juvenile justice, professional ethics, and primary research methodology in the field. Students gain hands-on experience and build their résumés through internship opportunities under seasoned field supervisors. The program equips students to think holistically about the relationship between biblical Christianity and efforts to honor God through working toward a safer, more just world.

Graduates are prepared to assume a variety of entry-level positions in law enforcement organizations and to pursue graduate studies in related disciplines. The program can launch students on a variety of career pathways, such as entry-level service in local, state, or federal law enforcement; public safety and security; the department of corrections; probation officer; crime scene technician; legal assistant; law enforcement management; and various government agencies. Students who aspire to become a police officer must meet entry requirements and graduate from the local police academy. In many jurisdictions, earning a college degree qualifies graduates for professional and career advancement in the criminal justice field or other related areas.

The Pre-Law Emphasis offers further preparation for students interested in pursuing careers in the legal professions. Coursework on government, legal and constitutional issues, and judicial processes are designed to help students meet course prerequisites and admission requirements for graduate schools of law. Students should be aware that admission to law school after completion of a bachelor's degree is usually a highly competitive process. The successful applicant would need to be competitive, according to the standards of the graduate school, in overall undergraduate grade point average (GPA); grades for pertinent professional courses; admission test scores, such as the Law School Admission Test (LSAT); types of experiences and number of hours worked in legal settings; strength of recommendation letters; and writing and/or interview quality. If interested in that process, see the DCC Criminal Justice program coordinator for assistance.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the B.S. in Criminal Justice and Bible Majors in fully-online format. DCC Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates.

credits may be counted toward both a minor and any core area of the student's baccalaureate degree plan. For the full policy regarding "Majors and Minors," see the section of this catalog focusing on "Introduction to Academics."

Bachelor of Sports Science Athletic Coaching Major & Bible Major (on-campus)

Program Coordinator: Andrew Pacheco, M.S., Ph.D. candidate

Overview. Sports and physical fitness play a very influential role in contemporary society. DCC students often name a coach among those who have made the greatest impact on their lives. Coaches engage in the rewarding work of helping others reach their full potential—not only in terms of athletic prowess, but also through developing important life skills such as hard work, discipline, problem-solving, persistence, self-confidence, teamwork, and personal health and wellbeing. The Sports Science field also includes numerous opportunities for mentoring relationships through which believers can influence others for Christ. Accordingly, Dallas Christian College has designed Bachelor of Sports Science (B.S.S.) programs with a Great Commission thrust.

The B.S.S. program with a double major in Athletic Coaching and Bible develops foundational knowledge, skills, and dispositions needed to flourish as a coach in any context from youth to high school to college athletes to community programs to sports professionals. The program includes coursework in sports physiology and nutrition, sports psychology, coaching and mentoring, sports leadership and management, and legal and ethical standards. Students learn general principles of athletic coaching and then specialize in one or more sports, such as basketball, baseball, softball, soccer, or volleyball. They gain hands-on field experience and build their résumés through internship and practicum opportunities under seasoned coaches.

CSRMC Certification. DCC students who successfully complete the B.S.S. in Sports and Recreation Ministry program qualify to receive the Sport, Recreation, and Fitness Ministry Cer-tification (SRFMC) from the Association of Church Sports and Recreation Ministers (CSRMC, <https://www.csrmc.org>). Students pay a $25 processing fee to receive this professional certification.

Why is Certification Important?

Professional Commitment. The education and training necessary to gain certification communicates your commitment to the field of sports and recreation ministries. Continuing education is a crucial aspect of professionalism, and the certification not only gives that initial education, but in order to maintain certification, one must obtain Continuing Education Units in workshops, webinars, and other forms.

Enhances a Professional Image. Learning the biblical basis of how sports and recreation ties into the ministry of the church offers the sports and recreation minister the opportunity to improve how others view their leadership. Instead of being a “separate” ministry, one can communicate how all ministries work together in a local church.

Recognition of Your Accomplishment. People finishing the process obtain a certificate indicating their completion of Sports Outreach Minister’s Certification. Completion also grants the minister the ability to use the letters “CSRFM” following their signature. In this way, all communication will alert others of your accomplishment.

Expansion of Skill and Knowledge. John Wooden once said, "It's what you learn after you know it all that really counts." A leader that desires to keep learning demonstrates why certification is of utmost importance.

Next Steps. Students interested in CSRSM certification may use this link to apply (https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSe0LLy1s6_yxNwPtCCX6SRwr4hc7pU9B0bgB6FDmnXMeut3kQ/viewform?usp=sf_link).

Minors

Policy on Minors. Students pursuing a DCC baccalaureate degree have the option of adding a minor(s) to that degree beyond the normal program requirements. A “minor” is a shorter series of courses focusing on a particular field or discipline. At DCC, a minor includes a minimum of 18 credits, at least half of which must be taken in the Upper Division (3000- and 4000-level courses). A maximum of six credits may be counted toward both a minor and any core area of the student’s baccalaureate degree plan. For the full policy regarding “Majors and Minors,” see the section of this catalog focusing on “Introduction to Academics.”

Departmental Minor. DCC’s Sports Science Department offers the following minor:

Sports and Recreation Ministry Minor (21 credits)

The Sports and Recreation Ministry Minor includes the following required courses:

- EXSC 1310 Sports and Recreation Leadership (3)
- PMIN 3323 Sports and Recreation Ministry Models (3)
- SPMN 3363 Sports and Recreation Ministry Applications (3)
- SPMN 4340 Coaching, Mentoring, and Discipleship (3)
- SPMN 4350 Sports and Recreation Ministry Internship (3)
- SPMT 4315 Legal, Ethical, Professional Standards for Sports Leaders (3)
- THEO 2350 Theology of Sports, Recreation, and Leisure (3)

CSRM Certification. DCC students who successfully complete the Sports and Recreation Ministry Minor qualify to receive the Sport, Recreation, and Fitness Ministry Certification (SRFMC) from the Association of Church Sports and Recreation Ministers (CSRM). Students pay a $25 processing fee to receive this professional certification.

Overview. Sports and physical fitness play a very influential role in contemporary society, bringing people together and nurturing meaningful human connections. Athletes and sportspeople (coaches, administrative staff, spectators) represent one of the largest “mission fields” in the world. Sport and fitness endeavors include numerous opportunities for mentoring relationships through which believers can influence others for Christ. DCC’s Sports and Recreation Ministry Certificate program focuses on how to use sports as a tool for evangelistic outreach and discipleship within the local church, parachurch settings, and in global mission contexts. Students gain hands-on field experience and build their résumés through an internship under a seasoned sports minister.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the Sports and Recreation Ministry Certificate on-ground at its campus in Farmers Branch, Texas. An online “course companion” includes a gradebook and supplementary materials.

Required Courses. The Sports and Recreation Ministry Certificate program consists of the following courses:

EXSC 1310 Sports and Recreation Leadership	3
PMIN 3323 Sports and Recreation Ministry Models	3
SPMN 3363 Sports and Recreation Ministry Applications	3
SPMN 4340 Coaching, Mentoring, and Discipleship	3
SPMN 4350 Sports and Recreation Ministry Internship	3
SPMT 4315 Legal, Ethical, Prof. Standards for Sports Leaders	3
THEO 2350 Theology of Sports, Recreation, and Leisure	3
TOTAL CERTIFICATE CREDITS:	21

CSRM Certification. DCC students who successfully complete the Sports and Recreation Ministry Certificate qualify to receive the Sport, Recreation, and Fitness Ministry Certification (SRFMC) from the Association of Church Sports and Recreation Ministers (CSRМ). Students pay a $25 processing fee to receive this professional certification.

Program Structure. All DCC baccalaureate programs in teacher education include four primary components:

- General Education Core courses offer students a broad foundation in major branches of human learning, such as Language, Literature, Communications, History, Humanities, Human Cultures and Worldviews, Mathematics, Natural Sciences, and Social and Behavioral Sciences.

- The Bible Major grounds students in God’s written word toward the goals of spiritual formation, development of a Christian worldview, and a life of Christ-centered service in the student’s chosen field.
- The Education Major prepares aspiring teachers through courses in Education History and Philosophy, Educational Psychology, Teaching Theory and Methods, Classroom Management, and other aspects of the teaching profession. Note that all DCC teacher education students complete a “double major”—that is, a Bible Major plus a professional major in Education.
- Content courses prepare students for certification in their area of specialization. At DCC, students may choose a “content” area of elementary-level Core Subjects, English, Language Arts, Social Studies, or Music.

The Path to Teacher Certification

Dallas Christian College can start students on their journey to gaining certification to teach in public, private, and/or church-related schools at the elementary, middle, and/or secondary (high school) level. To reach this goal, students follow a step-by-step process:

STEP #1: Apply for admission to Dallas Christian College.

Applicants must fulfil the normal admission requirements described in the “Admissions” section of this catalog.

NOTE: If students already hold a baccalaureate degree, they should consider DCC’s Alternative Teacher Certification Program (ACP—described below), which offers a quicker route to certification.

STEP #2: As a DCC student, fulfil the requirements for entering the Teacher Education Program (TEP). They include:

- Deciding which baccalaureate degree and “content” area the student will pursue.
- A 2.75 cumulative grade point average (GPA) over all college coursework
- A grade of “B” or better in ENGL 1310 Composition I, ENGL 1320 Composition II, and SPCH 2310
- A minimum of 12 credit hours completed in the student’s chosen “content” area (English, Language Arts, Music, or Social Studies)
- A 3.00 cumulative GPA in the “content” courses

- Passing EITHER the Texas Success Initiative Assessment (TSIA, which measures readiness for college coursework in reading, writing, and mathematics) OR passing the Texas Higher Education Assessment® (THEA) with a minimum score of 230 in reading, 230 in mathematics, and 220 in writing.

STEP #3: Apply for admission to the Teacher Education Program (TEP). Note that admission to DCC and admission to the TEP are two different processes with different requirements.

Students typically enter the Teacher Education Program (TEP) and begin their specialized coursework during the second semester of their sophomore year. Therefore, in addition to meeting the admission requirements listed above under STEP #2, students must:

- Submit a completed Teacher Education Program Application by October 1 to begin the admission process.
- Submit a written description of their teaching philosophy (typed, 12-point font, double-spaced).
- Submit three completed candidate evaluations (references).
- Schedule an admission interview with the Teacher Education Department Chair (thahn@dallas.edu).
- Upon acceptance into the TEP, meet with the Chair for advising and develop a degree planning sheet for finishing the degree.

STEP #4: As a TEP student, fulfil the requirements for remaining in the Teacher Education Program and gaining teacher certification. They include:

- Earn a grade of “B” or higher in each Education (EDUC) course.
- Complete a 30-hour Field-Based Experience (FBE) requirement as a part of EDUC 4309 Discipline and Classroom Management (EC-12).
- Complete a 30-hour Field-Based Experience (FBE) requirement as a part of EDUC 4362 Teaching Diverse Learners.
- Complete a minimum 160 hours of Field-Based Experiences (FBEs) while taking EDUC 4311 Methods of Social Studies and Geography (EC-12), EDUC 4312 Methods of Teaching Science and Math (EC-6), and EDUC 4314 Methods of Reading and Related Language Arts (EC-12).

Submit a portfolio at the conclusion of Field-Based Experiences (FBEs) prior to Student Teaching.

- Complete all TEA requirements for obtaining a Texas Education Agency Login (TEAL) for the Educator Certification Online System (ECOS) used to apply for initial certification and verify existing certification.

STEP #5: Sometime prior to entering Student Teaching, pass the appropriate TExES exam (Texas Examinations of Educator Standards), which assesses content-area knowledge and professional knowledge.

DCC offers the following course to aid in preparation: EDUC 3110 TExES Prep Seminar (1 credit).

STEP #6: Complete a Student Teaching placement lasting a minimum of 14 weeks (500 hours minimum).

Submit a Student Teaching portfolio at the conclusion of the semester.

STEP #7: Pass the Texas state Pedagogy and Professional Responsibilities (EC-12) exam (PPR).

STEP #8: Pass the Texas Science of Teaching Reading (STR) test (applies only to students in Core Subjects EC-6, Core Subjects 4-8, and English Language Arts and Reading 4-8).

STEP #8: Finish degree requirements and graduate from DCC.

Upon successful completion of the program, the TEP recommends qualified candidates to the Texas Education Agency (TEA) and Texas State Board of Educator Certification (SBEC) for Initial Teacher Certification in Texas.

STEP #9: Candidates apply for certification by the Texas Education Agency (TEA) for public schools and/or the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI) for Christian Schools.

Supervision Fees. To cover travel expenses of field supervisors, students pay a $400 fee if completing EDUC 4930 All-Level Student Teaching (EC-12) or a $600 fee if completing EDUC 4904 Professional Internship (EC-12). Candidates who choose to complete Student Teaching or a Professional Internship farther than 50 miles from the DCC campus are charged an additional supervision fee of $285.

Other Teacher Education Program Costs. In addition to the normal tuition and fees paid to attend DCC (see the sections of this catalog on “Student Costs” and “Financial Aid”), teacher education students should take into account the following possible expenses: (1) textbooks, (2) supplies, (3) outside program tutoring, (4) TExES content test fee, (5) Pedagogy and Professional Responsibilities test fee, (6) Science of Teaching Reading test fee, (7) Intern Certification fee, (8) TEA training and documentation fees, (9) Texas Standard Certification application fee, and (10) ACSI application fee. Alternative Teacher Certification Program

Alternative Teacher Certification Program (ACP)

Program Coordinator: Tracy Hahn, Ed.D.

Overview. The E. L. and Sue Derr Teacher Education Department of Dallas Christian College offers an Alternative Teacher Certification Program (also known as the Alternative Certification Program or ACP). The ACP provides highly qualified individuals holding a baccalaureate degree the opportunity to launch a successful career in education with Texas public school certification. The need for effective teachers in Texas is critical and widely acknowledged. The need for teachers who experience confidence and joy in teaching because of successful, research-based practices is even more critical to retaining those teachers in Texas schools. DCC's Alternative Certification Program provides opportunities for teacher candidates to pursue a career in education while making a positive contribution to a local school. The Program is based on state standards for Texas educators and approved by both the Texas Education Agency (TEA) and State Board for Educator Certification (SBEC). Upon successful completion of the program, DCC's Teacher Education Department recommends the candidate to the Texas Education Agency (TEA) and State Board of Educator Certification (SBEC) for Texas state teacher certification. It is the student's responsibility to apply for certification by TEA. See below for more information on state certification.

Modality. Dallas Christian College offers the Alternative Teacher Certification Program (ACP) in DCC Online format. Online students engage in asynchronous learning through a course website that facilitates interaction with their instructor and classmates.

The program operates on a cohort system in which students complete online courses in a series of eight-week sessions. DCC is currently accepting applications for the next cohort.

Program Purpose and Student Learning Objectives

Purpose. The Alternative Teacher Certification Program provides highly qualified individuals holding a baccalaureate degree the opportunity to launch a successful career in education with Texas public school certification.

Consistent with DCC's mission and institutional goals, the Alternative Teacher Certification Program accomplishes the following student learning objectives:

1. Demonstrate understanding of instructional planning and delivery by providing standards-based, data-driven, differentiated instruction that engages students, makes appropriate use of technology, and makes learning relevant for today's learners.
2. Work to ensure high levels of learning, social-emotional development, and achievement outcomes for all students, taking into consideration each student's educational and developmental backgrounds and focusing on each student's needs.
3. Exhibit a comprehensive understanding of one's content, discipline, and related pedagogy as demonstrated through the quality of the design and execution of lesson plans and the ability to match objectives and activities to relevant state standards.
4. Interact with students in respectful ways at all times, maintaining a physically and emotionally safe, supportive learning environment that is characterized by efficient and effective routines, clear expectations for student behavior, and organization that maximizes student learning.
5. Use formal and informal methods to assess student growth aligned to instructional goals and course objectives and regularly review and analyze multiple sources of data to measure student progress and adjust instructional strategies and content delivery as needed.
6. Consistently hold to a high standard for individual development, pursue leadership opportunities, collaborate with other educational professionals, communicate regularly with stakeholders, maintain professional relationships, comply with all campus and school district policies, and conduct oneself ethically and with integrity.
7. Evidence knowledge of both public and private educational philosophy and systems.

Required Courses. The Alternative Teacher Certification Program (ACP) consists of the following courses:

EDUC 4301 Educational Technology	3

Alternative Certification Program (ACP) Benefits. Students in ACP program can:

- Complete program coursework online in an eight-week block format.
- Learn from faculty members who are professional practitioners in the teaching field.
- Receive individualized support from a Mentor or Master Teacher and a College Supervisor.
- Teach as a Student Teacher (14 consecutive weeks) or Professional Intern (one full academic year of 180 days) in a SACSCOC-accredited/TEA-approved public or private school.
- Complete the program and gain the Teacher Education Department’s recommendation for certification as a public school teacher in Texas.
- Gain satisfaction from fulfilling an educational and professional goal.

Content Areas for Certification. Texas teachers are certified in a specialization or “content” area—which might be the field in which the ACP candidate majored in college. DCC can assist students seeking certification in the following areas:

- Early Childhood through Grade 6: (1) Core Subjects EC-6
- Grades 4-8/Middle School: (1) Core Subjects 4-8, (2) English Language Arts and Reading, (3) Mathematics, (4) Science, (5) Social Studies
- Grades 7-12/High School: (1) English Language Arts and Reading, (2) Mathematics, (3) History, (4) Science, (5) Life Science, (6) Physical Science, (7) Social Studies
- All Levels/Early Childhood through Grade 12: (1) Art, (2) Music, (3) Physical Education

- Prior to entering the Alternative Certification Program, students must pass the Texas Pre-Admission Content Test (PACT) in their desired area of certification.

NOTE: A Texas Education Agency (TEA) ID number is used for identification throughout the certification and exam registration process. Students must know their TEA ID to set up their testing account. If registering for the first time, they must go to https://tea.texas.gov/Texas Educators/Certification/Educator Certification Online System (ECOS) and create a TEA login (TEAL) account. When the account has been created, users will complete an Educator Profile and obtain a TEA ID number. Once the TEA ID number is obtained, they must go to the online registration system for the test vendor (https://tea.texas.gov/Texas Educators/Certification/Educator Testing/Test Registration and Preparation).

For additional information about PACT, contact the DCC Teacher Education Department Chair (thahn@dallas.edu).

The ACP Path to Teacher Certification

Two-Phase ACP Admission Process. To enter DCC’s Alternative Certification Program, applicants pass through a two-phase admission process: First, they must apply to DCC as a student, fulfilling all admissions requirements of the College. Second, they must apply to enter the Teacher Education Program, fulfilling all admission requirements of the TEP. For more information, see the “Admissions” section of this catalog under “Alternative Teacher Certification Program (ACP).”

Certification Process. The step-by-step process to attain teacher certification includes:

STEP #1: Pass the Texas PACT test in the desired area of certification (described above).

STEP #2: Apply for admission to Dallas Christian College.

To begin the admission process, complete and submit DCC’s online application (www.dallas.edu/admissions).

STEP #3: Apply for admission to the Teacher Education Program (TEP), submit the following materials, including official documentation of the academic requirements:

Upon successful completion of the program, the TEP recommends qualified candidates to the Texas Education Agency (TEA) and Texas State Board of Educator Certification (SBEC) for Initial Teacher Certification in Texas.

STEP #9: Candidates apply for certification by the Texas Education Agency (TEA) for public schools and/or the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI) for Christian Schools.

Alternative Teacher Certification Program (ACP) Costs. Student costs for the ACP include:

Tuition. The $3,500 tuition package covers the cost of ACP courses (21 credits), training, and internship or Student Teaching/Professional Internship (9 credits) within 50 miles of the Dallas Christian College campus. Full payment or payment arrangements must be made prior to beginning any coursework.

Supervision Fees. To cover travel expenses of field supervisors, students pay a $400 fee if completing EDUC 4930 All-Level Student Teaching (EC-12) or a $600 fee if completing EDUC 4904 Professional Internship (EC-12). Candidates who choose to complete Student Teaching or a Professional Intern-ship farther than 50 miles from the DCC campus are charged an additional supervision fee of $285.

Other Expenses. In addition to the normal tuition and fees paid to attend DCC (see the sections of this catalog on “Student Costs” and “Financial Aid”), teacher education students should take into account the following possible expenses: (1) textbooks, (2) supplies, (3) outside program tutoring, (4) PACT Pre-Admittance Content Test fee, (5) TExES content test fee, (6) Pedagogy and Professional Responsibilities test fee, (7) Science of Teaching Reading test fee*, (8) Intern Certification fee, (9) TEA training and documentation fees, (10) Texas Standard Certification application fee, and (11) ACSI Association of Christian Schools International application fee. For more information, contact the Teacher Education Department Chair at DCC (thahn@dallas.edu).

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

REGISTRAR: CRYSTAL LAIDACKER

Academic Calendar Structure

Dallas Christian College operates year-round on undergraduate and graduate academic calendars organized as follows:

Undergraduate Calendar Structure (associate and baccalaureate degrees). For undergraduates, each calendar year includes Fall Term/Semester extending from early August through mid-December, Spring Term/Semester from early January through mid-May, and two short Summer Terms from mid-May through early August. DCC also offers accelerated courses during a one-week “Wintermester” held in early January at the start of Spring Semester.

	FALL TERM (18 weeks)			SPRING TERM (18 weeks)				SUMMER TERMS (6 + 6 Weeks)
Traditional Undergrad	Fall Semester (16 weeks)			Spring Semester (16 weeks)				FLEX Campus® (online only)
DCC Online Undergrad	Fall 1 (6 wks)	Fall 2 (6 wks)	Fall 3 (6 wks)	Winter- mester (1 wk)	Spring 1 (6 wks)	Spring 2 (6wks)	Spring 3 (6 wks)	Summer 1 Term (6 wks)	Summer 2 Terms (6 wks)

Traditional Academic Year

Within this common framework, DCC offers undergraduate courses of varying lengths according to the needs of a given academic program:

- Traditional on-campus undergraduate courses are 16 weeks in length, including a Final Exam Week at the end of each semester. Most traditional students enroll in four to six courses during Fall and Spring Semesters (the traditional academic year), with optional on-campus accelerated courses available during the one-week Wintermester in early January and optional FLEXCampus® online courses available during the two six-week Summer Terms.
- DCC Online undergraduate courses are offered in six-week sessions—three during Fall Semester, three in Spring Semester, and two during the short FLEXCampus® Summer Terms (called Fall Session 1, Fall Session 2, etc.). Online students typically complete one or two courses each session year-round. Online course “weeks” always begin on Monday and end on Sunday.

Transfer students may participate in DCC’s Degree Completion Program (DCP) in on-campus or online format. For a description of DCP, see the “Introduction to Academics” section of this catalog under “Types of Degree Programs.”

Graduate Calendar Structure (master’s degree). For graduate students, each calendar year includes three “terms.” Fall Term typically extends from late August through mid-December, Spring Term from early January through late April, and Summer Term from early May through late August:

	FALL TERM (16 weeks)		SPRING TERM (16 weeks)		SUMMER TERM (16 weeks)
Online Master’s Degree	Fall 1 (8 weeks)	Fall 2 (8 weeks)	Spring 1 (8 weeks)	Spring 2 (8 weeks)	Summer 1 (8 weeks)	Summer 2 (8 weeks)

Within this framework, DCC’s online master’s degree program operates in eight-week sessions with two sessions in each term. Graduate students complete one course per session year-round. The graduate program operates on a “continuous enrollment” model in which new students may join the program at the beginning of each eight-week session. Online course “weeks” always begin on Monday and end on Sunday. At the beginning of each session, online course sites open on the Friday prior to the course start on Monday. During that first week of each graduate session, formal learning activities do not begin until Thursday. Faculty use Monday through Wednesday to orient new students to the program. Returning students use the time to log onto the course website, introduce themselves to their instructor and fellow learners, review course syllabi, secure required textbooks, participate in course orientations, and get a head start on initial assignments.

Academic Calendar. DCC's Academic Calendar identifies course start and end dates, add/drop/withdrawal deadlines, holidays and breaks, and key events for the college community. The 2024-2025 calendar appears at the end of this catalog.

Credit Definition and Time Commitments

Course Credits. DCC students earn “credits” or “semester credit hours” by successfully completing college courses. Most DCC courses are 3-credit courses. The college defines a “credit hour” in a manner consistent with traditional practice in the United States (the “Carnegie Unit”) and with regulations issued by the U.S. Department of Education.

Credit Hour Definition. DCC defines a “credit hour” to include about 37.5 clock hours of learning activities, including any in-class sessions, outside “homework,” and/or online studies. Accordingly, a typical 3-credit course represents a total time commitment of about 112.5 hours (37.5 hours x 3 credits) for an average student.

Time Commitments. The weekly time commitment required to complete a course depends on the length of time allotted for the course. Students should budget their time accordingly.

- Traditional on-campus students complete courses in 16-week terms. A single 3-credit course represents an average time commitment of 7 hours per week. Two 3-credit courses require about 14 hours per week, and three require about 21 hours per week. Four 3-credit courses (12 credits or “full-time” status for purposes of financial aid eligibility) represent a commitment of about 28 hours per week. Five 3-credit courses require about 35 hours per week.
- Undergraduate DCC Online courses are offered in an accelerated 6-week format. The reduced face-to-face contact time is compensated for by increased non-classroom assignments. In this format, one 3-credit course represents an average time commitment of 18 hours per week. Two require about 36 hours per week.
- Graduate-level DCC Online courses are offered in an accelerated 8-week format. A single 3-credit course represents an average time commitment of 14 hours per week. Two courses require about 28 hours per week.

Credit Determination in Competency-Based Programs. DCC currently offers three Master of Arts programs utilizing a self-paced or cohort-paced, direct assessment, competency-based education (CBE) model. These programs do not employ traditional “courses” or clock-based “semester credit hours” with a traditional A-F grading scale. Students do not graduate based on time spent in the program or a cumulative grade point average (GPA) that may reveal strength in some areas while obscuring weaknesses in others. Instead, subject matter experts have worked with practitioners in the field to determine the competencies needed for employment in that field. Based on the number and rigor of those competencies, they have assigned each competency a credit value comparable to the credits received if a student develops that competency in a traditional semester credit hour course. In these competency-based programs, students do not graduate until the faculty declares them “competent” in every program area.

Full-Time and Part-Time Student Status

Term System. For purposes of state and federal financial aid, DCC is an attendance-taking school and students are considered to be on a “standard term semester system.”

Undergraduate Full-Time Status. For undergrad students (including traditional on-campus students, DCC Online students, and Degree Completion students), 12 credits per semester constitute “full-time” status for purposes of financial aid. Nine to 11.5 credits are considered a “three-quarters load,” and 6 to 8.5 credits a “half-time load.” For financial aid purposes, any credits completed during Wintermester are added to the credits completed during Spring Term.

Graduate Full-Time Status. For graduate students, 6 credits per term constitute “full-time” status. Graduate students complete one 3-credit course per 8-week session year-round.

Course Load

Course Load Considerations. When registering for courses, students should weigh multiple factors, such as the time required each week to complete those studies, the length of time to graduation under a lighter or heavier course load, the number of credits required for “full time status” and financial aid, and job responsibilities for those who work. Other considerations include the amount of additional time needed for lab-type courses, music practices and rehearsals, and athletics. Academic advisors stand ready to assist students with their academic planning.

Traditional On-Campus Undergraduate Course Load. To earn a typical 120-credit bachelor’s degree in four years, or a 60-credit associate degree in two years, DCC students must complete an average of 15 credits per semester. If they take a lighter load during the semesters, they may “catch up” by taking additional on-campus courses during the one-week January Wintermester and/or FLEXCampus® online courses during two six-week Summer Terms. (NOTE: To meet Texas state requirements, Teacher Education programs include about 132 credits rather than the normal 120.)

With careful planning, students who take courses year-round may earn a four-year baccalaureate degree in only three years for a “Degree in Three” (described below under “Timetables for Earning a Baccalaureate Degree”). Students who desire to pursue this accelerated path to graduation should discuss it with their academic advisors.

For on-campus undergraduate students, 12+ credits per semester constitutes a “full-time load” for purposes of financial aid. The maximum course load is 19 credits per semester, or six 3-credit courses plus up to one credit for either CPR/First Aid/Physical Education, Team Sports, or Choir.

Enrolling in more than 19 credits per term requires special permission from the student’s academic advisor and the Vice President of Academics. To qualify for special approval, the student must not work more than 12 hours per week and must have at least a 3.3 cumulative grade point average (GPA).

If on-campus students desire to earn a professional major offered only online, they may complete their General Education and Bible requirements on campus and complete the professional major online—all at the on-campus tuition rate since they are using campus services. The 19-credit maximum load applies.

Students who must work to help meet college expenses should plan to reduce their course load. The following table shows the recommended maximum credit-hour limitation for working students:

Traditional Undergraduate Weekly Work Hours	Recommended Maximum Course Credits
13-21	15-17
22-30	12-14
31-40	10-11
40+	9 or less

Traditional Students Combining On-Campus and Online Courses. With advisor approval, students enrolled in a traditional, on-campus degree program may take a DCC Online course(s) alongside their on-campus studies. However, they must keep in mind that, in an online course, students do the same amount of work in 6 weeks that they would spread over 16 weeks in a traditional course. To illustrate: If a student enrolled in three traditional 16-week Fall courses plus a 6-week online course during the Fall 2 Session, they would be enrolled in four courses during Fall 2 but, in terms of workload, it would feel like being enrolled in 5+ courses. During that 6-week period, they will need to devote about 18 additional hours per week to meeting the online requirements (see sample scenarios below). For this reason, students enrolled in a traditional, on-campus degree program are typically limited to one DCC Online course per session alongside their on-campus studies.

DCC Online Undergraduate Course Load. DCC Online students may not enroll in more than two courses within a six-week session. Each term, many working adults enroll in two courses for one six-week session and one course in each of the other two sessions. In this way, they maintain 12-credit “full-time” student status for purposes of financial aid eligibility.

Graduate Course Load. To earn the Master of Transformative Ministry (MTM) in two years, graduate students must complete one course per 8-week session year-round. DCC offers graduate courses on a rotating basis, so missing a course makes it necessary for students to wait until that course appears again in the rotation.

The Master of Arts in Language Development and Translation (MA-LDT) and the Master of Arts in Multicultural Engagement (MA-ME) are competency-based programs in which students set their own pace.

Timetables for Earning a Baccalaureate Degree

Timetable to Graduation. The table below shows the number of credits students must earn each term to earn a baccalaureate degree in four, five, or six years. Students should keep in mind that they must complete 12 credits per term to maintain full-time status for purposes of financial aid.

“Degree in 3.” The College also offers an accelerated program that allows students to earn a four-year baccalaureate degree in only three years (see table). One way to accomplish this goal is to complete 15 credits each Fall and Spring Term, along with additional credits during Wintermester and the two *FLEX*Campus® Summer Terms. This timetable works most efficiently when students have a plan in place by the end of the freshmen year. Those interested should contact their academic advisor or the Registrar.

Academic Classifications

Undergraduate Classifications. Dallas Christian College classifies undergraduate students according to the number of credits they have earned at DCC and/or transferred from other institutions to fulfil degree requirements:

Academic Classification	Cumulative Credit Hours
Freshman	0 – 29 credits
Sophomore	30 – 59.5 credits
Junior	60 – 89.5 credits
Senior	90+ credits

Academic classification is important for determining the level of financial aid for which students may qualify.

DCC recommends that students not enroll in a course more than one level above their academic classification (e.g., freshmen should generally take 1000- or 2000-level courses, rather than 3000- or 4000-level courses). Undergraduate students may enroll in a 5000-level graduate course only when they reach senior classification and only with written permission from the faculty department chair who oversees their major.

Graduate Students. Graduate students are enrolled for degree credit in courses at the 5000 level or above.

Academic Advising and Registration

Degree Requirements. Detailed descriptions of each DCC degree program appear in this catalog. Students should carefully study course and graduation requirements for their program of choice. The Registrar's Office produces worksheets helpful for following student progress through a given degree plan.

Academic Advising. A faculty advisor is assigned to each student at the time of registration. When students declare their major field of study, they receive an advisor who teaches in that field. Academic advisors assist students with understanding program requirements and formulating strategies for finishing the degree on the preferred schedule. There are many factors to consider, such as:

- All Dallas Christian College students are required to take the orientation course GENS 1111 DCC 101 (for on-campus freshmen) or GENS 2111 DCC 201 (for online and transfer students) during their first semester of enrollment at DCC.
- While there are certain core courses common to all the degrees, there are also vital differences.
- Not all courses are offered annually, and some have prerequisites students must complete prior to enrollment.
- The Registrar's Office produces suggested course sequences designed to help the student progress from one year to the next in an orderly fashion. Non-sequential scheduling of courses can cause schedule conflicts, which may make it necessary for students to spend additional semesters at DCC in order to meet graduation requirements.

Students should consult regularly with their advisors on such matters.

Student Responsibilities. Prior to registration for each term, students communicate with their faculty advisors concerning their status and upcoming courses. However, students are ultimately responsible for their own academic progress. The following list outlines students' responsibilities in the advising process:

- Read the Academic Catalog and other academic information provided by DCC.
- Know and comply with all current policies, procedures, and requirements for earning a degree—including internship and practicum requirements.
- Review the course schedule and discuss course options with faculty advisors.
- Obtain, complete, and submit all forms needed for registration, course changes (audit, add, drop), graduation, and related matters, according to the deadlines in the academic calendar.
- Contact faculty advisors immediately with concerns about academic progress in particular courses or progress toward a degree.

Enrollment. Although provisional enrollment may be granted for a limited period, no student is officially enrolled in courses until the admission process is completed, all enrollment forms are approved, and all fees and charges are paid, or a payment plan has been arranged with the business and financial aid offices.

Auditing Courses

Students may audit (“listen in on”) DCC courses for personal enrichment without seeking academic credit. To audit a course, students must secure written permission from the course instructor, meet course prerequisites, register for the course, purchase the required textbooks, and pay the audit fee.

The College at its discretion may limit the number of audit students in a given course. For-credit students receive priority in course registration. DCC does not permit students to audit athletics, choir, private music lessons, worship ensemble, or independent studies.

Audit students may attend class sessions, complete required readings, and participate fully in on-campus and online learning activities and group discussions. Participation in group projects is at the professor's discretion. Written and/or graded assignments are optional. Instructors may voluntarily grade or provide feedback on assignments submitted by auditing students, but they are under no obligation to do so. Students who audit a course do not receive a final letter grade. Instead, their transcripts indicate “Audit” (AUD) in place of a grade. Audited courses may not be used to meet graduation requirements for any degree program.

Students may not change from audit to credit status, or from credit to audit status, except during the drop/add period and with the permission of both the instructor and the Registrar.

Audit and non-degree-seeking students are not eligible for financial aid.

Directed Independent Studies (DIS)

Individual students or groups of students may request a Directed Independent Study (DIS) under the supervision of a Dallas Christian College instructor. Such studies provide an opportunity to remedy unavoidable course scheduling conflicts or explore an area of interest not covered by the College's standard curricula. They are not intended to remedy poor academic planning on the part of the student or merely as a personal convenience (e.g., enrolling in a DIS to avoid an early morning class). Students are responsible for arranging their schedules so as to complete required courses when they become available.

At times, the Registrar and faculty department chairs may convert a regularly scheduled course to a DIS due to low enrollment.

Students may request a DIS by contacting the Registrar (registrar@dallas.edu), who initiates the approval process with academic leadership. Dallas Christian College can approve only a very limited number of DIS courses due to the already heavy demands on faculty members' time.

Field-Based Learning

Observations and Short-Term Practica. Students in any degree program at any level or modality (undergraduate or graduate, on-campus or online) may be required to participate in short-term practical experiences related to a particular course. Examples include observations, interviews, field trips, concerts, conferences, practice labs, teaching or coaching sessions, event planning and implementation, and Field-Based Experiences (FBEs) for Teacher Education students. Specifics appear in program requirements, course syllabi, and/or instructor orientations. Students are responsible for arranging times to complete these experiences, with faculty providing guidance as needed.

Formal Internships and Student Teaching. All baccalaureate programs of Dallas Christian College include a formal internship through which students gain practical experience in their chosen profession. Internships in Teacher Education programs take the form of a one-semester Student Teaching assignment or a two-semester Professional Internship.

Placement of interns and student teachers will be arranged with the appropriate faculty department chair and/or program director in conjunction with the professor and field supervisor overseeing the experience. The length and number of hours required for an internship will be established in each department according to professional needs and obligations. Student teachers will follow Texas Education Agency (TEA) codes and requirements. All learning activities are considered part of the internship, including interviews, orientations, assignments, fieldwork, assessments, and reports. For the requirements of a given internship, see the relevant course description, syllabus, and faculty department chair.

When planning an internship, the supervising professor will specify the term(s) within which the student should complete it.

- If the specified time frame for completion is more than one term, students will be assigned a grade of IP (“In Progress”) for the term(s) prior to the planned term of completion.
- Students who do not finish within the specified time frame are assigned a temporary grade of IPC (“In Progress—Continuation Required”). They are automatically enrolled in INTR 4010 Internship Continuation for each additional term until the internship is completed. They pay the Internship Continuation Fee for each additional term to cover the costs of prolonged internship supervision.

If students exit the College during an internship, a grade of F will be assigned and they will be required to retake the internship if and when they return to DCC.

Extended Internships. An extended internship is available for credit by special arrangement with the Vice President of Academics and the appropriate Department Chair. Contact the Department Chair for additional information about this special opportunity.

Applying Graduate Courses to Undergraduate Degrees (Dual Graduate Credit)

Dallas Christian College occasionally allows Upper Division undergraduate students to enroll in master-level courses and apply the credits toward both their baccalaureate degree and a master’s degree. Enrollment in these “dual graduate credit” (DGC) courses must be approved by the appropriate faculty department chairs. Please note:

- Course descriptions are found near the end of this catalog. Approved DGC substitutions appear under “Special Considerations” and on the table below. Students may also use DGC courses as Open Electives.
- To enroll in DGC courses, an undergraduate student must have earned a minimum 75 credits and must hold a minimum cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 3.00.
- Undergraduate students are subject to any prerequisites attached to a desired graduate course.
- Students enrolled in a bachelor’s degree program complete such DGC courses at the undergraduate tuition rate.
- The College allows a maximum of 9 graduate units to apply to both a master’s degree and a bachelor’s degree.
- Undergraduate students must earn a minimum grade of “Competent” to apply the graduate course to a master’s degree at a later date.
- Completing DGC courses does not exempt students from graduate admission requirements if they later decide to enroll in a master’s degree program.

Credit for Prior Learning

Students may fulfil degree requirements by successfully completing courses offered by Dallas Christian College. Students may also secure credit for prior learning. DCC accepts an unlimited number of credits for prior learning within the bounds of the College’s residency requirements (see below under “Graduation Requirements”) and the policies outlined below. Decisions regarding the awarding of credit for prior learning are made by the Registrar's Office staff in consultation with faculty department chairs and the Vice President of Academics. The Registrar provides students with transcript evaluations and other documents specifying the type and amount of credit granted.

Credit by Transfer. Dallas Christian College accepts transfer credits from the following types of institutions. Applicants must submit official transcripts from those institutions. A tentative evaluation of transfer credits may be made as part of the admission process, but the Registrar's Office and faculty make final judgments regarding what transfer credits to accept toward a DCC degree program.

Other Colleges and Universities. Dallas Christian College accepts academic credits transferred from other colleges and universities according to the following criteria:

- The college or university must typically be an institution of higher education accredited by an institutional accrediting body (e.g. SACSCOC, HLC, MSACS, WASC), national accrediting body (e.g. ABHE, TRACS), or professional accrediting body (e.g. NASM, NCATE) recognized by the U.S. Department of Education and the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA) at the time the credits were awarded. These accrediting bodies mandate assessment and other quality control systems that give DCC a high level of confidence in their programs.
- Credits from non-accredited institutions are usually not transferable. However, DCC will evaluate such credits on a case-by-case basis. Students must provide the following documentation: (1) official transcripts signed, sealed, and delivered directly from the institution to DCC; (2) academic catalog; (3) syllabus from each course; and (4) name and academic credentials of teaching faculty. Applicants may be asked to provide samples of their coursework or other evidence needed to make transfer judgments. Furthermore, students must validate the transfer of unaccredited courses by earning at least a 2.0 (C) GPA during the first two semesters of study at Dallas Christian College. If experience shows that DCC can have confidence in a given institution, the Registrar may place it on a list of "approved" institutions, which will facilitate the transfer process. DCC reserves the right to withhold recognition of credits awarded by any college or university that does not, in the opinion of the faculty and administration, meet reasonable academic standards.
- Students must have completed the transferred courses, earning a minimum grade of "C-" for undergraduate credit or "B" for graduate credit (or "P" if the courses were offered on a Pass/Fail basis or “S” if offered on a Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory basis). Some degree programs, such as Teacher Education, may require a higher transfer grade to meet state or program standards.

- The transferred courses must be college-level and must apply to a Dallas Christian College degree program as the equivalents of required courses (i.e. providing a similar knowledge base and/or competencies) or as appropriate electives. Some fields, such as information technology, are constantly changing, so courses completed many years ago may be outdated and therefore ineligible for transfer. Departmental faculty will review transcripts and may require students to complete a newer version of a course. They will do this only when necessary for student success in the degree program and the professional field. This policy ensures that students’ professional competencies are reasonably up-to-date at the time DCC awards the degree.
- Dallas Christian College does not grant transfer credit for college orientations, remedial coursework, high school level courses (apart from the Advanced Placement and Dual Credit Enrollment programs described below), or General Education Development (GED) tests.
- Dallas Christian College does not grant credit for duplicated courses (e.g., Beginning Composition completed at one college and Freshman English completed at another). The course equivalency will be awarded only once.
- If a course has been repeated for credit, the most recent grade earned will be used in the transfer evaluation—even if it is a lower grade—because it represents the most recent measure of student competency.
- DCC residency requirements (see below under “Graduation Requirements”) limit the number of transfer credits students may apply to a DCC degree to no more than 75% of an undergraduate degree (typically 45 credits for an associate and 90 credits for a baccalaureate degree) and no more than 33% of a master’s degree. These limits apply to all forms of Credit by Prior Learning, including AP, IB, CLEP, DSST, military training, and credit by demonstrated competency (CDC, described below).
- Students who transfer credits from non-U.S. or non-English-speaking institutions must provide DCC with a certified translation of transcripts and course descriptions, as well as a detailed and comprehensive transcript evaluation. For the full policy, see the instructions for international students in the section of this catalog devoted “Application Requirements and Admission Standards.”

- Applicable transfer credit is placed in the accepted student’s electronic file for advising purposes and will appear on the student transcript. The transfer credit is included in DCC cumulative GPA calculations and is used to determine (1) student classification; (2) financial aid eligibility; (3) academic status after the student’s first semester; (4) graduation eligibility; and (5) eligibility for graduation honors. To be considered for graduation honors, students must earn a minimum of 70 credit hours toward a baccalaureate degree at DCC.

Vocational Schools, Technical Colleges, or Institutes. Degree credits earned at vocational or technical institutions may be transferred to Dallas Christian College according to the policies stated above. Courses equivalent in content to required DCC courses may be used to fulfil General Education Core or professional major requirements. Others may be used as Open Electives.

Credit by Examination. DCC recognizes credits earned by examination from sources with known validities and reliabilities, including Advanced Placement (AP), International Baccalaureate (IB), the College Level Examination Program (CLEP), and DSST (formerly DAN TES Subject Standardized Tests, now by Prometrics). Students may not receive credit for duplicated subject areas (e.g., both AP English Language & Composition and IB College Composition). The course equivalency will be awarded only once.

Students submit official exam scores to the DCC Registrar, who determines their applicability to degree requirements at Dallas Christian College. To allow time for processing prior to graduation, all credit-by-examination must be completed prior to preregistration for the final semester at DCC. In certain cases, departmental examinations may be required as a part of the evaluation process. The Registrar awards AP, IB, CLEP, and DSST credit according to the following guidelines:

Advanced Placement (AP). Advanced Placement (AP) examinations are a set of national exams on selected college-level topics studied in high school (testing available off campus only). The American Council on Education (ACE) recommends that colleges and universities award credit for AP grades of “3” or higher on any AP Examination. DCC follows this recommendation. For purposes of computing grade point averages (GPA), DCC assigns Advanced Placement credit a grade of “P” (Passing).

The following table lists available AP exams, the number of credits DCC awards for successful completion of each exam, and DCC course requirements those exams may fulfil:

International Baccalaureate (IB). International Baccalaureate Higher-Level Examinations (IB) are an international set of exams on selected topics studied through the International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme (testing available off campus only). The American Council on Education (ACE) recommends that colleges and universities award credit for IB grades of “5” or higher on any IB Examination. Dallas Christian College follows this recommendation. Scores below “5” are not accepted. For purposes of computing grade point averages (GPA), Dallas Christian College assigns IB credit a grade of “P” (Passing).

Upon completion of the International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma Programme, students may earn up to 24 credit hours at DCC. The Registrar evaluates IB credits on an individual basis according to the student’s chosen field of study.

College Level Examination Program (CLEP). The College Level Examination Program (CLEP) is a set of national exams on selected topics offered on a regular schedule (testing available off campus only). The following table lists available CLEP exams, the number of credits DCC awards for successful completion of each exam, and DCC course requirements those exams may fulfil. In setting its requirements, DCC has taken into consideration guidelines published by the American Council on Education (ACE). For purposes of computing grade point averages (GPA), the College assigns CLEP credit a grade of “P” (Passing).

If a student fails a DCC course and then passes a CLEP equivalent, the course grade remains on the DCC transcript, but the course requirement is fulfilled. The only way to remove the grade from the transcript is to retake the same course.

DSST (DANTES Subject Standardized Tests). Students who enroll in Dallas Christian College may also secure credit through DSST, the U.S. military's Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Educational Support (DANTES). The DSST exams cover the equivalent of college introductory courses in more than 50 different subject areas (testing available off campus only).

The following table lists available DSST exams, the number of credits DCC awards for successful completion of each exam, and DCC course requirements those exams may fulfil. In setting its requirements, DCC has taken into consideration guidelines published by the American Council on Education (ACE). Credit for Military Training. Dallas Christian College evaluates military training courses according to the American Council on Education's (ACE) Guide to the Evaluation of Educational Experiences in the Armed Services. Students must submit all pertinent documentation to the Registrar for evaluation. Military transfer courses should be reported on an Army American Council on Education Registry Transcript (AART) or Sailor/Marine American Council on Education Registry Transcript (SMART) or, if not available, on form DD295 for personnel still in service or form DD214 for those discharged.

For more information about academic credit through the American Council on Education (ACE), see the Council's Student Guide to Credit for Prior Learning, the Learner Transfer Guide, and frequently asked questions about the Military Guide (www.acenet.edu/Programs-Services/Pages). To see if a particular military exam or course has been evaluated by ACE, see the Course/Examination Search site.

Earning Alternative Credit. The faculty recognizes that some students come to DCC with college-level competencies that have been developed experientially or attained outside the traditional classroom. Students who enroll in DCC degree programs may obtain credit for such competencies in two ways:

Credit by Demonstrated Competency (CDC). To earn credit by demonstrated competency (CDC), students assemble a portfolio of appropriate evidence for each claimed competency and submit it to the Vice President of Academics. In the portfolio, students must demonstrate the knowledge, skills, and philosophical grounding articulated in the learning objectives for specific courses offered by Dallas Christian College or college-level open electives.

The portfolio must include:

- The student's résumé and an autobiographical sketch.
- A list of Dallas Christian College courses for which the student desires CDC credit.
- Substantial, documented evidence of competencies related to each course. Such evidence may include, for example, examinations, certificates, seminars, workshops, demonstrations, apprenticeships, formal on-the-job training, volunteer experiences, interviews, licenses, job descriptions, memoirs, papers, work products, publications, publicity, references, and other appropriate materials. For each course, students should include a written narrative explaining how the evidence demonstrates achievement of course learning objectives.

After receiving these materials, the Vice President of Academics, in consultation with the appropriate faculty department chair, appoints a CDC Committee consisting of DCC faculty members with expertise in the area(s) under consideration. The Committee then evaluates the evidence and sends its written recommendations to the VP. Based upon the recommendations, the VP may award academic credit according to the level of mastery displayed by the student, waive a required course(s) in the student's degree program, substitute a more advanced course in the same area, or deny the student's petition for credit based on demonstrated competency.

The College treats credits by demonstrated competency (CDC) as DCC credits since DCC did the evaluation and awarded the credits. Thus, CDC credits are taken into consideration when, for example, the registrar determines if students meet the College's residency requirements.

Students must have successfully completed 12+ credit hours of coursework in a degree program at DCC prior to receiving CDC credit. To cover expenses associated with the CDC Committee, DCC charges a fee of $100 for each credit awarded to the student. Upon receipt of this fee, the Registrar records the credits on the student's transcript.

Challenge Examinations. Students may also request a challenge exam through which they demonstrate the competencies associated with a particular DCC course. Challenge exams must be approved in advance by the department chair overseeing that course. The procedure is as follows: The student submits a written request to the Academic Office. If approved, the department chair assigns an appropriate instructor to create the exam and evaluate the student's work. The Academic Office administers the exam.

At the time of application for a challenge exam, students must pay a non-refundable fee of $110 for each credit they hope to earn through the exam.

Students may earn a maximum of 30 credits through credit by demonstrated competency and challenge exams. To allow time for processing prior to graduation, all alternative credits must be completed prior to preregistration for the student's final semester at DCC.

Transferring DCC Credits to Other Institutions. Dallas Christian College is nationally accredited by the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE), an accrediting agency authorized by the United States Department of Education and recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA). Due to this accreditation, students who earn credits from Dallas Christian College can expect that their credits will transfer to other colleges and universities (two-year and four-year). Credits generally transfer, assuming that (1) the courses apply to the student's program at the accepting institution, and (2) the student earned a transferrable grade (usually a C or higher) in the course at Dallas Christian College.

Dallas Christian College cannot guarantee the transfer of credit since each institution sets its own policy regarding acceptance of transfer credit. Students from Dallas Christian College who wish to transfer to other colleges are urged to contact DCC's Academic Office when initiating that process. Students have occasionally experienced initial resistance to accepting credits from DCC since ABHE is less widely known than other accreditors. The Academic Office is equipped to deal with these issues and negotiate for the transfer of credits.

Attendance Policy

Attendance Philosophy. DCC's attendance regulations are based on the belief that students benefit from the discussion and interaction that take place within a community of learners. By missing live class sessions and/or online interactions, students experience a loss that may not be reflected in a final grade but is nevertheless real. Furthermore, DCC has a legal obligation to certify attendance to outside agencies, including the U.S. Department of Education (for financial aid purposes), the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, and other entities such as student lenders and athletic associations. Attendance is therefore required at Dallas Christian College. Minimum attendance requirements must be met to pass DCC courses.

Students are expected to attend regularly and participate actively in each course in which they are enrolled. "Attendance" takes different forms in on-campus courses versus online courses.

Traditional On-Campus Attendance Policy. DCC on-campus courses take the form of 16-week, semester-length courses or shorter "intensive" courses.

Excused versus Unexcused Absences (PASA). Excused absences are those that occur due to a Pre-Approved School-Authorized (PASA) event or a documented illness, emergency, or funeral. PASA events may include athletic events or other DCC-sponsored activities (e.g., conferences, seminars, field trips) as determined and approved by the Academic Council. Intercollegiate Athletics PASAs include ONLY scheduled competitions and not scrimmage or practice sessions.

PASA absences must be made up. Otherwise, they count as unexcused absences.

Student Responsibilities When Absences Occur. For absences to be excused, students must:

- Notify their professors in advance when possible (as in a PASA event) of the reason for the upcoming absence. Students may not ask for makeup work after an absence for a PASA event has occurred.
- Provide professors with documentation of the illness or circumstances that prevented class attendance. Such documentation must come from either a physician or school official.
- Submit any assignments by the due date, even if they are not in attendance on that date.
- Acquire course information and content missed during the absence. Within two weeks of the absence, they must view recordings of class sessions missed and submit notes to the instructor.

Students absent due to an illness that exceeds one week must contact the professor to determine an appropriate amount of time in which to make up missed sessions and assignments.

Absences must be made up within two weeks of the absence or by the deadline set by the instructor. Otherwise, they count as unexcused absences.

Course Failure Due to Unexcused Absences. Unexcused absences may not be made up. Students who exceed the equivalent of one full week of unexcused absences are subject to course failure due to excessive absences. Class sessions missed during the late-registration period count as unexcused absences. The following table shows the maximum number of unexcused absences allowed in a traditional 16-week, semester-long course before receiving a failing grade:

Maximum Unexcused Absences for Traditional 16-Week, Semester-Length Courses
Frequency of Class Meetings	Total Number of Sessions	Maximum Unexcused Absences
3 times per week	43	3
2 times per week	29	2
1 time per week	15	1

Professors may outline additional attendance and participation requirements for a given course, including penalties for non-attendance. These additional requirements must be clearly articulated in the syllabus and may include grade reduction penalties for tardies, non-attendance, or non-participation. Students are responsible for reading the syllabus and knowing the extra requirements.

Maximum Allowed Absences of Any Type. Students are allowed no more than eight total absences—excused and/or unexcused—for a given course. If they exceed this 8-absence maximum, they automatically fail the course due to lack of attendance. Accordingly, students must carefully monitor their attendance and their use of PASA (Pre-Approved School-Authorized event) absences. To illustrate: If an athletic team’s season schedule potentially causes students to miss ten class sessions, they and their coaches must decide in which competitions an individual player will not participate in order to avoid course failure due to excessive absences. Student athletes are first students because DCC is, after all, an academic institution.

“Intensive Course” Attendance. Students may not miss more than 10% of any short, “intensive” course held during Wintermester or other special sessions. PASA absences do not apply to intensive courses.

Worley School of Ministry Attendance Policy. The active, on-ground ministry apprenticeship model of the Worley School of Ministry (WSOM) makes attendance critical to student learning. If students miss more than the equivalent of one full week of class (more than two Sunday and/or Wednesday sessions), they are subject to course failure due to excessive absences. For WSOM, Sunday attendance will be reported based on physical presence in class. Wednesday attendance will be reported based on students submitting the written assignments due for that evening.

WSOM students who must be absent due to important events beyond their control (such as a family wedding, funeral, college visit) should inform the instructor or program director at least one week prior to the absence. To be excused, a student must submit all assignments on time (present or not) and submit notes based on listening to the recording of the class session. If students know this situation will arise more than once during an 8-week course, they should discuss plans with the program director to determine the best course of action.

Extended absences due to extreme circumstance (such as serious illness or injury, surgery) should be taken to the program director, who will decide whether they should be excused.

DCC Online Attendance Policy. The following policies govern online courses offered in the six- or eight-week session format, including course-based master-level programs:

Recording Online Attendance. Although DCC Online students (including summer *FLEX*Campus® students and online graduate students) do not "attend" in the same way students attend in a face-to-face classroom, they must meet DCC attendance requirements. Online attendance is determined by completion of a designated learning activity or assignment each week. To be counted present for the week, students must complete that activity or assignment by no later than 11:59 p.m. on Wednesday of the course week. Note that, under this definition, a student could do all assignments for the week except the designated attendance assignment and still be marked absent. Pre-Approved School-Authorized (PASA) absences (discussed above in the on-campus attendance policy) do not apply to DCC Online courses since students have several days (Monday through Wednesday) within which to register attendance.

Although instructors typically notify online learners of an absence, students should monitor their official attendance record in the DCC Student Portal. If a mistake is made, they should contact the instructor within 48 hours to rectify it.

Maximum Allowed Absences. Students are allowed one week of absence without penalty for a six-week or eight-week online course.

Consequences of Excessive Absences. If students do not attend or participate at all during the first two weeks of an online course, the "no show" policy applies (see below). If students attend any part of the course but are absent during any two weeks of the course, they are subject to course failure, a negative impact on GPA, loss of full tuition for the course, and possibly loss of financial aid. To avoid these penalties, online students should strive to satisfy attendance requirements each week and communicate with the instructor immediately if serious unforeseen factors make attendance impossible.

WARNING. If students are absent for two consecutive weeks (14 consecutive days), it may trigger loss of financial aid even if they remain in the course. Contact the Financial Aid Office for more information (email fa@dallas.edu; telephone 1-214-453-8101).

Competency-Based Program Attendance. DCC's currently offers two Master of Arts programs (M.A. in Language Development and Translation, M.A. in Multicultural Engagement) on a Competency-Based Education (CBE) model. These CBE programs are self-paced, so faculty do not record attendance.

“No Show” Policy. If students do not attend or participate at all during the first two weeks of an on-campus or online course, the Registrar will assume they are “no shows” who do not intend to complete the course—unless, because of exceptional circumstances, prior arrangements have been made with the professor and the Vice President of Academics. The Registrar will therefore remove them from the course roster and implement an administrative withdrawal (AW).

Late Assignment Policy

Students are expected to submit all assignments when due. Regular written work (essays, projects, reflections, research papers, etc.) will be marked down 2% for every day the assignment is late, beginning immediately after the deadline. Without previous arrangements, written work submitted more than two weeks late will not be accepted. Instructors may use more gracious or more stringent late work policies. Students should review the late work policy in each course syllabus.

Discussion forums cannot be late under any circumstances. Once the posting period is over, students will no longer visit the forum, so it is no longer a discussion.

All assignments for traditional on-campus courses must be submitted by 5:00 p.m. on the last class day before Final Exam Week unless the professor sets an earlier deadline. All assignments for DCC Online courses must be submitted by Day 4 after the final week concludes. Regardless of course format, no additional work may be submitted after the deadline unless the student and the professor agree on an alternative completion plan prior to the deadline. Even then, severe penalties may apply.

The professor may modify this standard by documenting the modification in the syllabus or introductory email for the course.

Final grades for traditional courses must be reported to the Registrar’s office within 48 hours after the final exam or final project is due. Final grades for all other courses must be reported within one week after the final exam or final project is due. Students should be aware that instructors will report student grades as they stand at the deadline. Instructors can submit an official grade change for a student if agreed-upon coursework is submitted after the grade report deadline.

When issues arise that make it difficult to complete a course on time, students should refer to the policy regarding “Filing for an Incomplete” (see below).

Policy for On-Campus Tests and Final Examinations

Students are expected to complete all examinations—including quizzes, mid-term exams, and final exams—on their assigned dates.

Make-Up Exams. If students miss a regular test, quiz, or mid-term exam (not a final exam), they may complete a make-up exam after the test date only in one of the following circumstances:

- Students notify the professor in advance of the absence, and together they agree on a time for the student to make up the test.
- Students present a worthy case as to (1) why they were unable to notify the professor of the absence in advance, and (2) why the test or quiz could not be taken on time (e.g., “I was ready to take the test, but was in an accident and was in the hospital”).

Final Examinations. DCC’s traditional on-campus calendar includes a Final Exam Week at the end of every semester. Final examinations—including major projects and other academic activities assigned in lieu of final exams—must be completed during Final Exam Week. Classes must meet during Final Exam Week.

Requests to reschedule a final exam will be considered only if a student has three exams scheduled on the same day. Requests must be submitted to the professor in writing prior to Final Exam Week.

Students involved in college-approved travel on a scheduled Final Exam day (e.g., participation in a post-season athletic competition) may arrange with the professor to have the examination given by a pre-approved proctor—usually DCC personnel sponsoring the event. Such requests must be submitted by the sponsoring personnel on behalf of the student. Requests to reschedule any exam to accommodate merely personal travel will not be granted.

Instructional Crisis Recovery Plan

Crisis Management. DCC’s full Crisis Management Plan, which addresses many types of crises, appears on the college website (<https://www.dallas.edu>). If a crisis interferes with instruction, the College will respond as follows:

Response to a Crisis That Prevents Classes from Meeting on Campus. If a crisis prevents the majority of DCC classes from meeting on campus, the instructional functions of the College will move entirely to the online Learning Management System (LMS), which is Moodle. Although multiple means of communication will be used when available, students should go to their course sites to receive news about the course, adjustments being made, directions from their instructors, and other instructional needs. Students will be responsible for finding a way to access their course sites. The LMS is compatible with portable devices such as smartphones and tablets. The majority of DCC's library and learning resources are online, so students should have continued access to them. Along with monitoring their course sites, students should check their DCC email (i.e., firstname.lastname@dallas.edu) for official messages from the College. In addition, students will have access to their college's student information system via their student portal. The student information system is also cloud-based and available on the web. This will allow students seamless access to online class registration, class schedule, grades and transcripts, online bill pay, financial aid information, notes or alerts from faculty, and the ability to electronically sign official college documents.

Response to a Crisis that Prevents Classes from Meeting in Moodle. The Moodle Learning Management System (LMS) is hosted off-site in the cloud with OpenLMS, which provides a 99.9% uptime guarantee. Therefore, it is not expected that a crisis on the DCC campus or even in Dallas would prevent all instruction from going to the LMS. If a crisis is large enough that the LMS is down for a significant period of time, students should access their DCC email (firstname.lastname@dallas.edu), which is also a cloud service, to learn about alternative plans. If a return to instruction within a reasonable time is not possible, DCC maintains a surety bond to protect students as consumers.

Grading Systems

Grading Philosophy. Grades symbolize the student's work accomplished, personal achievement, competencies, and knowledge gained and retained in a usable form. Grades are not the only measure of a student's success, but they are one statement concerning student progress and achievement.

Letter Grade System. In all undergraduate and some graduate programs, Dallas Christian College uses the following letter grade system to indicate the grade points earned per credit hour. Grade points are used to compute the grade point average (GPA) described below.

Grades of F, I, W/F, and XF are computed as 0.00 grade points for purposes of computing students' grade point average.

Grade	Description	Suggested Numeric Value	Grade Points
A	Excellent	93-100	4.00
A-		90-92	3.67
B+		87-89	3.33
B	Good	83-86	3.00
B-		80-82	2.67
C+		77-79	2.33
C	Average	73-76	2.00
C-		70-72	1.67
D+		67-79	1.33
D	Passing	63-66	1.00
D-		60-62	0.67
F	Failing	0-59	0.00
P	Pass in a Pass/Fail Option	N/A	0.00
NC	No Credit	N/A	0.00
I*	Incomplete	N/A	0.00
IP	In Progress	N/A	0.00
IPC	In Progress – Continuation Required	N/A	0.00
R*	Denotes course repeated for credit	N/A	0.00
XF*	Failure Due to Academic Dishonesty	N/A	0.00

W	Approved Withdrawal	N/A	0.00
W/P	Approved Withdrawal Passing	N/A	0.00
W/F*	Withdrawal Failing	N/A	0.00
AW	Administrative Withdrawal	N/A	0.00

Credit hours are computed for grade point average (GPA).*

Credit hours are not computed for grade point average (GPA).*

Competency-Based Education (CBE) Grading Systems. DCC’s Master of Arts programs (M.A. in Language Development and Translation, M.A. in Multicultural Engagement) utilize a Competency-Based Education (CBE) system. Students do not graduate from these programs until the faculty judges them “competent” in every required program-level competency. CBE programs employ the following grading system:

Grade	Abbreviation	Description	Grade Points
Competent	COMP	Competent in all learning objective(s)	N/A
In Progress	IP		N/A

The registrar uses the “IP” grade when, for example, students have demonstrated a competency but have not yet paid the Competency Assessment Fee required for placing that competency on the student’s transcript.

Grades Entered Only by the Registrar. The following grades are entered only by the Registrar: NC, I, IP, W, W/P, W/F, AW, and XF. If professors believe that one of these grades is appropriate but not reflected (or incorrectly reflected) in the DCC Faculty Portal system, they should contact the DCC Registrar.

Filing for an Incomplete (“I”). Incompletes must be filed by petition. Forms for incompletes may be requested from or picked up in the Academic Office. A $60 Incomplete fee will be charged for each course in which a student requests an Incomplete. A completed form must be filed with the Registrar by the end of the 12th week for full-semester courses or before the beginning of the final week of class or the final class session for any DCC Online or other accelerated class. Upon approval by the professor and Vice President of Academics (or academic advisor for DCC Online students), an incomplete may be granted in circumstances of death in the immediate family, sickness, or extreme circumstances. If the Incomplete is not removed within six weeks of the end of the on-campus semester or online session, there will be no extension on the original incomplete, and the student’s grade will automatically be recorded as the grade which the student would have received if an incomplete had not been granted. Granting an incomplete is predicated upon prior satisfactory completion of at least 50% of the course assignments.

Failure Due to Academic Dishonesty (“XF”). Students caught cheating on a test, plagiarizing, or violating academic integrity standards in any fashion may be given a grade of “XF” at the discretion of the Student Conduct Committee. An “XF” will be recorded by the Registrar on the student’s permanent record and reflected on the transcript as “XF – Failure Due to Academic Dishonesty.”

The “XF” grade can be removed from the student’s academic record when the student submits a formal written request to the Academic Office. This request must be submitted after the student has completed an additional semester of study at DCC, but before the end of one year after the “XF” grade was earned. A committee appointed by the Vice President of Academics will review the request and meet with the student. This committee will make the final decision regarding the changing of the grade from “XF” to “F.”

Grades Submission Deadlines. Faculty must submit final grades for traditional 15-week courses within 48 hours after the final exam has been administered. Grades for all other courses (Wintermester, Maymester, DCC Online, and summer online FLEXCampus® courses) are due within one week after the course end date.

Grade Point Average (GPA). The grade points earned in each course are computed by multiplying the number of credit hours for the course by the grade point value of the grade received. The student's grade point average (GPA) each term is determined by dividing the total number of grade points earned in all courses by the total number of credit hours taken. For example, if 45 grade points are earned in taking 15 credit hours, the GPA is 3.00. The cumulative GPA, which establishes academic progress, is determined by dividing the total number of grade points in all terms by the total number of credit hours taken in all terms. Transferred coursework is counted in computing the cumulative grade point average.

DCC rounds GPAs to two decimal places (e.g., 3.33). This guideline establishes fairness and equality in areas such as academic honors and requirements set for athletic participation.

Course Assignment Grades and Final Grade Reports. For both on-campus and online courses, students may access grades and instructor feedback on individual assignments through the Gradebook found in each DCC Online/Moodle course site. Official final course grades appear in the DCC Student Portal (<https://portal.dallas.edu>). Students may request printed grade reports from the Registrar's Office at the end of each term.

Grade Appeals. If students believe a grading error has been made, they should immediately discuss it with the professor to resolve the issue. Students may petition to challenge a final grade through the Academic Office. A petition must be submitted within one calendar year from the end of the term in which the grade was received. The DCC Student Handbook details the appeals process (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Academic Transcripts

The Registrar's Office maintains students' educational records, including official academic transcripts showing course grades and credits earned.

Transcript Requests. Dallas Christian College students and alumni may obtain electronic copies of their official transcripts through DCC's partnership with the Parchment service provider. Instructions and the Transcript Request form appear on the College website (www.dallas.edu/transcript). Parchment charges a $10 fee for each transcript and delivers them almost instantly to those whom the student designates (e.g., other colleges and graduate schools, employers, themselves).

Students may also obtain free paper copies of their official transcripts by visiting or sending a written request to the Registrar's Office (registrar@dallas.edu).

DCC releases official transcripts only if students have settled all financial accounts with all departments of the College.

Policy on Student Privacy and Release of Information

In accordance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) of 1974, Dallas Christian College is committed to protecting the confidentiality of student records and the rights of students to (a) inspect and review their educational records, (b) seek correction of inaccurate or misleading data through informal and formal hearings, (c) consent to disclosure of their educational records, and (d) file a formal complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the institution to comply with the Act. Further information about students' legal rights appears in Section 16.6 of the DCC Student Handbook. Contact the Registrar's Office with specific questions regarding FERPA (registrar@dallas.edu).

Academic Standing for Undergraduate Students

Good Academic Standing. To graduate with an undergraduate certificate, associate degree, or baccalaureate degree from Dallas Christian College, students must hold a minimum cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 ("C") on a 4-point scale. Therefore, to remain in "good standing" and on track for graduation, students must maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.0. Students should strive to maintain "good" academic standing during their entire enrollment at DCC for a variety of reasons, including athletic eligibility and financial aid eligibility. The Registrar computes GPAs and academic standing at the end of each term.

Academic Probation. At the end of each term, students whose cumulative GPA falls below 2.0 are placed on academic probation for the following term. Transfer students completing their first term at DCC are likewise placed on academic probation if their term GPA falls below 2.0. Any full-time students whose term GPA falls below 1.0 are automatically placed on academic probation for the following term, regardless of their cumulative GPA. The Registrar notifies students in writing if they are placed on academic probation.

Traditional, on-campus students on probation are limited to 13 credits per term and required to complete the one-credit DVLS 0101 Building Academic Success course. They must secure permission from the Academic Office to participate in extra-curricular activities, such as leadership roles with ministry teams and other travel representing the College. Kingdom Week travel is allowed.

Student athletes retain their eligibility while on academic probation, provided that they still meet NCCAA eligibility standards. Those eligible to compete are required to complete all academic probation requirements (including DVLS 0101) plus any additional requirements set forth by the Athletic Director.

DCC Online students on academic probation are limited to taking one course per 6-week session.

Getting Off Probation. To get off probation, undergraduates must raise their cumulative GPA to the required 2.0 by the end of the probationary term. Traditional students must also pass DVLS 0101 Building Academic Success.

Academic Suspension. If students on academic probation do not raise their cumulative GPA to the required 2.0 minimum during the probationary term, they are suspended from the College for one term. Academic suspension bars students from continued enrollment at Dallas Christian College, bars them from living in DCC housing, and bars them from participation in extra-curricular activities, such as sports practices and competitions. The Registrar notifies students in writing if they have been placed on academic suspension.

PLEASE NOTE: If undergraduate students enrolled in a DCC Online program operating year-round incur an academic suspension during Spring Term, then the following Summer Term counts as their “one-term suspension.” If students enrolled in a traditional on-campus program (i.e., Fall and Spring Term courses with summers off) incur an academic suspension during Spring Term, then the following Fall Term counts as their “one-term suspension.”

Appealing Academic Suspension. Students placed on academic suspension may submit a written appeal to the Vice President of Academics, asking permission to continue on probation for one more term in an effort to raise their GPA to the required minimum and thus avoid suspension. The appeal letter should include realistic strategies for improving their academic performance. For an appeal to be considered, students must meet the following requirements:

- Students must have earned a minimum term GPA of 1.67 GPA for the months on probation.

- Students must hold a minimum cumulative GPA of 1.85 at the end of their probationary term.
- They must not have exceeded the maximum number of unexcused absences allowed for any course while on probation. (The Vice President may take into consideration extraordinary circumstances, such as a serious personal illness or accident, or the death of a family member.)
- Traditional on-campus students must have passed DVLS 0101 Building Academic Success while on probation.

If students meet these conditions, the Vice President will also consider other factors, such as faculty input and mitigating circumstances, when deciding whether to grant the appeal. The VP will not grant suspension appeals for two consecutive terms.

If an appeal is granted, students will be allowed to continue on academic probation for one more term under the normal limitations (see above). A second term on probation may also impact their financial aid and NCCAA athletic eligibility.

If students do not raise their cumulative GPA to the required level by the end of this second probationary term, they will be academically suspended and not eligible for appeal.

Readmission after Academic Suspension. If students academically suspended from DCC later want to return, they must reapply to the College following the full admissions process. If, during the interval, they have taken no action to improve their GPA (through, for example, transfer courses or other credit for prior learning), they will reenter on academic probation.

Academic Standing for Graduate Students

Good Academic Standing. To graduate with a master's degree from DCC, students must hold a minimum cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 2.6 ("B-") on a 4-point scale. Therefore, to remain in "good standing" and on track for graduation, students must maintain a cumulative GPA of 2.6. The Registrar computes GPAs and academic standing at the end of each term.

Academic Probation. At the end of each term (consisting of two 8-week sessions), graduate students whose cumulative GPA falls below 2.6 are placed on academic probation for the following term. The Registrar notifies students in writing if they are placed on academic probation. Graduate students on probation are limited to one course per 8-week session. They should contact the program director for advice on improving academic performance. It may help to repeat courses for which they earned a final grade lower than “Competent.”

Getting Off Probation. To get off probation, graduate students must raise their cumulative GPA to the required 2.6 by the end of the probationary term.

Academic Suspension and Readmission. If the cumulative GPA remains below 2.6 at the end of the probationary term, graduate students are suspended from the College on academic grounds. After one term, they may reapply to return to the master’s program, making their case for continuation with the program director.

Academic Integrity Policy Statement

Academic Honesty. Honesty in all academic endeavors is vital as an expression of the Christian life. It is required that students at Dallas Christian College will not participate in cheating, plagiarism (using another’s words or ideas as one’s own work without properly crediting the original source), or other forms of academic dishonesty, nor encourage or condone such behavior by permitting it and/or allowing it to go unreported. All assignments must be the student’s original work for the course in which the material is submitted. When a student utilizes work that is not his/her own, proper credit must be given to the source of the information.

Writing assistance such as a proofreader or a writing lab can contribute to the excellence of a student’s work. This assistance should be limited to identifying issues. The student must do the corrections and revisions.

AI Tools. Now that Artificial Intelligence (AI) tools such as ChatGPT and DALL•E are mainstream, all students need to know that using AI inappropriately in an academic setting constitutes academic dishonesty and could result in failing the assignment, failing the entire course, or dismissal. DCC offers the following clarifications in order to prevent any misunderstanding.

1. Academic dishonesty occurs any time students present work as their own when they did not actually produce the work for that assignment.
2. Using AI to write a paragraph, a discussion post, an entire essay, a poem, or a song—even if a student makes a few edits so it is not an exact copy—is not allowed.
3. When authoritative quotations are required to support a point, reputable sources should be used and cited properly. ChatGPT is not a reputable source.
4. Using AI to find answers to quiz or exam questions is academic dishonesty even if it is cited.

5. Using a voice clone and/or a deep fake to create something such as a speech is academic dishonesty. It may sound like your voice and look like you talking, but you did not actually deliver the speech.
6. If it feels like cheating, it is probably academic dishonesty.

Instructors may allow students to use AI tools for specifically directed tasks. Any such uses by students must be explicitly permitted by the instructor in the syllabus, and the use of the AI tool must be properly cited in the assignment. Such uses are limited to the specific instructor and to the specific task.

Rationale. Why does Dallas Christian College restrict the educational use of AI tools? The key word is educational. When instructors design assignments, they are intended to help students achieve educational outcomes by doing the work. If students use an AI, it may reduce the work and time to complete the assignment but also diminishes the intended learning. Exams are designed to assess how well students have learned. If an AI is used, it does not reflect the knowledge and skills of the student whose name is on the exam. (Note: Technology changes fast, so DCC reserves the right to revise this policy at any time.)

Academic dishonesty is a serious violation of morality and academic integrity and will not be tolerated. Academic Dishonesty (cheating) will be reported to the registrar (who maintains a record of violations), as well as the department chair who oversees the course. Depending on the egregiousness of the offense and whether it is a first or repeat offense, the student may receive a zero for the assignment or exam, fail the course, receive an “XF” for the course, and/or be dismissed from the college. The grade of “XF” will be recorded on the student’s permanent record and reflected on the transcript as “XF – Failure Due to Academic Dishonesty.” The “XF” may be removed from a student’s record as outlined in the DCC Academic Catalog.

Disciplinary Probation and Suspension

Student and Employee Handbooks. The DCC Student Handbook outlines rules, regulations, policies, and procedures governing student conduct in a Christ-centered community of learners (see www.dallas.edu/student-resources). The Employee Handbook does the same for faculty and staff.

Disciplinary Probation. Students who violate College rules can be placed on disciplinary probation by action of the Student Conduct Committee. Students placed on disciplinary probation are not permitted to participate in leadership roles, ministry teams, or travel for the College. The Athletic Department may impose additional penalties, such as suspension from team games or practice. Continued violations while on probation make students subject to disciplinary dismissal.

Disciplinary Suspension. Students guilty of serious violation of College rules will be dismissed from the College under the conditions set forth in the DCC Student Handbook.

NOTE: No student may graduate from Dallas Christian College while on academic or disciplinary probation or suspension. Graduates must be “in good standing” with the College, having met both the academic requirements and community standards.

DCC Athletic Eligibility

NCCAA Standards. Dallas Christian College is a member of the National Christian College Athletic Association (NCCAA). When determining the eligibility of student athletes, the College follows the NCCAA eligibility guidelines in effect for a given semester.

DCC Standards. Because student athletes are first students, and because they represent the College, DCC reserves the right to (1) enact additional and/or more rigorous standards for eligibility; (2) require academic mentoring as needed; and (3) suspend players from participation in practice sessions, specific games, or sets of games on the grounds of (a) poor attendance in one or more courses, (b) poor academic progress in one or more courses, (c) poor attendance in CHRS 1000 Developing Christian Influence, or (d) behavior that violates standards set in the Student Handbook and constitutes grounds for disciplinary action by the Student Conduct Committee.

Poor attendance in CHRS 1000 Developing Christian Influence is determined after the third week of the semester. Student athletes who have missed more than 25% of the chapel services for a given semester will be ineligible until their attendance improves to above that threshold.

Adding, Dropping, or Withdrawing from Courses

Course Changes. Students who are considering adding, dropping, or withdrawing from a course should first consult with their academic advisor and the financial aid office (including the VA certifying official for veterans) to discuss the educational and financial implications of these actions. Depending on a student’s individual circumstances and financial aid package, dropping or withdrawing from a course could lead to loss of (1) full-time student status, (2) satisfactory academic progress,

(3) current or future financial aid eligibility, (4) scholarships, (5) VA benefits, (6) on-campus housing, (7) athletic eligibility, and/or (8) work-study hours. It could (9) cause DCC to remove financial aid funds from the student's account and return them to the government, and/or (10) trigger student repayment of loans.

Students must complete all changes through the Registrar's Office by filling out a course change form (registrar@dallas.edu).

Course Change Deadlines. DCC Academic Calendars (found near the end of this catalog) include specific deadlines for adding, dropping, or withdrawing from courses in traditional on-campus programs, DCC Online programs, and graduate programs.

Adding a Course. If students add a course after the start of a term or session, they may have incurred absences for the portion of the course missed prior to enrollment. Therefore, they must "catch up" by quickly securing required textbooks and completing missed assignments. Missing assignments impact the final grade.

Dropping a Course. If students drop a course by the deadline, that course will appear on their transcript as a "W" (Withdrawn). As noted above, dropping a course may have negative consequences, such as loss of full-time student status and loss of financial aid. Students should consult with their academic advisor and a financial aid counselor in advance to discuss the educational and financial implications of such actions.

Students bear the responsibility for dropping a course in which they decide not to participate. If students decide to drop but do not notify the Registrar, they remain financially responsible for the course. If students do not attend or participate at all during the first two weeks of an online course, the "no show" policy applies.

NOTE: The student's enrollment at the end of the drop period is counted as that term's "attempted hours" for purposes of financial aid—even if the student later withdraws from a course.

Withdrawing from a Course. The academic calendars include multiple deadlines for withdrawing from a course:

- If students complete a withdrawal by the first withdrawal deadline (which occurs sometime during the first week of the course), they will receive a full or partial tuition refund. The course will either not appear on their transcript or will appear as a "W" (Approved Withdrawal). Deadlines and processes vary depending on the timing and the type of course. Check the academic calendars for specifics.

- If students withdraw after the first withdrawal deadline but prior to the “last day to withdraw passing,” instructors will compute their course grade based on assignments submitted to that point. The course will appear on their transcript with either a grade of “W/P” (Approved Withdrawal While Passing) or “W/F” (Approved Withdrawal While Failing).
- If students withdraw after the “last day to withdraw passing,” the course will appear on their transcript with a grade of “W/F” (Approved Withdrawal While Failing). This policy discourages students from hiding a term-long failing performance under cover of a last-minute withdrawal.

A grade of “W/P” is not calculated in the student’s grade-point average (GPA). A grade of W/F is calculated in the GPA as an “F”.

The student is solely responsible for initiating and completing the withdrawal process. After the second week of a course, all withdrawals require permission from the student’s professor, academic advisor, and the Registrar. A withdrawal becomes effective on the date the student submits a completed Withdrawal Form to the Registrar’s Office. Forms are available in that Office or online.

Administrative Removal from a Course. At any time during the term or session, the Registrar may administratively remove students from a course based on failure to meet attendance requirements, or violations of behavioral standards. The Registrar’s Office notifies students of administrative removals. Such students receive a grade of “F”. Students are responsible for tuition and fees for the course. Possible consequences of the removal include, for example, loss of full-time student status and current or future financial aid.

If students are administratively removed from all their courses, they are required to move out of the residence halls.

Administrative Schedule Change Due to Course Cancellation. Typically, a minimum of six enrollees must be registered for a course to be offered. (This threshold does not apply to private music classes or approved Directed Independent Studies.) If a course does not meet this threshold, the academic administration will review the matter to determine if there are compelling reasons to allow the course to proceed as a regular course or Directed Independent Study (e.g., a senior-level course required for pending graduation).

If a course is cancelled, the Registrar will notify students and unregister them from the course. They will not be charged tuition or any associated course fees. Students may need to add another course to meet financial aid and/or other scholarship or grant requirements. The Registrar will facilitate their move to another course.

Retaking Courses

Course Repeats. DCC allows students to retake courses in which they earned a low grade (D, C) or failing grade (F, XF, W/F). They may not repeat a course for credit if they earned a “B-” or better. The College places no limit on the number of times students may retake a course. An “R*” to the right of the grade on the transcript denotes a course repeated for credit.

Certain types of courses may be repeated for credit without being identified as “Repeats.” Examples include applied music instruction, applied music ensembles, team sports, internships, and 4000-level “topical” courses with different content (e.g., CRIJ 4_00 Special Topics in Criminal Justice).

Impact on GPA. Students who fail a required course are encouraged to retake that course the next time it is offered. If they earn a higher grade, then both the original grade and the higher grade are recorded on their transcript. However, the lower grade points and credits do not count toward their cumulative grade-point average (GPA).

If a student completes a required course at DCC earning a low or failing grade, and then completes an equivalent course at another institution earning a higher grade, and then transfers that course to DCC to fulfil degree requirements, then the lower grade and credit hours remain on the DCC transcript. The only way to remove the lower DCC grade from the transcript is to retake the same course at DCC.

Financial Aid Implications. Students planning to retake a course should discuss it with a financial aid counselor in advance to understand its impact on student aid. This is necessary because policies vary for different types of aid. To illustrate: Some types of financial aid fund repeats of courses in which students earned an “F.” Others allow students to repeat once a course for which they earned a satisfactory grade in an attempt to earn a higher grade. Others do not pay for repeats of a course previously completed with a passing grade (“D” or above) unless a higher grade for that course is a requirement for graduation. The counselor will help students choose the best course of action based on their own circumstances and the types of aid they receive.

Changing Degree Plans

Change of Degree Plan. Students desiring to change a degree plan (including a change of degree, major, minor, concentration, emphasis, or teacher education content area) must submit a request to the Registrar’s Office in person or via email (registrar@dallas.edu). The Registrar will review the degree plan with students to inform them of specific applications of already-earned credits toward the desired degree program, as well as the impact the change may have on course requirements, schedules, and graduation goals. Students are strongly urged to consult with the Financial Aid Office in advance to see what impact the change may have on their financial aid package.

Degree Completion Programs. In accordance with ABHE accreditation standards and policies, students currently enrolled in baccalaureate programs requiring both a Bible Major and a professional major may not change to a Degree Completion Program (DCP) requiring a professional major and a Bible Minor. As explained elsewhere in this catalog (“Types of Degree Programs”), DCPs are designed for students in a particular set of circumstances.

Student Leave of Absence

Leave of Absence. In accordance with guidelines set forth by the U.S. Department of Education relative to Title IV funds, students attending Dallas Christian College may request a “leave of absence” from coursework should an appropriate situation arise. Requests for a leave of absence must be submitted for approval to the Vice President of Academics prior to departure unless unforeseen circumstances prevent students from doing so, in which case the request must be submitted as soon as circumstances permit.

Any request must be written, signed, and dated by the student. It must include the rationale for the leave of absence and establish a reasonable expectation that the student will return from the leave. A valid request cannot exceed 180 calendar days from the beginning of the leave to the return to attendance within any 12-month period. Any student receiving federal financial aid must also complete a consultation with a DCC financial aid advisor.

Military Absences for Deployment or Training. Dallas Christian College complies with the Executive Order of 2012 {section 2(e)} which requires that the College “...allow service members and reservists to be readmitted to a program if they are temporarily unable to attend class or have to suspend their studies due to service requirements, and take additional steps to accommodate short absences due to service obligations, provided that satisfactory academic progress is being made by the service members and reservists prior to suspending their studies.”

DCC will accommodate short absences due to service obligations by excusing up to three weeks of absences for full-semester courses if the student (1) is making satisfactory academic progress, (2) notifies the Registrar’s Office in advance, and

(3) arranges with each instructor a schedule for completing coursework before the service obligation begins.

Since DCC Online classes are only six weeks long, and the timing of the obligation may fall at any point in those six weeks, DCC Online students fulfilling a short-term military obligation are given two options: (1) The student may be administratively removed from the course at no charge, or (2) the student may request an Incomplete (“I”) with a waiver of the requirement that at least 50% of coursework must be satisfactorily completed. The Incomplete Fee will be waived.

Wintermester courses are never more than two weeks long and are highly dependent on class time. Therefore, students fulfilling a short-term service obligation during one of these courses will be administratively removed at no charge.

Withdrawing from Dallas Christian College

Voluntary Withdrawal. Students desiring to withdraw entirely from the College after the start of a term must contact the Registrar’s Office and request a Student Exit Form. The form requires signatures from the Registrar, Financial Aid Director, Business Office, and Resident Director to ensure they understand the implications of leaving the College and have met all obligations to each department.

Students should confer with a financial aid counselor prior to withdrawal to ensure that they fully understand the financial implications of their decision. Withdrawal may, for example, cause DCC to remove financial aid funds from student accounts and return them to the government, or it may trigger student repayment of loans.

Administrative Removal. In certain circumstances, the DCC Registrar may administratively remove students from a course or the College even against their will. Examples include cases of academic suspension and disciplinary suspension. (See above under “Administrative Removal from a Course.”) If students are administratively removed from all their courses, they are required to move out of the residence halls.

Readmission After Withdrawal from DCC

Readmission after Absence. If students desire to return to DCC after an absence of one year (three consecutive terms for graduate students) for any reason, they must apply for readmission. If accepted, they enter under the degree requirements in place at the time of readmission.

Readmission after Suspension. If dismissed for academic or disciplinary reasons, students may apply for reinstatement only after an absence of two full terms. If they were enrolled in a DCC Online program operating year-round, and if they were suspended during Fall Term, then the following Spring Term and Summer Term count as their two-term suspension. If they were enrolled in a traditional on-campus program (i.e., Fall and Spring Term courses with summers off), and if they were suspended during Spring Term, then the following Fall Term and Spring Term count as their “two-term suspension.”

If they were suspended for academic reasons, students must complete a personal interview satisfactory to the Academic Office to be readmitted conditionally, and they must repeat all courses in which they earned grades of “D” or “F”. Should satisfactory progress not be evident, final readmission will not be granted.

If they were suspended for disciplinary reasons, students must complete a personal interview satisfactory to the Academic Office and the Student Conduct Committee. If readmitted, they must maintain academic standards and the standard of conduct outlined in the DCC Student Handbook.

Graduation Requirements

To earn a degree, certificate, or other credential from Dallas Christian College, students must complete all required coursework and/or competencies within the specified time limit, earn a sufficient grade point average, fulfil DCC’s residency requirements, and be in good standing with the College. DCC will not release diplomas or allow participation in graduation ceremonies until students have settled all financial accounts with all departments of the College.

Degree Requirements. For course and program requirements for each DCC degree, see the program descriptions included in the sections of this Catalog devoted to each academic department (above).

DCC’s academic programs must, by definition, include a minimum of 60 credits for an associate degree, 120 credits for a baccalaureate degree, and 30 credits for a master’s degree. In some cases, students must complete Open Electives to meet these standards.

Undergraduate Requirements for Graduation. Alongside course and program requirements, candidates for associate and baccalaureate degrees must meet the following conditions to qualify for graduation:

- Candidates must complete a Graduation Application six months prior to their planned graduation date and pay the non-refundable $200 Graduation Fee in the term they plan to graduate.
- Candidates must have completed all coursework and assignments by the week prior to Commencement.
- Candidates must have attained a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00 for all coursework applied to the degree, including transfer credits.
- Baccalaureate candidates must also earn:
 - A minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00 for all coursework in their Bible Major or Minor, and
 - A minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00 for all coursework in their chosen professional major.
- Candidates must meet DCC residency requirements (described below).
- Candidates must have completed their studies within the maximum timeframe for completing degrees (described below).
- Candidates must have completed any required departmental and institutional quality assessments, such as student satisfaction surveys or exit interviews.
- Candidates must have fulfilled all financial obligations to the College related to student accounts, financial aid (including exit counseling), library, and other departments. All financial obligations and academic issues from previous terms must be resolved by April 1 prior to Commencement. DCC will not release diplomas or allow participation in graduation ceremonies until students have settled all financial accounts with all departments of the College.
- Candidates must be “in good standing” with the College, having met both the academic requirements and community standards. No student may graduate from DCC while on academic or disciplinary probation or suspension.

Graduate Student Requirements for Graduation. Alongside course and program requirements, candidates for a graduate degree or certificate must meet the following conditions to qualify for graduation:

- Candidates must complete a Graduation Application six months prior to their planned graduation date and pay the non-refundable Graduation Fee in the term they plan to graduate.
- Candidates must have completed all required coursework, assignments, and/or competencies by the week prior to Commencement.

- Candidates must have attained a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.60 for all coursework applied to the degree, including transfer credits. For competency-based programs, candidates must have demonstrated all required competencies to the faculty's satisfaction.
- Candidates must meet DCC residency requirements (described below).
- Candidates must have completed their studies within the maximum timeframe for completing degrees (described below).
- Candidates must have completed any required departmental and institutional quality assessments, such as student satisfaction surveys or exit interviews.
- Candidates must have fulfilled all financial obligations to the College related to student accounts, financial aid (including exit counseling), library, and other departments. All financial obligations and academic issues from previous terms must be resolved by April 1 prior to Commencement. DCC will not release diplomas or allow participation in graduation ceremonies until students have settled all financial accounts with all departments of the College.
- Candidates must be “in good standing” with the College, having met both the academic requirements and community standards. No student may graduate from DCC while on academic or disciplinary probation or suspension.

DCC Residency Requirements for Graduation. To receive a degree from Dallas Christian College, students must complete a significant portion of the required coursework at DCC. These “residency requirements” ensure that academic programs reflect DCC’s distinctive mission, ethos, values, and educational aims, so that the student’s degree may reasonably be called a “Dallas Christian College degree.” Accordingly,

- To receive an associate degree from Dallas Christian College, at least 25% of the degree credits (usually 15) must be earned at DCC. Typically, students must complete at least 15 of the last 26 credits at DCC.
- To receive a baccalaureate degree from Dallas Christian College, at least 25% of the degree credits (usually 30) must be earned at DCC—including at least 30 credits in the professional major. Typically, students must complete at least 30 of the last 42 credits at DCC. Students may transfer a maximum of 60 credits from two-year colleges.
- To receive a master’s degree from Dallas Christian College, at least 66% of the degree credits (usually 24) must be earned at DCC.

- To receive a certificate or credential, students must complete at least 25% of the required credits at DCC.

Course-Based Programs. All types of DCC courses—traditional on-campus, DCC Online, *FLEX*Campus®, and Dual Credit Enrollment (DCE)—count toward meeting residency requirements.

Transfer limits apply to all forms of Credit by Prior Learning (CPL), including AP, IB, CLEP, DSST, and military training. The College treats credits by demonstrated competency (CDC) as DCC credits since DCC did the evaluation and awarded the credits. Thus, CDC credits count toward residency requirements.

Active-duty service members and their spouses, including Reservists and National Guard members on active duty, are exempt from the requirement to complete a specified number of their “last” credits at DCC. The Academic Council may approve other special arrangements.

Competency-Based Programs. DCC offers two Master of Arts programs (M.A. in Language Development and Translation, M.A. in Multicultural Engagement) on a Competency-Based Education (CBE) model. To earn these degrees, students do not pass courses but demonstrate required professional competencies. DCC places no limits on CDC credits earned as part of a CBE program.

Maximum Timeframe for Completing Degrees. Candidates enrolling in a degree program fulfil the catalog requirements in effect at the time they enter the program. Students are responsible for arranging their schedules to complete courses when they become available. Students may choose to adopt a newer catalog and its curricular requirements, but they may not combine the requirements of two catalogs.

NOTE: An archive of past catalogs appears on the DCC website (www.dallas.edu/academics).

The college recognizes that not all students will be able to complete their degree requirements within the normal timeframe (two years for an associate’s degree, four years for a bachelor’s degree, and two years for a master’s degree). Accordingly, DCC permits students to complete their degrees under the original catalog requirements as long as they do so within 200% of the normal timeframe—that is, four years for an associate degree, eight years for a baccalaureate, and four years for a master’s degree. If degrees are not completed within the allotted timeframe, students must fulfil the new degree requirements in place at that time. This policy ensures that students’ knowledge and professional skills are reasonably up-to-date at the time DCC awards the degree.

Students who exit the college must reapply to return. They must then complete the catalog requirements in force at the time of re-enrollment.

DCC Diplomas and Transcripts. Diplomas awarded by Dallas Christian College include the graduate's degree and major(s), along with the content area for teacher education students. Diplomas do not include minors or concentrations.

DCC transcripts include all courses completed, final grades, degree(s) awarded, majors, minors, concentrations, emphases, and teacher education content areas as applicable.

Changes in Degree Requirements. As part of its quality control efforts, DCC constantly reviews, assesses, and revises its educational programs to meet changing world needs. Accordingly, this academic catalog should not be considered a contract between DCC and its students. While the College fully intends to offer all the programs and courses described therein, it retains the right to alter programs and course offerings for the sake of improvement. In such cases, the faculty offers students reasonable substitutions or other accommodations if courses required under a given degree program are significantly altered or removed from the curriculum.

Undergraduate Awards and Academic Honors

Dean's List. As an incentive to academic achievement, the Registrar publishes an undergraduate Dean's List at the end of each term. Full-time, degree-seeking undergraduate students who earn a grade point average (GPA) of 3.5-3.79 for that term are recognized on the Dean's List.

President's List. At the end of each term, the Registrar also publishes a President's List. Full-time, degree-seeking undergraduate students who earn a GPA of 3.8-4.0 for that term are recognized on the President's List.

Valedictorian and Salutatorian. DCC honors the graduating senior with the highest cumulative grade point average (GPA) as class “valedictorian.” The graduate with the second-highest GPA is named “salutatorian.” These honors are based on no more than ten semesters of coursework toward the student’s first baccalaureate degree, with at least 70 credits completed at DCC. On-Campus and Online Degree Completion Programs (DCP). DCC encourages adult students who meet all the following criteria to apply for the Degree Completion Program (DCP), which can speed their progress toward graduation:

- Applicant must have graduated from an accredited secondary institution or satisfactorily completed the General Education Development (GED) examination.
- Must have earned a minimum of 45 semester hours of transferable college credit
- A cumulative GPA of 2.25 or higher on all college work
- Be in good financial standing with each college or university previously and/or currently attending.
- Must meet all other criteria for admissions as a transfer student (see above).

A complete application consists of the following items:

- A fully completed DCC Application for Admission
- Official college transcript(s) from each institution where the applicant has enrolled or attended (whether credits were earned or not), with a stamp and administrator's signature, which must arrive in a sealed envelope bearing the school's logo or through a secured online transcript company (e.g., Parchment, E Scrip-safe)
- Military DD214 Form (Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty) and military transcript (if applicable)
- The Admissions Office will also determine applicants' fit with DCC's mission and their potential success as members of the DCC Community. Lack of mission fit can be grounds for denial.

For more information concerning Degree Completion Programs (DCP), contact the DCC Admissions Office at admissions@dallas.edu or (214) 453-8155.

Dual Credit Enrollment (DCE) Programs. DCC's Dual Credit Enrollment (DCE) program enables high school students—including home-schooled students—to earn college credits that simultaneously fulfill requirements for both their high school diploma and a college degree. With careful planning, some DCE students have graduated from high school and at the same time graduated from DCC with an associate degree. Students should consult with high school officials in advance to ensure that the particular courses they choose at DCC will also fulfill their high school graduation requirements.

DCC's Dual Credit Enrollment program is intended only for students concurrently enrolled in high school and at DCC. It is not offered to those who have graduated early from high school.

A complete DCE application consists of the following items:

- A fully completed DCC Dual Enrollment Application
- Permission from parents in the form of a signature on the Application
- Letter of recommendation from a high school official (not required for home schoolers)

Standard college freshman admission tests (TSIA, ACT, SAT, STAAR, TAKS) are not required of DCE students. However, they must demonstrate the ability to succeed in college-level studies in order to remain in the program.

Admission criteria for the Dual Credit Enrollment program include the following:

- Must be a high school freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior in good standing
- A cumulative GPA of 2.75 or higher on all high school work

DCE students may register for a maximum of 9 credits per term, including summer term. A maximum of 60 credits may be earned under DCE status.

DCE students may complete courses in either traditional on-campus or DCC Online format. Enrollment in on-campus courses may be limited due to classroom space availability. Traditional undergraduate students receive preference in registration.

All DCE tuition and fees must be paid in full at the beginning of the semester. There are no discounts or scholarships for this program. Dual Credit Enrollment students are not eligible for financial aid.

The Admissions Committee will review any requests for exceptions to these policies.

Alternative Teacher Certification Program (ACP). DCC's Alternative Certification Program (ACP) provides a pathway for students who have completed a baccalaureate degree with a major other than Education to qualify for Texas public school teacher certification. The ACP operates on a cohort system and accepts applications based on available space.

Alternative Certification and post-baccalaureate applicants must meet the admission requirements for both Dallas Christian College and the College's E.L. and Sue Derr Teacher Education Program (TEP).

A complete DCC application consists of the following items:

- A fully completed DCC Application for Admission
- A 300-500 word essay (instructions in the application)

- Official college transcript(s) from each institution attended, with a stamp and administrator's signature, which must arrive in a sealed envelope bearing the school's logo or through a secured online transcript company (e.g., Parchment, E Scrip-safe)
- Military DD214 Form (Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty) and military transcript (if applicable)

A complete TEP application consists of the following items:

- A fully completed DCC Teacher Alternative Certification Program application
- A baccalaureate or higher degree from an accredited college or university approved by the U.S. Department of Education (including official transcripts)
- Statement of Teaching Philosophy (typed, 12-point font, double-spaced)
- Completed Program Sheet for advisement with the Department Chair
- Three completed professional references
- Scheduled interview with the Teacher Education Department Chair

Admission criteria for the Alternative Teacher Certification Program include the following:

- Applicant must have graduated with a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university.
- The admissions committee considers all previous college coursework.
- Applicant must be in good financial standing with each college or university previously and/or currently attending.
- The admission essay must satisfactorily address the essay instructions.
- Minimum cumulative GPA of 2.75 on a 4.0 scale
- 3.00 GPA in content area
- Minimum grade of "B" (3.0) or better in ENGL 1310 Composition I, ENGL 1320 Composition II, and SPCH 2310 Speech
- Evaluations indicating the applicant has the academic ability, character, motivation, and maturity to succeed in DCC's Alternative Certification Program
- Pre-Admittance Content Test (PACT)*

Must be taken and passed prior to admission.*

For more information on the Alternative Certification Program (ACP), including the process for certification, see the program description in the section of this catalog describing the “Teacher Education Department.” Applicants may also contact the Admissions Office (admissions@dallas.edu) and the Teacher Education Department Chair (thahn@dallas.edu).

Master’s Degree Programs. DCC currently offers four graduate degree programs—namely, the Master of Arts in Language Development and Translation (MA-LDT), Master of Arts in Multicultural Engagement (MA-ME), Master of Transformative Leadership (MTL), and Master of Transformative Ministry (MTM). Admission requirements for these programs include:

- A fully completed DCC Application for Graduate Admission
- A baccalaureate degree or equivalent
- Official college transcript(s) from each institution where the applicant has enrolled or attended (whether credits were earned or not), with a stamp and administrator’s signature, which must arrive in a sealed envelope bearing the school’s logo or through a secured online transcript company (e.g., Parchment, E Scrip-safe)
- A minimum college cumulative GPA of 2.5
Applicants who do not meet this requirement may appeal to the program director to enter on a probationary basis. References and a faculty interview may be required.
- A 500- to 700-word essay in which prospective students describe their current service, leadership, or ministry context and how they expect to use the competencies developed through the master’s degree program.

Master’s Degree Applicants Lacking a Baccalaureate Degree. The Graduate Admission Committee may accept a limited number of students who lack a baccalaureate degree, provided that they demonstrate the “ability to benefit” from the program. Candidates for this Special Student Status may include, for example, international students who have received solid biblical and ministry training in their own context, persons who have attended a non-accredited Bible College, or those with significant professional and church leadership experience. Special Students are typically at least 30 years of age.

The Graduate Admissions Committee (consisting of the Program Director and Vice President of Academics) assesses the readiness of each candidate on a case-by-case basis. Interested persons are encouraged to contact the director of the desired graduate program.

Admission requirements include:

- A 500- to 700-word essay in which prospective students describe their current service or ministry context and how they expect to use the competencies developed through the master's degree program.
- An interview via videoconference with a member of the Graduate Admissions Committee. The Committee may request additional materials from candidates, such as a résumé, official transcripts showing any college-level coursework already completed, and letters of recommendation.

All Special Students enter the MTM program on probation. To remain in the program, students must earn a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.6 (the GPA required to graduate with the MTM) by the end of the first term—that is, by the end of their first two 8-week courses.

International Applicants for Special Student status must submit scores from the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) that meet the following standards:

- Minimum internet-based score of 80 (minimum of 17 for each section),
- Minimum computer-based score of 213, or
- Minimum paper-based score of 550.

Scores more than 2 years old will not be accepted. For TOEFL information, visit <http://www.ets.org/toefl>.

If the Committee requests transcripts, all transcripts that are not in English or that do not correspond with the U.S. standard educational credit system must be translated and evaluated by a previously approved agency. Translation and evaluation is the student's responsibility. Contact the Admissions Office for a list of acceptable translation and evaluation services. All translations and evaluations must be completed prior to acceptance into DCC.

Returning Student Readmission. Traditional and DCC Online students who have attended within the previous 12 months, left the College, and then decided to return, must submit the following:

- A fully completed DCC Updated Application
- Official transcripts from all institutions attended since leaving DCC

Returning students who have not attended DCC within the previous 12 months must submit the following:

- A fully completed DCC Updated Application
- Official transcripts from all institutions attended since leaving DCC

Returning students who have not attended DCC within the previous five years must complete the full admission process for new students (described above).

Non-Degree Students. Non-degree-seeking students fall into two categories:

For-Credit Students. These students are not seeking a degree from DCC but are taking courses for academic credit for personal growth, to meet certification or professional development requirements, or to apply the credits to a degree from another institution. Non-degree-seeking students who earn 24 credits at DCC must declare a major through the Registrar’s Office. Students may be required to show academic verification or capability to register for certain courses.

For-credit applicants must submit:

- A fully completed DCC Application for Admission
- Transcripts from the institutions the applicant is currently attending (if any)

Audit Students. Students may audit (“listen in on”) DCC courses for personal enrichment without seeking academic credit. To audit a course, students must secure written permission from the course instructor, meet course prerequisites, register for the course, purchase the required textbooks, and pay the audit fee of $110 per course.

Audit and non-degree-seeking students are not eligible for financial aid.

Other Admission Policies

Appeal for Admission. Applicants denied admission to Dallas Christian College may appeal that decision. The DCC Admissions Committee will, on request, review admission documents plus any new material applicant may provide. The Committee may also request additional information from applicants.

Conditional Acceptance. Under unusual circumstances, students may be enrolled with an incomplete admissions file. Such students will be placed on conditional acceptance and limited to 13 credit hours until the essential items are received. To illustrate:

Unofficial Transcripts. Applications to enroll in Dallas Christian College include official high school and/or college transcript(s) from each institution attended (whether or not credit was earned), with a stamp and administrator’s signature, which must arrive in a sealed envelope bearing the school’s logo or through a secured online transcript company (e.g., Parchment, E Scrip-safe). If students are enrolled in high school or another college at the time they apply, DCC will grant conditional acceptance to qualifying applicants based on unofficial transcripts reflecting the most recent term completed. Official final transcripts necessary for the file must be received within two weeks of registration for students to move to unconditional acceptance.

Other Missing Documents. If students receive conditional acceptance due to other missing admissions documents (e.g., proof that the student meets TSI standards), those materials must be received by the end of the sixth week of the student's first term to move to unconditional acceptance.

If essential items are not received within the required timeframe, students may be required to withdraw and may not register for additional courses.

Acceptance on Academic Probation. If applicants don't meet all the academic requirements for admission to the College, and yet show potential for success, the Admissions Committee may admit them on academic probation. The Committee may request additional materials from candidates for probationary admission, such as appeal letters and recommendation letters.

Students accepted on academic probation are required to participate in academic mentoring. Traditional undergraduate students are limited to 13 credit hours per semester, and DCC Online students are limited to one course per session. Students on academic probation must receive permission from the Academic Office to participate in extra-curricular activities, such as intercollegiate sports practice, student government, leadership roles with ministry teams, and other travel representing the College. Kingdom Week travel is allowed.

At the end of the first term, undergraduate students must hold a minimum semester GPA of 2.0 and graduate students a minimum 2.5. Students who enter DCC on academic probation but fail to attain the minimum required GPA after their first term are placed on Academic Suspension.

For a discussion of Academic Probation and Suspension see the section of this catalog on Academic Regulations and Procedures.

EXPLANATION OF FEES

(a) The Check Void/Reissue Fee is a nonrefundable fee that is applied any time a check must be voided and reissued to the student.

- (b) The DCC Online Course Fee is applied to each online course taken by both on-campus and online-only students. This fee also applies to each online course taken by traditional students during Summer Term in lieu of the Student Technology Fee. [NOTE: This fee does not apply to M.A. students studying online because these programs are based on competencies rather than courses, and online costs are included in the M.A. subscription fees.]
- (c) The Dorm Room Home Deposit is a refundable fee that is required to hold a dorm room for new residence hall students at the beginning of the first term of attendance. Students may apply this deposit to their housing charge if desired.
- (d) The Dorm Room Maintenance Fee is due each term students reside in the dorms. This fee is fully earned, non-refundable, and used for the ongoing maintenance of the dorms. Room damages exceeding this fee will be charged to the student.
- (e) The Insufficient Funds/Returned Check Fee is a nonrefundable fee that is applied any time an insufficient funds notice is given, or checks are returned for a student payment.
- (f) The Late Payment Fee is assessed for each instance that a payment is received late or is not received at all for those on the deferred payment plan.
- (g) The Student Services Fee is charged each semester to each student at the time of registration. This fee is nonrefundable if the student does not withdraw from DCC before the first day of class of the official semester (according to the official school calendar). This fee is used to pay a portion of the total cost of athletic events, student activities, library databases, interlibrary loan services, and student services such as admissions, counseling, financial aid, registrar, student accounts, and student development.
- (h) The Student Technology Fee is charged each semester to each traditional student for the betterment of the students' educational experience. The funds may be used for any technology-related expenditure, including, but not limited to equipment, associated software and licensing, Internet and Web-related support, user services/help desk support, enhanced instructional technology for classrooms, and distance education/interactive video equipment.

On-Campus versus Online Tuition Rates

On-Campus and Online Student Support Services. Dallas Christian College serves both traditional on-campus students and non-traditional online students. It therefore makes all its essential support services available both on-campus and “virtually” via the Internet. Examples include admission, financial aid, advising, library, tutoring, and technical support services.

DCC makes additional services available to on-campus residential and commuter students at its Farmers Branch campus. Examples include housing, parking, food service, campus security, athletics, and social programs.

For more information, see “Student Support Services” in this catalog and “Student Development” on the DCC website (www.dallas.edu/studev).

Tuition Rates for On-Campus and Online Students. Undergraduate students enrolled in online programs pay a lower tuition rate than residential students enrolled in on-campus programs. The rates differ based on student services for the two modalities. Online undergraduate programs are less expensive than on-campus programs because online students do not require the dormitories, cafeterias, athletic facilities, and other services used only by on-campus students.

Financial Aid for On-Campus and Online Students. Both on-campus and online students have access to various types of federal, state, and institutional financial aid. However, more institutional scholarships are available to on-campus students to help cover the higher costs of on-campus education.

On-Campus Students Taking Online Courses. With permission from the Registrar and their academic advisor, on-campus students sometimes enroll in online courses. For example, DCC currently offers its Criminal Justice Major only in online format. Thus, an on-campus student athlete living on the college campus might earn the B.S. in Criminal Justice degree by completing the General Education Core and Bible Major on ground while completing the Criminal Justice Major online.

Traditional students apply to the College as “on-campus” applicants. DCC Online students apply as “online only” applicants. Accordingly, Student Accounts assigns them either an on-campus billing code or an online billing code to ensure that they pay the appropriate tuition rate.

If traditional students enroll in an occasional online course, they are still charged the on-campus tuition rate because they are using campus facilities and services.

Occasionally, circumstances lead traditional on-campus students to ask to be “online only” for a given semester. At registration, DCC requires them to declare whether they plan to be “online only” on a permanent basis or only for one semester. If they intend to take only online courses for one semester and then return to the traditional program, there is no change in their on-campus billing code and their scholarships remain in place. If they say they are moving off campus and shifting permanently to the DCC Online program, they change to an online billing code, pay the lower tuition rate, and any campus-based scholarships are no longer applicable.

Payment Policies

Budget Plan. The College strongly recommends that students make advance preparations for financial aid prior to initiation of the registration process. Financial assistance is available in the form of Pell Grants, Stafford Loans, Student Supplemental Loans, or Parents PLUS Loans. Contact the College Financial Aid Office for details and advisement on the various options.

Method of Applying Payments and Credit. No adjustments for loans, scholarships, grants, or other assistance will be made until the College receives those funds. College-sponsored aid will be deducted at the end of the term in which the aid is earned.

Financial Responsibility. Policies and procedures related to student finances appear below and in the “Financial Responsibility” section of the DCC Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources). All enrolled students are required to read, acknowledge, and sign the DCC Financial Responsibility Agreement.

Payment of Student Costs. Dallas Christian College does not mail statements. All charges and payments, including payments from all financial aid sources, are available on the student portal on the DCC website. Payment is to be made to the Student Accounts Office online through the student portal. All credit and debit card payments will be assessed a non-refundable transaction fee by the financial institution processing the payment. Cash or check payments can be made in the Student Accounts Office and will not incur a fee.

Payment reminders are sent to DCC Crusader Mail (email) each month. For students who have a documented commitment of funds through the Financial Aid Office, any school costs not covered by said financial aid are due and payable in four installments (or less) on the 15th day of every month of the current term beginning with the 15th day of the month in which the current term starts. For students planning to reside in campus residence halls, the first full deferred payment must be made prior to occupancy.

If students have not paid their charges in full or made satisfactory arrangements with the Student Accounts Office by the designated payment deadline, they can be administratively removed from their courses and extracurricular activities, such as sport and fitness center participation. Student accounts must be paid in full each term to attend subsequent terms.

Payment Deferral Plan. Dallas Christian College is pleased to offer a payment deferral option to help alleviate the financial burden of financing a college education. The Interest-Free Monthly Payment Option allows for spreading educational expenses over smaller monthly installments for a small deferral plan enrollment fee. This is a popular option with many families because it reduces the need to borrow, and it gives families more control over their savings. Payment deferral plans are offered on a term basis.

Payment deferral plans are required of all students whose financial aid, if any, is not sufficient to cover a given semester's school costs and who do not have sufficient private resources to cover their institutional costs. The cost for the plan is a $100 per term enrollment fee. Students can check their account charges and balance by logging into the DCC Student Portal. Payments towards deferral plans can be made online through the DCC Student Portal, at the Student Accounts Office, or over the phone using a debit or credit card.

Four monthly payments are due on the 15th of each month. All accounts must be paid in full by the end of the term regardless of enrollment date. To illustrate:

- If a student enrolls on August 15th, the first payment (including the $100 deferred payment plan enrollment fee) will be due immediately and three monthly payments will remain.
- If a student enrolls on September 15th, the first payment will be due immediately and only two monthly payments will remain.
- Other enrollment payments follow the same pattern.

Payments of any amount may be made prior to the deadline.

For more information on the Interest-Free Monthly Payment Deferral Plan, contact the Student Accounts Office at (214) 453-8135. Please note that, if students do not wish to utilize the payment plan, the remaining out-of-pocket balance will be due in full to avoid administrative removal for non-payment. Students with past due accounts desiring to set up a monthly payment plan must also contact the Student Accounts Office for assistance.

Students Receiving Tuition Reimbursement Benefits. Students eligible for educational reimbursement from their employer must pay in full at the beginning of the term or apply for a payment plan and provide the Student Accounts Office with appropriate documentation from the employer, including a copy of the employer policy. If employer educational assistance payments are made to DCC directly, any credit balance that results will be refunded to the student.

Past Due and Delinquent Accounts. Students are not permitted to register for the current or future terms until all past due balances are paid in full. Diplomas are not issued until financial obligations are met. In addition, graduating students who do not have their student accounts paid in full are not permitted to participate in the commencement ceremony. Payment plans are available to students with past due and delinquent accounts. For more information, please contact the Student Accounts Office at (214) 453-8135.

The following actions may result for any students who have not paid their account balance as due or have not made financial arrangements with the Student Accounts Office and/or the Financial Aid Office:

- Not being allowed to use the Payment Plan in subsequent terms
- Immediate withdrawal from enrolled courses
- Removal from current dormitory residence
- Denial of dining hall privileges
- Denial of ability to be advised for or register for any additional courses
- Denial of participation in commencement exercises
- Denial of access to student's diploma upon graduation
- Denial of access to student services
- Students regain these privileges when they are current on their deferred payment plan (within the payment's 30-day window).

Collection Agency. If accounts have not been paid in full by the end of the term, DCC submits those accounts to a third-party collection agency for collection. DCC adds a collection agency fee totaling up to one-third or one-half of the remaining balance, which is a reasonable fee for collection agency service regardless of the dollar amount owed. DCC also reports this balance to a credit-reporting agency, which could affect one's credit rating.

Student Account Classifications. Dallas Christian College employs the following student account classifications:

- Current:* All payments made according to the payment schedule.
- On-Hold:* Payment arrangements not currently satisfied.
- Past Due:* Multiple payments not made within the specified payment dates.

Delinquent: Account is past due with no satisfactory arrangements made with the Student Accounts Office.

DCC reserves the right to deny enrollment, class attendance, grades, or extension of credit to any student who does not meet Past Due obligations or fulfill financial obligations to the College.

On occasion, legitimate financial circumstances may warrant special consideration. If this occurs, the student is encouraged to contact the Student Accounts Office immediately to make appropriate arrangements.

If satisfactory arrangements are not made with the Student Accounts Office, the account will be placed with a third-party collection agency. If this occurs, the student may be subject to additional interest and collection charges.

Returned Checks. Checks returned for Non-Sufficient Funds, or credit card transactions that are denied, may result in an NSF Fee assessed to the student's account.

FINANCIAL AID

FINANCIAL AID & VETERANS AFFAIRS COUNSELOR: JEAN-CLAUDE ST. JUSTE

Financial Aid

Purpose. Dallas Christian College operates a Financial Aid Office to assist degree- or certificate-seeking students in making their educational goals financially possible. The primary purpose of financial aid is to assist students who, without such aid, would be unable to attend college. The Financial Aid Office administers various types of financial aid programs, including grants, loans, scholarships, and part-time employment. These types of aid may be awarded singly or in various combinations. However, the total cannot exceed the cost of the student's education.

Most financial aid is awarded based on need. Most financial aid programs also require annual applications. The Financial Aid Office will make every effort and utilize all available resources to assist students in meeting their needs. Each student has certain rights and responsibilities in the financial aid application process. Therefore, it is important to read all information carefully to ensure compliance with regulations governing receipt and maintenance of financial aid funds. Failure to comply with regulations may result in loss of funding and/or eligibility.

All new and continuing students must establish financial need annually in order to receive financial aid. Requests for information and awards should be directed to:

Financial Aid Office
Dallas Christian College
2700 Christian Parkway
Dallas, TX 75234-7299

(214) 453-8101

Federal Financial Aid Programs

FAFSA. To qualify for any federal financial aid programs, the student must demonstrate financial need by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The student must be accepted into DCC, enrolled as a regular student in an eligible degree program, and make Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP, described below) toward completion of that program. The student must also comply with any other requirements of the federal program. The amount of aid cannot exceed the cost of education.

Non-Discrimination Policy. No person shall be excluded from participation, denied benefits, or subjected to discrimination under any federal aid program administered by DCC on any basis prohibited by applicable law.

Federal Aid Programs. DCC participates in the following federal aid programs:

Federal Pell Grant. Pell eligibility is determined by the completion of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Pell Grants are only awarded to undergraduate students who have not yet earned a baccalaureate or professional degree. For many students, Pell Grants provide a foundation of financial aid to which other aid may be added. Eligibility requirements include enrollment for at least one credit hour during an eligible enrollment period. For the 2024-2025 academic year, the maximum Pell Grant award is $7,395. This award is based on full-time enrollment and split between two terms (typically the fall and spring term, although Pell funds may also be used during the summer term). Pell awards are based on enrollment level as defined by the institution.

Lifetime Pell Eligibility. The Consolidation Appropriations Act of 2012, signed by President Obama, sets limits on the number of semesters students can receive Pell Grants over their lifetime. Students attending full-time have a limit of up to 12 semesters or equivalent (6 years) of Pell Grant eligibility at 100% per award year. Once the maximum has been reached, students can no longer receive a Pell Grant from any institution.

The 2012 provision applies to all students and takes into consideration any Pell Grant funds previously received. Because of this, some students who would have been eligible for Pell Grants in the past may no longer qualify for those funds. Some students who are close to their eligibility limit may be eligible for less Pell Grant funding than they would have been previously.

The Pell Grant Lifetime Eligibility Used (LEU) is calculated by adding together each of the annual percentages of a student's scheduled award that were actually disbursed to the student. For more information, visit www.nslds.ed.gov.

Federal Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant (SEOG). The Federal SEOG program is only for undergraduates with exceptional financial need. These are students with the lowest Student Aid Index (SAI) as calculated from the information provided on the FAFSA. Federal regulations give priority to students who are receiving federal Pell Grant and whose SAI is 0. Maximum awards are based on the availability of federal funds in a given year. Eligibility requirements include enrollment for at least 3 credit hours.

Federal Work-Study (FWS). The Federal Work-Study (FWS) Program provides part-time employment only to undergraduate students attending institutions of higher education who need the earnings to help meet the costs of post-secondary education. The program also encourages students receiving FWS assistance to participate in community service activities.

FWS Award Amount. A Federal Work-Study award is determined by a student's financial need based on his or her financial aid budget and FAFSA information. "Financial need" is defined as the difference between the total Cost of Attendance (COA) and the Student Aid Index (SAI), which is calculated by the FAFSA form. To qualify, students must have a minimum of $2000 of unmet need.

FWS Job Placement. Federal Work-Study jobs may be on or off campus. Most Dallas Christian College FWS jobs are on campus. Off-campus FWS jobs with federal, state, local public agencies, or non-profit organizations must be in the public interest. Off-campus FWS jobs with private, for-profit organizations must be academically relevant to the maximum extent possible.

FWS Timesheets. Student workers and supervisors must track the actual hours worked on a daily basis to ensure that, when timesheets are completed, they reflect true data. Timesheets are completed online and must be filled out completely and approved by the supervisor before they can be processed. Falsification of timesheets will result in immediate student termination with no appeal.

FWS Pay Rate/Hours. For the 2024-2025 academic year, the FWS pay rate is a minimum of $10.00 per hour up to a maximum of 20 hours per week.

FWS Maximum Earnings. Students may earn up to their awarded amount or up to the DCC departmental allocation. Since total earnings are based on a school-wide federal allocation, students should be aware that the amount they are allowed to earn could be less than the amount awarded to them. They must work with their employing department to determine the maximum amount they will be able to earn for the award year.

FWS Termination. Student employees must notify their employer and the Financial Aid Office if they voluntarily decide to withdraw from the FWS program. If student employees do not perform their duties satisfactorily and are terminated, supervisors are required to notify the Financial Aid Office in writing. Federal Work Study employees who are terminated are responsible for writing an appeal letter to the Financial Aid Office before applying for another position during the same semester. The Director of Financial Aid will evaluate the appeal and contact the student in writing regarding probation or suspension of any future Federal Work Study awards. This process must be completed before moving into any new position.

FWS Criminal Background Check. Under the authority of the Texas Education Code and the Fair Credit Reporting Act, DCC shall require a criminal background check on its employees, applicants for employment, authorized volunteers, and employees of independent contractors that do business with DCC, if the employment or relationship will require the individual to be classified as having regular contact with minor children, handling currency, access to debit/credit card information, or access to security sensitive information.

DCC will not employ a person or contract with an independent contractor who has been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor involving any type of sexual offense of a minor, theft, burglary, or robbery as defined in the Texas Penal Code, as amended, unless the misdemeanor is minor in nature and the individual has a background that is otherwise clear of criminal convictions. A conviction includes adjudication.

FWS Eligibility Requirements. To qualify for Federal Work Study, a student must:

- Have a completed Financial Aid file
- Meet the Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) standard set by DCC
- Be enrolled and certified in at least 6 credit hours (half time) for fall and spring
- Be a U.S. citizen or eligible U.S. non-citizen

Federal Direct Loans (subsidized or unsubsidized). Federal Stafford loans to students are either subsidized or unsubsidized. A subsidized loan is only awarded to undergraduate students based on financial need. The borrower is not charged any interest before beginning repayment or during authorized periods of deferment. The federal government “subsidizes” the interest during these periods.

An unsubsidized loan is not awarded based on need. The borrower is charged interest from the time the loan is disbursed until it is paid in full. If the borrower allows interest to accumulate, it will be capitalized, that is, the interest will be added to the principal amount of the loan and additional interest will be based upon the higher amount. The borrower can receive a subsidized loan and an unsubsidized loan for the same enrollment period. A student must be enrolled in at least six credit hours per term to be eligible to borrow from the Stafford Loan Program.

Loan Entrance/Exit Counseling. Federal regulations mandate that all first-time borrowers must successfully complete loan entrance counseling before they can receive the first loan disbursement of a federal direct loan. As part of an overall plan to help students avoid delinquency and default, DCC requires loan entrance counseling for all federal loan student borrowers in the year in which the student applies for a loan.

- Loan Entrance Counseling/Master Promissory Note

- Students will complete Entrance counseling and a signed master promissory note online at <https://studentaid.gov> using the Federal Student Aid (FSA) user ID and password.
- Loan funds will not be disbursed to students until they have completed both the entrance counseling and master promissory note. This information is verified through the www.studentloans.gov website.

- Exit Counseling Procedures

- Students who graduate, drop below half-time enrollment, or are not returning to DCC must complete loan exit counseling.
- Borrowers are contacted through email to complete loan exit counseling during the last semester before transferring or graduating. Students complete loan exit counseling online through the U.S. Department of Education website at https:// studentaid.gov.
- A copy of the email notification is placed in the student's file to document that contact has been made in alerting the student to the required exit counseling.
- Federal regulations require the college to ensure that each borrower has been provided information about repayment benefits and obligations.

Benefits for Teacher Education Students. Students planning to become teachers may be interested in the Federal Loan cancellation benefits for teachers. Borrowers may be able to cancel a portion of their loans if they are teaching in a low-income school. To qualify, the borrower must work as a full-time teacher for five consecutive years in an elementary or secondary school that has been designated as a "low-income" school. The U.S. Department of Education each year designates low income elementary and secondary schools, and a list of these schools, by year, is posted on the department's website. A full list of qualifying conditions and other information concerning repayment of loans may be found at the federal Student Aid website at <http://www.studentaid.ed.gov>.

Loan Interest Rates and Limits. The tables below provide further information regarding student loan interest rates and limits:

Loan Interest Rates for Federal Student Loans
Interest rates vary depending on the loan type and (for most types of federal student loans) the first disbursement date of the loan. The following are interest rates for Direct Loans first disbursed on or after July 1, 2024.
Loan Type	Borrower Type	Loans first disbursed on or after 7/1/2024 and before 7/1/2025
Direct Subsidized Loans	Undergraduate	6.53%
Direct Unsubsidized Loans	Undergraduate	6.53%
Direct Unsubsidized Loans	Graduate or Professional	8.08%
Direct PLUS Loans	Parents and Graduate or Professional Students	9.08%

Notes:

- All interest rates shown in the above table are fixed rates for the life of the loan.
- The interest rates for federal student loans are determined by federal law. If there are future changes to federal law that affect federal student loan interest rates, the college will notify students of those changes.
- View the interest rates on federal student loans first disbursed before July 1, 2024, in the previous year’s DCC Academic Catalog.

Annual and Aggregate Limits for Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans
Year	Dependent Students (except students whose parents are unable to obtain PLUS Loans)	Independent Students (and dependent undergraduate students whose parents are unable to obtain PLUS Loans)
First-Year Undergraduate Annual Loan Limit	$5,500—No more than $3,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans.	$9,500—No more than $3,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans.
Second-Year Undergraduate Annual Loan Limit	$6,500—No more than $4,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans.	$10,500—No more than $4,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans.
Third-Year and Beyond Undergraduate Annual Loan Limit	$7,500—No more than $5,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans.	$12,500—No more than $5,500 of this amount may be in subsidized loans.

- The aggregate loan limits include any Subsidized Federal Stafford Loans or Unsubsidized Federal Stafford Loans students may have previously received under the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program. As a result of legislation that took effect July 1, 2010, no further loans are being made under the FFEL Program.
- Effective for periods of enrollment beginning on or after July 1, 2012, graduate and professional students are no longer eligible to receive Direct Subsidized Loans. The $65,500 subsidized aggregate loan limit for graduate or professional students includes subsidized loans that a graduate or professional student may have received for periods of enrollment that began before July 1, 2012, or for prior undergraduate study.
- If the total loan amount students receive over the course of their education reaches the aggregate loan limit, they are not eligible to receive additional loans. However, if they repay some of their loans to bring their outstanding loan debt below the aggregate loan limit, they could then borrow again, up to the amount of their remaining eligibility under the aggregate loan limit.

Scholarships

General Requirements. All Dallas Christian College academic scholarships, grants, and participation awards are for tuition only. Excess funding may not be carried over to the next academic year. Grants and participation awards may be added to academic scholarships as long as they do not exceed tuition costs for each semester. Scholarships and grants are divided in half each year and applied to each regular (fall and spring) term attended unless otherwise specified. All eligible students must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to qualify for Dallas Christian College scholarships.

Academic Scholarships. DCC desires to attract the best and brightest students who wish to prepare to be workers for the harvest (Matthew 9:36-38), and it believes that substantial scholarships will help toward that end.

DCC D-1 Athletic Scholarship. As a member of the National Christian College Athletic Association, DCC offers NCCAA Division I Athletic Scholarships for some of its sports. The intent behind athletic scholarships is the same as all DCC's scholarships—namely, to attract, support, and graduate as many students as possible, with as little debt as possible, who are devoted to Kingdom service.

The maximum all-inclusive institutional aid a student in the athletic program may receive is $15,000. The total scholarship awarded will include all forms of institutional aid. Veterans Assistance

V.A. Benefits. Veterans and veteran dependents may be eligible for educational benefits through the Veterans Administration (VA). For more information, veterans should contact DCC's Veteran Certifying Officer (1-214-453-8101) or visit the Department of Veteran Affairs website (<http://www.va.gov/>). Students who qualify for VA benefits will be certified based on eligibility determined by the VA and enrollment level. Funds will then be disbursed to DCC to be processed and posted to their account ledger for payment of expenses. Any overage of VA funds will be credited to the student in the form of a check within 14 days of posting. Contact the Student Accounts Office for more information. VA pays tuition and fees directly to the College only for Chapters 31 and 33 benefit recipients.

Pending V.A. Payment Compliance. In accordance with Title 38 US Code 3679(e), Dallas Christian College has adopted the following policy for students using U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Post-9/11 G.I. Bill[®] (Ch. 33) benefits, or Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment (Ch. 31) benefits, in the case of a delayed payment from the VA. As long as the student has a Certificate of Eligibility on file, Dallas Christian College will not:

- Prevent the student from registering for courses.
- Assess a late penalty fee to the student.
- Require the student to secure alternative or additional funding.
- Deny the student access to institutional resources available to other students who have satisfied their financial responsibilities to the College.

GI Bill[®] is a registered trademark of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA).

Student Employment

On-Campus Employment. DCC offers on-campus employment, but the number of jobs is limited. To be considered for these positions, the student must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), along with a DCC job application. These forms are available through Career Services in the Student Development Office.

Off-Campus Employment. Job opportunities are plentiful in the Dallas/Fort Worth area for students who desire to work. Assistance with job availability may be obtained through Career Services in the DCC Student Development Office. Students must be careful to align their job with the college schedule. Academic preparation takes priority over work.

Financial Aid Policies and Regulations

Applicants for financial aid must be accepted for admission, enrolled in an eligible degree program, and making Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP, defined below) in that program. All financial aid applications for institutional assistance, federal grants, loans, or work study must be completed in a timely manner.

Student Credit Balances (Stipend) Release Procedure. Credit balances on student accounts are handled under the following procedure:

- Students receive notification of financial disbursements via email from the Financial Aid Office. Any aid that produces a credit balance due to the student is processed for release within 14 calendar days by the institution's business office.
- Students may elect to have the credit balance held in their student account until the end of the financial aid award year only if DCC obtains authorization to hold or apply that balance to charges outside the normal costs of tuition and fees, room and board, and/or other authorized charges for a DCC academic program. Students may give authorization electronically or by submitting a signed authorization form to the Student Accounts Office.
- In the event the credit balance is due from the awarding of a Parent Plus Loan (PLUS), DCC will review the PLUS loan application to determine the credit balance recipient. If the application designates the release of excess funds to the student, the student will be issued the check or direct deposit within the 14 calendar day limit unless s/he completes the Authorization to Hold request. If the application designates the parent, the parent will be issued the refund within the 14 calendar day limit unless s/he completes the Authorization to Hold request.
- Credit balances are issued through Bill.com by e-payment or check. Students who do not set up electronic payment will be issued a check to the address on file. Students are responsible for verifying that their address is current. Students will be assessed a $25 void and reissue fee for lost, undelivered, or expired checks.

Student Right to Cancel Financial Aid. Students have the right to cancel any Title IV aid awarded within 14 days of receipt. Once this time has elapsed, and in the event that a credit disbursement is due to the student, the institution will not hold funds in their account unless students submit an Authorization to Hold excess credit.

Refund Policies. Students who withdraw during a semester must notify the Financial Aid Office and the Student Accounts Office. Eligibility for a refund depends on the student’s enrollment status, cost of attendance, dates of attendance, and the type of aid received. Changes in any of these factors, such as dropping courses or withdrawing from the college, could result in the reduction of the student’s financial aid package, thereby removing a potential credit balance. A student who withdraws from the College will receive only the remaining credit balance, if any, after costs are calculated and financial aid is restored to the financial aid accounts, including the possible return of Title IV funds.

All scholarships are awarded for direct costs only (unless otherwise specified by the donor). If scholarship money exceeds cost of attendance (tuition, fees, books, housing, food, etc.), the excess will be refunded to the scholarship funds in the following order:

1. Dallas Christian College institutional scholarships
2. Private institutional scholarships
3. Church scholarships
4. Private scholarships

DCC’s institutional tuition refund policy appears below. Fees are not refundable.

Traditional 16-Week Courses

Before the end of the FIRST week of the semester	100%
After the first week but before the end of the SECOND week of the semester	90%
Before the end of the FOURTH week of the semester	60%
Before the end of the EIGHTH week of the semester	30%
After EIGHTH week of the semester	NONE

An exception to the above policy would be an approved leave of absence. (Please see “Student Leave of Absence Policy” in the Academic Regulations section.) No adjustments to tuition charges are granted to those involved in a disciplinary dismissal.

Six-Week DCC Online Undergraduate Courses

Before the beginning of the SECOND week of the session	100%
After beginning of the SECOND week of the session	NONE

Eight-Week DCC Online Graduate Courses

Before the beginning of the SECOND week of the session	100%
After the beginning of the SECOND week of the session	NONE

For DCC Online courses that do not begin during the week of registration, the official first week is the week in which formal learning activities begin.

NO REFUNDS will be given after course start dates for Wintermester or Maymester.

At the discretion of the College, students who leave the residence halls before the end of any semester may receive a reduction in room and board charges. There is NO REFUND ON FEES.

For veterans under subsidy, the College conforms to the Veterans Administration regulations regarding refunds.

Any military personnel called to active duty during a college semester will have their tuition reimbursed for that semester if they have not completed enough coursework for their professors to award a final grade. In addition, lenders will automatically postpone student loan payments, upon notification in writing, during the period of the borrower's active-duty service. Letters of active-duty status must be provided to the DCC Registrar's Office, Student Accounts Office, and Financial Aid Office.

The College reserves the right to prorate charges incurred for room and board usage before active-duty activation. For further information, contact the Student Accounts Office.

Students who simultaneously add and drop courses within the first week of a semester without resulting in a change in total credit hours are not subject to the above refund policies.

A student is not officially withdrawn from the College until withdrawal procedures have been completed through the Registrar's Office, Student Accounts Office, and Financial Aid Office, if applicable. All refunds are based on this date. The student is solely responsible for initiating and completing the withdrawal process. Students who do not initiate or complete the withdrawal process, and who never attended a course, will be administratively removed.

Return of Title IV Funds. DCC returns unearned funds received from federal student assistance program accounts or lenders in accordance with the Federal Title IV student assistance regulations, as amended, under 34 CFR, section 688.22(d) of the Reauthorization of the Higher Education Act of 1965; rules of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB); and DCC policies.

Students receiving assistance from Federal Title IV programs are required to complete a minimum number of credit hours for which assistance was received. If students completely withdraw from the College during a semester, or quit attending but fail to officially withdraw, they may be required to return the unearned part of the funds received to help pay educational expenses for the semester. Liability for return of Federal Title IV funds will be determined according to the following guidelines:

1. If the student remains enrolled and attends class beyond the 60% mark of the semester in which aid is received, all federal aid is considered earned and not subject to this policy.
2. If the student completely withdraws from all classes before completing 60% of the semester, a prorated portion of the federal aid received must be returned to the federal aid programs equal to the percentage of the semester remaining.
3. If all eligible aid was not already disbursed to the student before the student withdrew, the earned portion of aid will be paid to the student as a post-withdrawal disbursement.
4. If the student does not officially withdraw from classes, and stops attending all classes, a prorated portion of the federal aid received, based on the documented last date of attendance, must be returned to the federal aid programs. If the college is unable to document the last date of attendance, one-half of all federal aid received during the semester must be returned to the federal aid programs.

Funds are returned in the following order:

- | | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1. Direct Unsubsidized Loan | 4. Federal Pell Grant |
| 2. Direct Subsidized Loan | 5. FSEOG |
| 3. Direct PLUS Loan | |

Financial aid recipients who enroll and receive aid for a particular semester, then fail to complete more than 60% of that semester will have to repay part or all of the aid received for that semester. Additionally, any tuition, fees and room and/or board payments refunded by DCC as a result of a student's withdrawal must be returned to the financial aid programs in accordance with Federal law. Students who fail to complete the official withdrawal process but stop attending classes prior to the end of the semester and receive grades of "F" in all classes for that semester will also have to repay part or all of the aid received for that semester. Up through the 60% point in each semester, a pro-rata schedule is used to determine the amount of aid to be repaid by a student who withdraws. No adjustments in financial aid are required for students who withdraw after the 60% point in a semester.

Tuition Assistance Return Policy. Dallas Christian College follows its policy of returning unearned tuition assistance (TA) funds on a proportional basis for any tuition assistance recipient who withdraws from a course before completing at least 60 percent of the course. When a service member must suspend attendance due to military obligations, the college works with the student to identify solutions that will not result in student debt for the returned portion.

Standards of Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for Financial Aid. The Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended by Congress, mandates that institutions of higher education monitor the academic progress of students who receive Federal Financial Aid. Dallas Christian College has established the following minimum standards and practices for Federal Financial Aid Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for students to be eligible for and continue to receive federal financial aid. Please note that some state and institutional aid programs may have higher academic requirements, and eligibility for those financial aid programs is subject to the requirements of each program.

To be in compliance with federal, state, or institutional student aid programs, DCC must apply qualitative and quantitative measurements to academic work. The qualitative and quantitative standards for SAP are defined as:

1. Qualitative Standard – Cumulative Grade Point Average (Cum GPA)

Undergraduate students must maintain a minimum Cumulative Grade Point Average (Cum GPA) of 2.0 for all coursework completed.

Graduate students must maintain a minimum Cumulative Grade Point Average (Cum GPA) of 2.5 for all coursework completed.

2. Quantitative Standard – Pace of Progression

Pace of progression is determined by dividing the cumulative number of credit hours successfully completed by the cumulative number of credit hours attempted, including transfer hours that have been accepted. Undergraduate students must maintain a pace of progression of 66.67% for all course work attempted, including transfer credits.

3. Program Completion Time Frame

Students may receive financial aid, if they otherwise qualify, if they have not yet attempted 150% of the hours required for their degree program. Attempted hours include all transferred credits and all DCC courses passed, failed, repeated, or withdrawn.

If students meet ALL of the above standards, they receive a SAP status of SATISFACTORY and will be able to continue receiving federal and institutional aid at DCC.

If a student fails to meet one or more of the above standards, the student will be placed on one of two Financial Aid SAP statuses, as described below:

- Warning Status. If students were previously under a Satisfactory SAP status, their status will be moved to a Warning Status for one semester, meaning that the students are being warned that they are not meeting SAP eligibility and have one semester to correct their eligibility before being placed on financial aid suspension. During this semester, students will continue to be able to receive financial aid. A Warning Status cannot be appealed since students are still eligible to receive financial assistance.
- Probation Status. If students are placed on financial aid suspension, they have the option of appealing this suspension through the SAP appeal process (outlined below). If the appeal is granted, students will be placed on financial aid probation for the next semester, and they must bring their SAP eligibility to Satisfactory during that semester or be placed on financial aid suspension. While on Probation Status, students may continue to receive federal, state, and institutional aid if they are otherwise eligible.
- Suspension Status. If students were previously under a Warning Status or Probation Status and fail to meet SAP eligibility requirements during the next semester, their status will be moved to a Suspension Status and they will not be able to receive federal, state, or institutional financial aid during the next semester they attend. Students who are placed on financial aid suspension may appeal this decision by completing the Satisfactory Academic Progress Appeal Process (see below).

Please note: Financial Aid Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) eligibility is different from Academic Probation or Academic Suspension. Students who are on financial aid suspension may be allowed to register for and attend classes in future semesters at their own expense if they are not also on Academic Suspension.

Regaining Financial Aid SAP Eligibility. The process for regaining financial aid eligibility is outlined below:

- Students placed on financial aid suspension for not maintaining the required SAP eligibility standards for cumulative GPA must complete courses at DCC at their own expense to regain their eligibility for financial aid. Students placed on financial aid suspension for not maintaining the required SAP eligibility standards for pace of progression must complete, at their own expense, courses at DCC or courses that transfer from an accredited institution.
- Students placed on financial aid suspension because they have not met the program completion time frame requirements, and who have reached the maximum time frame or number of hours allowed to complete their degree program, may not regain eligibility to receive financial aid. In order to complete a degree program and graduate from DCC, the student will have to complete those courses without receiving federal financial assistance. If students think these calculations are incorrect, they may contact the Financial Aid Office and ask for a formal review of eligibility.

- After students have completed sufficient coursework to remove the Suspension Status, their SAP status will be reevaluated at the end of the following semester, and their status will be updated based on current SAP standards. If students want an evaluation before that time, they must submit the Suspension Evaluation or Appeal Request Form to the Financial Aid Office to formally request a review of their status. Forms are available in the Financial Aid Office.

SAP Eligibility Appeal Process. Students placed on financial aid suspension for not meeting the required SAP guidelines may appeal their suspension if there were unusual or extenuating circumstances that contributed to their failure to meet these guidelines. If the appeal is granted, students will be placed on an SAP Probation Status and will be allowed to receive financial aid for the next semester only (see “Probation Status” above). All individuals granted an appeal are normally placed on a one-semester Probation Status or placed on a financial aid academic plan (see below). All appeal decisions are final. Students will be notified in writing as to the decision regarding their financial aid appeal. The appeal request must include a statement from students regarding what has changed or what they will do differently that will allow them to meet SAP guidelines in the future. If a student makes more than one appeal request, each appeal must be for a different reason.

Financial Aid Academic Plan. If a student is placed on suspension, and successfully appeals the decision, but the student’s academic situation is such that it would be mathematically impossible for him/her to regain SAP eligibility during the next semester as required by federal SAP guidelines, DCC may, at its sole discretion, place the student on a financial aid academic plan. This plan will be designed to outline steps of progress that, if followed by the student each semester, will lead to SAP eligibility being regained at a specific time in the future. If a student does not meet these progressive steps each semester, he/she will immediately be placed on financial aid suspension.

Other Financial Aid SAP Guidelines. SAP guidelines also come into play in the following circumstances:

- Dual Enrollment. Students may not receive federal aid from more than one institution at the same time. A student transferring to DCC from another institution must have their aid canceled at the former institution.

- Repeat Courses. Students may receive federal financial aid for repeat courses in which a course was completed but a previous grade of “F” was received. For courses in which a grade of “D” or higher is received, federal financial aid will pay for these courses once only.

If a student registers for a course in which he/she has previously received a grade of “D” or higher, an evaluation of the student’s history taking that course will be made and aid will be paid accordingly. Institutional scholarships cannot be applied toward any repeat courses regardless of course grade or status.

- Incomplete (“I”) Grades. Courses in which students receive a grade of "I" (Incomplete) will affect their pace of progression and may lead to their being placed on financial aid warning or suspension. Once students has completed the course(s), they may request an evaluation to reassess their SAP status using the Suspension Evaluation or Appeal Request Form.

Financial Aid for a Second Bachelor’s Degree. Not all financial aid programs are available to students seeking a second bachelor’s degree, including accredited and non-accredited degrees. Students should see their financial aid counselor for more information.

STUDENT SUPPORT SERVICES

VP OF STUDENT DEVELOPMENT AND ENROLLMENT MANAGEMENT

MARSHALL A. DUNBAR, D.MIN.

Support Services Available to All Students

On-Site and “Virtual” Student Support Services. Since Dallas Christian College serves both on-campus and online students, the College makes most of its support services available both on-site and “virtually” via the Internet and telephone. The primary support services available to all students are outlined below. The next section of the catalog describes additional services available to on-campus residential and commuter students at the Farmers Branch campus. More information about support services appears on the DCC website (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Information and Technical Services. DCC provides a broad range of Information Technology (IT) services to assist students in their academic journey. Those marked with an asterisk (*) are specific to students on the Farmers Branch campus.

College Website. The DCC website is found at www.dallas.edu. The menu along the top provides access to important information for all students, and the footer below provides quick links to services needed regularly. The website provides access to the DCC Academic Catalog (www.dallas.edu/academics), the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources), and many other resources.

Moodle Course Sites. Dallas Christian College uses a Learning Management System (LMS) called Moodle, which students may access through their DCC account (online.dallas.edu). With rare exceptions (e.g., private music lessons), all DCC courses—both online and on-campus—have a Moodle site where students can find syllabi, assignments, due dates, learning activities, and other resources for completing their studies. All registered DCC students have access to Moodle, but only to their specific courses. Quicklinks on the site give students easy access to their CrusaderMail (DCC community email), Student Portal, Virtual Bookstore, and Moodle Technical Support. The “Research Links” section on the Moodle course sites provides access to DCC Crawford Library digital resources and the Perlego digital library where many textbooks are available to students. Each site also includes the minimum computer hardware, software, and internet access requirements for successful study through DCC Online.

Moodle Technical Support. Students access support for anything concerning their Moodle course sites through either the form in Moodle Quicklinks or the link shown in the footer of each course site. Hours of service are also posted in the footer (see www.dallas.edu/techsupport).

Microsoft 365. All DCC students enjoy access to Microsoft Office 365, which includes many products helpful in their studies, such as Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Outlook, and Microsoft Edge.

College Email. Each student receives email credentials for CrusaderMail, the official communication channel for anything related to DCC. Students should check their account daily.

Wi-Fi Connectivity.* Students have access to the Internet in and around each campus building through a high-speed wireless network. Students in the resident halls enjoy a hardline Ethernet connection. Before using these resources, students should review the “Dallas Christian College Acceptable use Policy of Technology Resources” found in the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Computer Lab.* Students may use the computer workstations in the library for research and schoolwork. During busy seasons, the staff may enforce time limits to allow other students to use the stations.

General Helpdesk Technical Support. Students may contact technical support to resolve any issues related to their Microsoft account, login credentials, Wi-Fi, computer lab systems, and any public television sets on campus. They should email support@tridentdt.com to request assistance. Students are responsible for maintaining their personal hardware and for backing up their data.

Minimum System Requirements. The most demanding software used at DCC is Logos® Bible Software. Logos® system requirements are available online (<https://support.logos.com/hc/en-us/articles/360007506971-Logos-Minimum-System-Requirements>). Devices that meet these requirements are adequate for handling all computing technology at the College.

For DCC Online students, the College highly recommends that students secure a webcam, microphone, and headset since some assignments and communications require them.

Acceptable Use Policy. DCC’s policy on “Acceptable Use of Technology” appears in the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Academic Support Services. DCC provides an array of academic services to assist students in their journey of learning and growth:

Textbooks and Course Resources. DCC works to keep the costs of textbooks as low as possible and to make them as accessible as possible. Toward this end, the College provides three major sources for students to access textbooks:

Logos® Bible Software. Every student is provided a license to use Logos® Bible Software. Students purchase this software through four $80 course fees spread across an orientation course and three Bible courses. After making the fourth payment, students are given the license permanently, which provides them with a library of 250 digital books and software tools they can use as they fulfill their calling. Logos® Bible Software serves as either the only course resource or as a major resource in freshman and sophomore Bible courses, as well as in later, more advanced courses. The software can be used on a computer, tablet, or smartphone. It does not run on Chromebooks except through the more limited Biblia.com website (<https://biblia.com>).

Perlego Digital Library. Each student is also provided a license to the Perlego digital library. Perlego gives students access to over one million digital volumes anywhere and anytime, including over one-third of all required textbooks for courses at DCC. Students should verify that a required course text is not in Perlego before purchasing it. Each year, the $125 Library and Course Resource fee covers this license for registered students.

Online Bookstore. If needed textbooks or resource are not found in Logos® or Perlego, students may visit the Dallas Christian College Online Bookstore to make those purchases. For most textbooks, the Bookstore gives students the option of choosing new texts, used texts, e-books, or rentals. Full instructions appear on the Bookstore website (<https://dallas.ecampus.com>).

Students should plan to spend $250-350 per term for books and resources not available in Logos® or Perlego. Students receiving financial aid and choosing to use those funds for bookstore purchases must request a book allowance in the Financial Aid Office or by e-mail (fa@dallas.edu). Book allowances may only be used to purchase materials on the DCC Online Bookstore site (<https://dallas.ecampus.com>). Students who do not receive financial aid, or who choose not to use financial aid funds, can make their purchases using a credit card or check. Students may also sell books back to the Online Bookstore through the website.

While at DCC, students are encouraged to take every opportunity to develop a personal library for use in future work and Christian service. Therefore, in addition to course-related texts and Logos®, students are encouraged to purchase titles recommended by professors for additional study.

Academic Advising. Faculty are assigned to students as academic advisors to help plot a path through a degree program that serves each student's specific goals and needs. Faculty advisors help students choose courses that best meet their professional goals, help them finish their degree faster, and provide the wisdom of an experienced professional in the field.

Registrar Services. The Registrar's Office complements the faculty advisor by highlighting details such as when a particular required course or prerequisite will be offered. The staff stand ready to assist with any kind of enrollment issues or adjustments a student needs. The Registrar's Office helps first time students get registered in the correct course for the desired degree program.

Transcript Requests. The Registrar also maintains student records, including their official transcripts. Students and alumni may obtain electronic copies of their official transcripts through DCC's partnership with the Parchment service provider. Instructions and the Transcript Request form appear on the College website (www.dallas.edu/transcript). Parchment charges a $10 fee for each transcript and delivers them almost instantly to those whom the student designates (e.g., other colleges and graduate schools, employers, themselves).

Students may also obtain free paper copies of their official transcripts by sending a written request to the Registrar (registrar@dallas.edu) or visiting the Registrar's Office. DCC releases transcripts only if students have settled all financial accounts with all departments of the College.

Library Services. Located on the first floor of the Academic Building, the Crawford Library and Student Learning Center honors the memory of Dr. Cecil Clement Crawford who, with his wife Helen, joined the DCC faculty in 1967. Dr. Crawford was a scholar, educator, preacher, writer, and popular professor during his years at DCC. Mrs. Crawford worked in the Library. Before his death in January 1976, Dr. Crawford donated his personal library to the College.

Philosophy. When Dallas Christian College began to expand into the online learning arena, it made the strategic decision to prefer electronic learning resources over physical resources. Electronic resources are now considered the College's primary library collections. The library staff has shifted its primary focus from development and maintenance of the physical collection to facilitating use of electronic learning resources. A copy of the Library's mission, goals, and objectives is available from the Director.

Library Resources. The first floor of Crawford Library houses nearly 5,000 print volumes consisting of new acquisitions, reference materials, and course reserve textbooks. The second-floor archive room houses nearly 23,000 older print volumes available to students upon request. Electronic collections give students access to 27,000 electronic books, 3,000 full-text electronic journals, and over 60 online research databases, including EBSCO Journals & eBooks, the Perseus Digital Library, Project Gutenberg, ProQuest Religion, and many more. As noted above under "Textbooks and Course Resources," all DCC students also receive licenses to use Logos® Bible Software and the Perlego Digital Library. Together, these resources give DCC students and faculty access to literally millions of books, full-text journal articles, and other resources. Both online and on-campus users can access them at any time and from anywhere with an Internet-connected device. They access the library catalog and resources through their Moodle course sites or directly through the library website (<http://opac.dallas.edu>).

Library Partners. Students and faculty also benefit from DCC's partnership with the nearby Manske Library in Farmers Branch, Texas. Through Manske, students gain access to additional physical books and the TexShare digital databases of journals and ebooks.

Library Staff and Research Assistance. Ms. Nicole Burton, M.S.L.S. serves as Director of the Crawford Library and Assistant Registrar (nburton@dallas.edu; 214-453-8100). She leads a team of trained student workers.

Library Handbook. Detailed policies concerning library use and services appear in the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Research Assistance. On-campus and commuting students can access research assistance in person during library service hours. All learners, including DCC Online students, can get library help through email (library@dallas.edu) or telephone (972-241-3371, ext. 8109).

Student Learning Center. DCC's Student Learning Center is located inside the Crawford Library and managed by Ms. Lorice Perry, M.Ed., the Student Success Coach (email: lperry@dallas.edu; telephone: 972-241-3371, ext. 8119). The Center provides a variety of services:

Computer Lab. Students may use the computer workstations in the Crawford Library and Student Learning Center library for research and schoolwork. Wireless access is available for students' personal laptops and devices. The Center also contains a printer/photocopier students may use free of charge.

Tutoring Services. The Student Success Coach and her team of Upper Division student tutors serve both on-campus and DCC Online learners. They assist students with organizing their academic calendar, time management, editing papers, and other study skills.

They conduct group study sessions with, for example, an entire athletic team. They offer group tutoring for specific courses (e.g., Math, English). One-on-one sessions are also available upon request.

Testing Services. The Success Coach also proctors tests for professors. If students cannot take a test for one of their courses at the scheduled time, they may—with the instructor's permission—schedule a time to take it in the Student Learning Center. Students must complete the entire test in one sitting and within the scheduling constraints of the Learning Center.

Financial Services. The Student Accounts Manager (kdonathan@dallas.edu) and Financial Aid/ Veterans Affairs Director (jstjuste@dallas.edu) stand ready to advise and assist students with matters related to their student accounts and financial aid.

For example, they regularly do mandatory loan entrance and loan exit counseling to help students avoid delinquency and default on their educational loans.

Counseling Services. The Dallas Christian College faculty and staff (Vice President of Student Development and Enrollment Management, Director of Student Life and Engagement, Counseling Coordinator, Resident Hall Coordinators, and others) are readily accessible and willing to offer informal academic and/or personal counseling for individuals or groups of students. Professional counselors are available for a limited number of sessions free of charge unless students fail to keep the appointment, in which case they bear the expense. Counseling sessions are conducted under the highest standards of excellence and confidentiality. For more information, see the “Counseling and Guidance” section of the Student Handbook and the “Student Services” page on the website (<http://www.dallas.edu/student-resources>). To schedule an appointment, students should submit a Counseling Request Form available on the College website (www.dallas.edu/counseling-request).

Disability Support Services. Dallas Christian College is committed to providing qualified students with disabilities an equal opportunity to access a DCC education through the provision of reasonable and appropriate accommodations and support services. Accordingly, the College complies with Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 and the subsequent reauthorization of that act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and subsequent amendments to that act.

All required instructional videos are close-captioned for the hearing impaired. The Moodle course management system, used for all DCC Online and on-campus courses, includes optimizations for the visually impaired and meets accessibility standards for screen readers. A current Moodle accessibility compliance report is available on request from the associate academic dean (blong@dallas.edu).

Students should contact the Registrar (registrar@dallas.edu) for more information and to discuss their individual needs. It is the student’s responsibility to inform their instructors of any accommodations granted by DCC.

Additional Support Services
Primarily for Residential and Commuter Students at DCC’s Farmers Branch Campus

Alongside the support services offered to all students (see above), Dallas Christian College provides additional services to meet the needs of on-campus residential and commuter students at its Farmers Branch campus. For official policies and the most up-to-date information on student services, spiritual life, athletics, residence life, and other aspects of campus living, see the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources) and the Student Development website (<https://www.dallas.edu/studev>).

Holistic Student Development. Dallas Christian College, by its very nature, provides a twofold environment: First, it is a Christian college where men and women prepare themselves to serve God as His ambassadors. Second, it is a family composed of students, staff, faculty, and administration. Since Christianity demands development of the whole person, DCC provides opportunities for holistic growth.

All DCC facilities, activities, and educational opportunities rest on the conviction that people preparing for service should “grow in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and men” (Luke 2:52). Therefore, in training the whole person, DCC emphasizes physical, intellectual, spiritual, and social development.

A basic goal of education at DCC is the development and growth of the higher qualities of life in every student. As a foundation of this goal, DCC encourages students to exemplify Christ in all aspects of life—in attitudes, principles, and behavior.

The College aims to keep DCC as free as possible from any destructive elements that might hinder the best possible growth in Christian maturity and service. Students assume responsibility for abiding by the regulations of the College and for using discretion relative to any activities which may be spiritually or morally destructive. Use of illicit drugs, alcohol, tobacco, electric cigarettes, or any smoking device is not permitted.

Facilities. Near the center of DCC’s 22-acre campus, the three-story Academic Building houses classrooms, lecture halls, the library and student learning center, computer labs, choir room, chapel, mailroom, faculty and administrative offices, and other spaces designed to support the academic endeavor.

The remaining four buildings provide a nucleus for social development by fostering community:

Single men live in Newland Hall and single women in Winslow Hall.

The Worley Student Life Center offers students a place to fellowship, study, and experience opportunities for mentoring. It features a large screen media center, games and entertainment, and a lounge area where students can relax from the rigors of study with a cup of coffee. The adjoining cafeteria provides meals to meet a variety of tastes. Both food and atmosphere promote fellowship among students and faculty.

The Redman Gymnasium includes a basketball court, volleyball courts, and dressing rooms. Outside are well-kept baseball and soccer fields, a sand volleyball court, and other fields for general athletic activities.

These physical resources greatly facilitate DCC's mission to "educate and mentor students to be people of influence, engaging in their calling to the work of Christ in the Church and in the world."

Housing. All single students under age 20 not staying with parents or guardians must live in one of the campus residence halls, sharing together in this facet of the DCC community. Students desiring to live off campus must apply to the Director of Student Life and Engagement.

Each air-conditioned room is designed for two students, with two-room suites sharing private bath and toilet facilities. Student furnish their own linens, are responsible for the care and appearance of their room, and share in the general housekeeping of the residence hall. Televisions and refrigerators are allowed. If available, private rooms require permission from the Residence Hall Coordinator and are provided at added expense.

DCC residence halls foster a culture unique to young men and women. Accordingly, DCC does not permit students over 26 years of age to live in the residence halls. The Residence Hall Coordinator and the Director of Student Life and Engagement may make exceptions under certain circumstances. Generally, however, students older than 26 years of age should make alternative housing arrangements. For more on "Residence Life," see the DCC website (www.dallas.edu/residence-life). Policies and practices governing "Residence Hall Living" appear in the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Food Service. The College cafeteria serves three meals per day, Monday through Friday, with a continuous food program throughout the day. In addition, a late-night meal is served on two Tuesday nights per month. No meals are scheduled when classes have been dismissed for announced holidays. The last meal served before a holiday is lunch. Students living in the residence halls are required to be on the full meal plan. Policies and practices governing "Cafeteria Use" appear in the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Developing Christian Influence Program (DCI). DCC is a place for growing in relationship with God. Campus life outside the classroom plays just as important a role in the spiritual growth of students as what happens in the classroom. DCC strives to provide an environment to enhance such growth. Chapel services and Christian Community events are held weekly for daytime students.

Christian service is central for “people of influence, engaging in their calling to the work of Christ in the Church and in the world.” Dallas Christian College thus requires all students taking six or more credit hours to enroll in CHRS 1000 Developing Christian Influence, which involves active engagement in Christian service. Such ongoing service is a requirement of the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE), DCC’s institutional accrediting body.

CHRS 1000 Developing Christian Influence (DCI) includes three components for both traditional on-campus students and non-traditional DCC Online students. Requirements for each component vary depending on the student’s degree program and the online or on-campus modality in which they complete the majority of their courses.

- First, all students must participate actively in their face-to-face community of faith. Traditional students are required to attend DCC chapel services and mentoring sessions held on campus each week. Non-traditional students are required to attend church services and reflect on how they are applying what they learn at DCC to their faith community.
- Second, students are required to complete and report their Christian service hours throughout their tenure at DCC. Opportunities abound for involvement in church-based service (e.g., Bible study classes, surveys, visitations, youth groups, and student preaching) and community service (e.g., hospital visitation, working with underprivileged youth, rest homes, and special programs).
- Third, traditional students are required to participate in Serve Days organized each semester by the Student Development Office. DCC Online students are welcome to participate in these activities but should notify the Student Development Office prior to the event.

A record of each student’s service is kept. Such ongoing involvement in Christian service is required for graduation from DCC, as indicated in each academic program description in this catalog. These Christian service requirements may at first seem above and beyond the necessary academic studies, but they lie at the very heart of DCC’s mission to prepare “people of influence, engaging in their calling to the work of Christ in the Church and in the world.” There is no better way to apply material learned in the classroom than to serve regularly while at DCC.

A Spiritual Life Committee guides these initiatives. For more information on the Developing Christian Influence (DCI) program, see the DCC Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources) and the “Spiritual Life” page on the College website (www.dallas.edu/spiritual-life).

Outreach. Dallas Christian College is committed to serving both the worldwide Church and local churches. Many opportunities are available for students to preach, teach, lead in worship, and gain valuable leadership experience. Summer outreach teams travel throughout the summer months. Ministry Teams are available for students to join on a voluntary basis. Students who travel with Ministry Teams put into practice what they have learned through leading in worship services and teaching classes in churches throughout the Southwest. Many students gain practical experience by engaging in summer-long, semester-long, year-long, or extended field experiences in the form of for-credit internships and practica, or non-credit ministry service. Each semester, students, faculty, administration, and staff join in a campus-wide Serve Day, meeting community needs together.

Student Government. Students sponsor many activities and projects during the academic year. Socials, intramural competitions, assemblies, and other events are planned and carried out by the student body led by its elected student government. The student government provides valuable assistance in the operation of campus-hosted social and ministry events. Members also serve as a sounding board for students and an advisory panel for DCC administration. Officers and representatives elected by the student body help make DCC a community of involved, committed, and joyful Christians.

Music and Worship. Worship at Dallas Christian College is centered around a corporate experience that forms and shapes the individual worshiper into the likeness of Christ. It is assumed that worship moves from the classroom to Chapel, and then into the local community and the world.

Music is an important element in life, worship, evangelism, and personal growth. Toward that end, DCC encourages the development of musical abilities and worship-leading skills. The Worship Arts program is designed to equip students to lead others in worship and to communicate God's story effectively while growing personally in one's relationship with God.

The DCC Concert Choir, open to all students, presents messages in a variety of song genres while increasing musical skills. The Concert Choir performs in various Chapel services, at weekend performances scheduled throughout each semester, and in DCC's Commencement program each May.

All students are encouraged to participate in leading weekly Chapel services whether that involves sharing one's musical gifts or leading through prayer, Scripture reading, personal testimony, spoken word, or other forms of worship expression.

Athletics. Development of the whole person involves the body as well as the mind. DCC therefore offers a variety of both indoor and outdoor physical activities. Athletic facilities on campus include sports fields and a gymnasium. Through intramurals, campus tournaments, and social activities, DCC students have many opportunities to stay physically active and fit.

Dallas Christian College is a member of the National Christian College Athletic Association (NCCAA). DCC competes in intercollegiate Men's Baseball, Men's and Women's Basketball, Men's and Women's Cross Country, Men's and Women's Golf, Men's and Women's Soccer, Women's Softball, and Women's Volleyball. Through such avenues, students have opportunities to use their athletic skills to minister to each other and to their opponents.

All students participating in varsity sports (including team managers) must enroll for credit in PHED _11_ Team Sports. For more information, see DCC's official athletics website (<https://dccsports.com>).

Athletic Eligibility. DCC requires student athletes to provide proof of an updated student athlete physical. When determining the eligibility of student athletes, Dallas Christian College follows the NCCAA eligibility guidelines in effect for a given semester.

Because student athletes are first students, and because they represent the College, DCC reserves the right to (1) enact additional and/or more rigorous standards for eligibility; (2) require academic mentoring as needed; and (3) suspend players from participation in practice sessions, specific games, or sets of games on the grounds of (a) poor attendance in one or more courses, (b) poor academic progress in one or more courses, (c) poor attendance in CHRS 1000 Developing Christian Influence, or (d) behavior that violates standards set in the Student Handbook and constitutes grounds for disciplinary action by the Student Conduct Committee.

Poor attendance in CHRS 1000 Developing Christian Influence is determined after the third week of the semester. Student athletes who have missed more than 25% of the chapel services for a given semester will be ineligible until their attendance improves to above that threshold.

Health Services. As part of DCC’s ongoing effort to encourage students to maintain a healthy lifestyle, the College has adopted the requirements and recommendations described below:

Immunizations. To ensure a safe, healthy environment for living, studying, and serving—and in accordance with Texas state law (Chapter 21, Subchapter T, Sections Â§Â§21.612, 21.613, 21.614)—DCC requires all new students under 22 years of age (including transfer students) to receive a bacterial meningitis vaccination no later than 10 days prior to moving into a residence hall and/or attending on-campus classes. Every new resident under 22 years of age must provide proof of vaccination as part of the admissions process. No new resident will be permitted to move in without the required vaccination documentation.

The College strongly recommends several additional tests or immunizations for Tuberculosis (TB); Hepatitis A and B; Influenza (flu); Measles, Mumps, and Rubella (a 2-dose MMR—required for international students); Tetanus, Diphtheria, and Pertussis (Tdap); and Varicella (chicken pox). For details, see “Health Concerns” and related policies found in the DCC Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources).

Health Insurance. Dallas Christian College recommends that all students carry personal health insurance. DCC will not assume financial liability for medical treatment and hospital services. Most students are protected for medical and hospital claims through family insurance programs. For students not covered under such a plan, information regarding health insurance options is available in the Student Development Office. Premium payments are the responsibility of the individual student.

DCC requires all students participating in intercollegiate athletics to show proof of health insurance coverage in an accident and hospitalization program before being allowed to engage in athletic competition. For more information, contact the Student Development Office.

Student Grievance Policy. A detailed explanation of the College’s grievance policy appears in the Student Handbook (www.dallas.edu/student-resources). It covers academic and non-academic grievances, along with formal and informal resolution processes. The Handbook also includes a section on the “Legal Rights of Students.”

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS AND PROGRAM COMPETENCIES

Course Descriptions. Courses currently taught by Dallas Christian College appear below in alphabetical order. Each course description includes (1) a course prefix identifying the curricular area; (2) course number in which the first digit indicates course level, the second digit identifies the number of credit hours, and the third and fourth digits differentiate courses; (3) course name; (4) number of semester credit hours; (5) a short description of course content; (6) prerequisites as applicable; and (7) any other special considerations regarding the course.

A Texas Common Course Number (TCCN) indicates courses transferable to Dallas Christian College from other Texas schools (and vice-versa), assuming that the course is applicable to the student's degree plan and meets all other transfer requirements.

Regarding course level: The DCC curriculum intentionally moves students from lower level (1000, 2000) toward higher level (3000, 4000) and then graduate levels (5000, 6000) of intellectual activity and professional skill. 1000-level courses are generally taken by freshmen, 2000-level courses by sophomores, 3000- and 4000-level courses by juniors and seniors, and 5000- and 6000-level courses by graduate students. For further explanation see "Lower versus Upper Division Courses" in the section of this catalog providing an "Introduction to Academics" at DCC.

Courses and their descriptions may change, be added, or be deleted without notice through normal academic processes. The College reserves the right to withdraw any scheduled course with insufficient registration. Not all courses described in the following pages are offered each year. See academic advisors for help with navigating the course schedule.

Program Competencies. DCC offers some degree programs on a Competency-Based Education (CBE) model. To earn these degrees, students do not pass courses but demonstrate required professional competencies. In the following list, program competencies are interspersed among the course descriptions. EXSC: EXERCISE SCIENCE

EXSC 1310 Sports and Recreation Leadership (3 credits)

This course introduces sports and recreation leadership as an academic major, a professional endeavor, and a spiritual calling. The course begins with a brief survey of DCC degree programs in this field and related career opportunities. Students reflect on biblical/theological perspectives on lifetime health and wellness, including care of the body as a “temple of the Holy Spirit” meant for “glorifying God” (1 Cor 6:19-20). They also consider ways sport and fitness leaders have promoted Christ and influenced people through sports ministries, health programs, mission outreach, and organizations such as the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, the Association of Church Sports and Recreation Ministers, and the National Christian College Athletic Association (NCCAA) of which DCC is a member. The course focus then shifts to principles of leadership, including major theories, concepts, skills, and practical applications. Students analyze leadership styles of effective sport and fitness coaches and managers in the context of their times and settings. DCC strongly recommends that students consult with their academic advisor and financial aid counselor prior to adding courses—and especially before dropping or withdrawing from courses. Depending on a student’s individual circumstances and financial aid package, dropping or withdrawing from a course could lead to loss of (1) full-time student status, (2) satisfactory academic progress, (3) current or future financial aid eligibility, (4) scholarships, (5) VA benefits, (6) on-campus housing, (7) athletic eligibility, and/or (8) work-study hours. It could (9) cause DCC to remove financial aid funds from the student’s account and return them to the government, and/or (10) trigger student repayment of loans.*
